* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the ... The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The ... mean of the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question ... station. In the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Saturday, the 23rd of February 1895.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rain fall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·10 in. of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 26th February 1895.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 23RD OF FEBRUARY 1895.

At the close of the previous week fine settled weather of about normal character for the season prevailed in Bengal. On the 17th, or the first day of the week under review, the changes were unimportant except in the western districts, where a brisk fall of pressure had occurred, though elsewhere the fall was slight. Generally also temperature had increased, but fine settled weather usually continued. On the 18th a rapid and rather remarkable increase of pressure occurred, the increase ranging up to nearly a sixth of an inch at Jalpaiguri, and pressure became in moderate excess. A very rapid increase of temperature and humidity also occurred, and skies clouded over quickly, though rainfall continued absent. On the 19th a further moderate to brisk increase of pressure occurred, while the temperature and humidity changes were variable, a fall being reported in the west of the province and an increase at the central, eastern and northern stations. On the 20th, again, pressure increased, but more slowly than on the previous two days, and pressure became in excess by amounts ranging up to about a seventh of an inch in the western districts. A brisk fall of temperature and humidity occurred on this day, and in the hills weather was disturbed, as Gnatong received about seven inches of snow, while light rain fell at Darjeeling. In the plains, however, weather continued fine and settled. On the 21st the changes were small and unimportant, and about half the stations reported increasing pressure and half decreasing pressure, and similarly in the case of temperature. Weather was again fine and settled over practically the whole reporting area. On the 22nd a moderate to brisk fall of pressure had occurred, but pressure was still in large excess, while temperature had usually risen by about a degree or a degree and-a-half. The sky was somewhat clouded at the western stations, but weather continued fine and settled. On the 23rd, or the last day of the week, pressure had generally risen slowly, but it was still in excess by amounts averaging about a tenth of an inch, while the mean temperature was still below the normal, usually by about 1° to 2°. Steady westerly and northerly winds prevailed over the whole province, and fine, settled weather still prevailed. Hence for practically the whole week north-east monsoon conditions have prevailed over the province.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has therefore been in rather considerable excess in all districts, the usual excess ranging between 0·06″ and 0·09″, and the excess being largest at the western stations.

Temperature.—The average mean temperature for the week has been 1·1° above the normal, the excess having been largest in North Bengal and Bihar, where it has equalled about 2°.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the normal temperature of the present season, are clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The variations, it will be seen, have been generally moderate in the day or maximum temperatures, which have been usually about a degree in excess. In the case of the minimum or night temperatures three stations report rather considerable excess amounts, and the remainder moderate to considerable defects, so that the variation in the mean temperature at the nine stations is not very large in amount :—

Table showing the excess or defect of the actual mean temperature from the normal for the week ending Saturday, the 23rd of February 1895.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Mr. R. G. Hand, Certificated Master under the Inland Steam-Vessels Act

No. 25.—Marine.—The following Regulations for the admission of locally selected candidates into the Bengal Pilot Service at Calcutta have been sanctioned by the Government, and are published for general information :—

REGULATIONS FOR THE ADMISSION OF LOCALLY SELECTED CANDIDATES INTO THE BENGAL PILOT SERVICE AT CALCUTTA.

1. In any year in which a local candidate is to be appointed to the Bengal Pilot Service, a competitive examination will be held in the month of March, and six months' prior notice of the examination will be published by the Local Government. The number of vacancies available for local candidates shall also be declared, and they will be filled up by the successful candidates in order of merit; but no local candidate shall be appointed who does not satisfy the Examiners, or who in other respects does not come up to the requirements of the following rules.

2. Candidates must be not less than 18, or more than 22 years of age, and descended from European or Eurasian parents domiciled in India. They must produce a Board of Trade or Colonial Certificate of Competency as a 2nd Mate or any higher grade.

3. Every candidate must produce a medical certificate of good health and physical fitness to work as a Pilot in a tropical climate, and also satisfactory evidence as to his moral character. Every passed candidate will, before appointment, be required to undergo a further examination as to his physical fitness by the Medical Board sitting at Calcutta, and will not be appointed unless the Board certifies him to be in all respects physically fit to work as a Pilot on the Hooghly.

4. He must have served at sea for four years in a merchant sailing vessel of not less than 300 tons register, employed in the foreign trade, as a seaman or apprentice, and must produce satisfactory certificates from the masters he has sailed under.

5. Before being admitted to examination, the candidate will have to satisfy the Examiners that he has passed the examination laid down for the sixth standard (middle) of the Code of Regulations for European schools in Bengal, or that he has passed the Calcutta University Entrance Examination. Candidates will be examined in Navigation and Seamanship up to the standard of a 2nd Mate in the Merchant Service.

6. He will on being appointed to the service receive Rs. 100 per mensem.

7. A Leadsman Apprentice will go through such a course of training and pass such examinations as Government may from time to time prescribe. He will whilst in this grade receive a salary of from Rs. 100 to Rs. 150 a month in accordance with the duty on which he is employed. He will also receive such share of the lead money paid by the ships in which he does duty as may from time to time be fixed by Government.

8. After five years' service as a Leadsman Apprentice he will be allowed to go up for examination to qualify him for appointment as a Mate Pilot, but he will only be promoted to that grade on the occurrence of a vacancy.

9. After three years' service as Mate Pilot, he will be permitted to go up for examination for Master Pilot, and on passing that examination he will be promoted to be Master Pilot as vacancies occur in that grade.

10. Vacancies which occur in the grade of Branch Pilot will be filled up by promotion from the Master Pilots' grade.

11. Members of the Pilot Service who enter the service under these rules are not entitled to any salary while on pilotage duty. They receive as their remuneration a share, at present 50 per cent., but liable to alteration at the discretion of Government, of the pilotage dues paid by ships piloted by them. They are entitled to allowances while on leave or special duty, and to pensions on retirement from the service.

12. Every member of the Pilot Service is subject to the rules made from time to time by the Government in regard to discipline, leave, leave allowances, number of officers in the service, distribution into grades, tonnage of ships to be allotted to the several grades, &c., and in all respects he is amenable to such orders as may be passed by Government for the regulation of the service.

13. Government reserves to itself the right to require all pilots to obtain a Home Trade Master Mariner's certificate before they are promoted to be Senior Master Pilots.

No. 26.—Notification.—The following notification by the Government of Bengal, No. 109 Marine, of the 26th November 1894, is republished for general information, and it is also hereby notified that the first local appointment as a Leadsman Apprentice under the revised rules published in this Department Notification No. 25 Marine, of date 4th March 1895, will be made in March 1897 :—

The 26th November 1894.

No. 109 Marine.—With reference to this Department Notification No. 40 Marine of the 23rd May 1893, stating that no appointment to the Bengal Pilot Service would be made locally in 1896, it is hereby notified that one appointment as a Leadsman Apprentice will be offered for competition in the year 1897. Candidates appearing for examination must be not less than 18 or more than 22 years of age, and will be required to produce a Board of Trade or Colonial certificate of competency as a 2nd Mate or any higher grade. Candidates must be descended from European or Eurasian parents permanently domiciled in India, and have passed the examination laid down for the sixth (middle) standard in the Code of Regulations for European schools in Bengal or the Calcutta University Entrance examination. Candidates will be examined in navigation and seamanship up to the standard of a 2nd Mate in the Merchant Service. From 1897 onwards there will probably be one appointment as a Leadsman Apprentice in alternate years only.

The 5th March 1895.

No. 27 Marine.—It is hereby notified that, under the provisions of section 10 of the Calcutta Port Act, 1890, Mr. S. Finney is reappointed to be a Commissioner of the Port of Calcutta, with effect from the 5th March 1895.

No. 28*Marine.*—In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 18 of the Calcutta Port Act, 1890, and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to authorize the Commissioners of the Port of Calcutta to raise a debenture loan of one lakh and fifty thousand rupees, bearing interest at 4 per cent. per annum and repayable in thirty years, for the extension of the petroleum depôt at Budge-Budge.

2. The Notification of this Department, No. 110Marine, dated the 26th November 1894, published at Part I, page 1196 of the Calcutta Gazette of the 28th idem, is hereby cancelled.

Wanted.

CANDIDATES are invited to submit applications for the appointment of District Engineer to the District Board of Faridpur. The salary of the post is Rs. 200 a month rising annually by increments of Rs. 10 monthly to Rs. 250 a month. Applications will be received till 16th March 1895, and they should be submitted in sealed and registered covers superscribed "Application for appointment of District Engineer." Each application must be accompanied by all the necessary certificates and testimonials, in original, together with a strong envelope addressed and sufficiently stamped for registration, in which they can be returned in the event of the application being unsuccessful.

A candidate for the appointment must be qualified in one of the manners following, that is to say, he must—

(a) be at the time of seeking employment, or have previously been, a member of the Public Works Department in the grade of Executive or Assistant Engineer, or Sub-Engineer or Supervisor;

(b) hold the degree of Bachelor of Engineering, or be a Licentiate of Engineering of the Calcutta University, or have passed the final examination of the Civil Engineering College at Sibpur, and in any case have been employed on engineering works in a grade corresponding to the grade in the Public Works Department mentioned above for not less than five years, and hold satisfactory certificates of good conduct and efficiency during such employment; and in either case.

(c) hold a certificate from the Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department of the Government of Bengal that his experience, professional attainments, and knowledge of the native language are such as to qualify him for employment as a District Engineer, such certificate having been granted within five years from the time when he seeks such employment.

Each candidate must produce a certificate from a Civil Surgeon that he is physically fit for his outdoor duties and from a District Magistrate that he is able to ride.

Any candidate who already holds the appointment of District Engineer in another district should produce a certificate of approved service from the Chairman of the District Board and the Commissioner of the Division under whom he is employed.

Every candidate must be prepared to join on or before 1st April, if selected.

Besides the salary mentioned above, the selected candidate will get Rs. 50 a month for supervising the works of Government buildings, besides travelling allowance as admissible in the Civil Service Regulations for a second class officer.

Notice.

WANTED a contractor for constructing the proposed General Hospital at Chittagong, the estimated cost of which is Rs. 69,306.

Tenders, in form No. 2, will be received by the undersigned up to 31st March 1895. Tenders in any other form than that prescribed will not be accepted.

Each tender must be accompanied by Government Currency notes (the numbers of which should be noted in the tender) to the value of Rs. 1,300 as earnest-money, without which no tender will be accepted. This sum will be returned to the unsuccessful tenderer, but in the case of the accepted tender will be retained as a portion of the security deposit required by rule 1 of the conditions of contract given in form No. 2.

Every tender must be sent under sealed, registered and insured cover, which must be superscribed "Tender for the General Hospital," and must be addressed "to the District Engineer of Chittagong."

Parties wishing to present their tenders personally will be required to deposit their tenders (duly sealed) in the Tender Box, which will be placed in the District Engineer's office-room.

The contractor will be required to use all materials that may be collected for the work by the District Engineer, the cost price of such materials being deducted from his bill.

The contractor shall supply at his own cost all plant, tools, implements, ladders, cordage, tackle and scaffolding, &c., according to paragraph 20 of the conditions of contract form No. 2.

The District Engineer reserves the right of rejecting all or any of the tenders. The lowest tender will not necessarily be accepted. The tenders should first be submitted in unstamped forms, and should be written afresh on a stamped form before the order of acceptance is finally endorsed on it.

A stamped form will be supplied to the successful tenderer by the District Engineer on application and payment of annas 8.

The abstract of the estimate as well as any further particulars that might be required will be furnished on application.

The work is to be commenced within 30 days from the date of receipt of intimation of the acceptance of the tender, and to be completed by the 31st March 1896.

W. A. SCOTLAND, C.E., District Engineer.

REVISED ADVERTISEMENT.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India. By DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets; &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI, (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

ACT NO. VII OF 1895

An Act to amend certain sections of the Code of Civil Procedure and the Punjab Laws Act, 1872.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend certain sections of the Code of Civil Procedure and the Punjab Laws Act, 1872; It is hereby enacted as follows :— XIV of 1882. IV of 1872.

Code of Civil Procedure.

1. (1) In the third paragraph of section 39 of the said Code, between the words "of any High Court established by Royal Charter" and the words "shall be required," the words "or of the Chief Court of the Punjab" shall be inserted. Amendment of section 39, Act XIV, 1882.

(2) To the said section the following Explanation shall be added, namely :—

"Explanation.—For the purposes of the enrolment of advocates the High Court of Bombay shall be at liberty to treat the Sadr Court of Sind as within the local limits of its jurisdiction."

2. For the first and second paragraphs of section 180 of the said Code the following shall be substituted, namely :— Amendment of section 180, Act XIV, 1882.

"The other party shall then state his case and produce his evidence (if any), and may then address the Court generally on the whole case.

"The party beginning may then reply generally on the whole case."

Punjab Laws Act, 1872.

3. Sections 17 and 18 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, as amended by Act XII of 1878, are hereby repealed. Repeal of sections 17 and 18, Act IV, 1872. IV of 1872.

4. For section 51 of the same Act the following section shall be substituted, namely :— Substitution of new section for section 51, Act IV, 1872.

"51. All rules which the Local Government is empowered to issue under this Act, and all circulars issued by the Chief Court, shall be republished from time to time by the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, and upon such republication shall be arranged in the order of their subject-matter ; and all such alterations or amendments as may have been made since the last preceding publication thereof, or may have become necessary or advisable, shall be embodied therewith ; and upon such republication all such rules and circulars previously issued shall be repealed." Republication of rules and orders.

J. M. MACPHERSON,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

ACT NO. VIII OF 1895.

An Act to amend Act V of 1861 (an Act for the Regulation of Police).

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act V of 1861 (an Act for the Regulation of Police); It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Addition to interpretation-clause, section 1, Act V, 1861.

1. In section 1 of the said Act the following shall be inserted between the interpretations of the words "general police-district" and the word "property," namely:—

"The words 'District Superintendent' and 'District Superintendent of Police' shall include any Assistant District Superintendent or other person appointed by general or special order of the Local Government to perform all or any of the duties of a District Superintendent of Police under this Act in any district."

Amendment of section 7, Act V, 1861, respecting minor punishments.

2. In section 7 of the said Act, in lieu of the words beginning "or fine any police-officer" down to the end of the section, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"or may award any one or more of the following punishments to any police-officer who shall discharge his duty in a careless or negligent manner, or who by any act of his own shall render himself unfit for the discharge thereof, namely:—

(a) fine to any amount not exceeding one month's pay;

(b) confinement to quarters for a term not exceeding fifteen days, with or without punishment-drill, extra guard, fatigue or other duty;

(c) deprivation of good-conduct pay;

(d) removal from any office of distinction or special emolument."

Amendment of section 8, Act V, 1861, respecting certificates and suspension.

3. For the second paragraph of section 8 of the said Act, beginning with the words "Such certificate shall cease to have effect" and ending with the words "officer empowered to receive the same," the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"Such certificate shall cease to have effect whenever the person named in it ceases for any reason to be a police-officer, and, on his ceasing to be such an officer, shall be forthwith surrendered by him to any officer empowered to receive the same.

"A police-officer shall not by reason of being suspended from office cease to be a police-officer. During the term of such suspension the powers, functions and privileges vested in him as a police-officer shall be in abeyance, but he shall continue subject to the same responsibilities, discipline and penalties and to the same authorities, as if he had not been suspended."

Substitution of new section for section 15, Act V, 1861.

4. For section 15 of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely:—

Quartering of additional police in disturbed or dangerous districts.

"15. (1) It shall be lawful for the Local Government, by proclamation to be notified in the official Gazette, and in such other manner as the Local Government shall direct, to declare that any area subject to its authority has been found to be in a disturbed or dangerous state, or that, from the conduct of the inhabitants of such area or of any class or section of them, it is expedient to increase the number of police.

"(2) It shall thereupon be lawful for the Inspector General of Police, or other officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, with the sanction of the Local Government, to employ any police-force in addition to the ordinary fixed complement to be quartered in the area specified in such proclamation as aforesaid.

"(3) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (5) of this section the cost of such additional police-force shall be borne by the inhabitants of such area described in the proclamation.

"(4) The Magistrate of the district, after such enquiry as he may deem necessary, shall apportion such cost among the inhabitants who are as aforesaid liable to bear the same and who shall not have been exempted under the next succeeding sub-section. Such apportionment shall be made according to the Magistrate's judgment of the respective means within such area of such inhabitants.

"(5) It shall be lawful for the Local Government, by order, to exempt any persons or class or section of such inhabitants from liability to bear any portion of such cost.

"(6) Every proclamation issued under sub-section (1) of this section shall state the period for which it is to remain in force, but it may be withdrawn at any time or continued from time to time for a further period or periods as the Local Government may in each case think fit to direct.

"Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, 'inhabitants' shall include persons who themselves or by their agents or servants occupy or hold land or other immoveable property within such area, and landlords who themselves or by their agents or servants collect rents direct from raiyats or occupiers in such area, notwithstanding that they do not actually reside therein."

Addition of new sections after section 15, Act V, 1861.

5. After section 15 of the said Act the following shall be inserted, namely:—

Awarding compensation to sufferers from misconduct of inhabitants or persons interested in land.

"15A. (1) If, in any area in regard to which any proclamation notified under the last preceding section is in force, death or grievous hurt or loss of, or damage to, property has been caused by or has ensued from the misconduct of the inhabitants of such area or any class or section of them, it shall be lawful for any person, being an inhabitant of such area, who claims to have suffered injury from such misconduct, to make, within one month from the date of the injury or such shorter period as may be prescribed, an application for compensation to the Magistrate of the district or of the sub-division of a district within which such area is situated.

"(2) It shall thereupon be lawful for the Magistrate of the district, with the sanction of the Local Government after such enquiry as he may deem necessary, and whether any additional police-force has or has not been quartered in such area under the last preceding section, to—

(a) declare the persons to whom injury has been caused by or has ensued from such misconduct;

(b) fix the amount of compensation to be paid to such persons and the manner in which it is to be distributed among them; and

(c) assess the proportion in which the same shall be paid by the inhabitants of such area other than the applicant who shall not have been exempted from liability to pay under the next succeeding sub-section:

"Provided that the Magistrate shall not make any declaration or assessment under this sub-section unless he is of opinion that such injury as aforesaid has arisen from a riot or unlawful assembly within such area, and that the person who suffered the injury was himself free from blame in respect of the occurrences which led to such injury.

"(3) It shall be lawful for the Local Government, by order, to exempt any persons or class or section of such inhabitants from liability to pay any portion of such compensation.

"(4) Every declaration or assessment made or order passed by the Magistrate of the district under sub-section (2) shall be subject to revision by the Commissioner of the Division or the Local Government, but save as aforesaid shall be final.

"(5) No civil suit shall be maintainable in respect of any injury for which compensation has been awarded under this section.

"(6) Explanation.—In this section the word 'inhabitants' shall have the same meaning as in the last preceding section."

New section substituted for section 16, Act V, 1861.

6. For section 16 of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely:—

Recovery of moneys payable under sections 13, 14, 15 and 15A, and disposal of same when recovered.

"16. (1) All moneys payable under sections 13, 14, 15 and 15A shall be recoverable by the Magistrate of the district in the manner provided by sections 386 and 387 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, for the recovery of fines, or by suit in any competent Court. X of 1882.

"(2) All moneys paid or recovered under sections 13, 14 and 15 shall be credited to a fund to be called 'The General Police Fund,' and shall be applied to the maintenance of the police-force under such orders as the Local Government shall pass.

"(3) All moneys paid or recovered under section 15A shall be paid by the Magistrate of the district to the persons to whom and in the proportions in which the same are payable under that section."

Addition to section 26, Act V, 1861.

7. To section 26 of the said Act the following shall be added, namely:—

"(2) The provisions of section 525 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, shall be applicable to property referred to in this section." X of 1882.

Substitution of new section for section 27, Act V, 1861.

8. For section 27 of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely:—

Confiscation of property if no claimant appears.

"27. (1) If no person shall within the period allowed claim such property, or the proceeds thereof if sold, it may, if not already sold under sub-section (2) of the last preceding section, be sold under the orders of the Magistrate of the district.

"(2) The sale-proceeds of property sold under the preceding sub-section and the proceeds of property sold under section 26 to which no claim has been established shall be at the disposal of Government."

Addition to section 29, Act V, 1861, respecting overstay of leave.

9. In section 29 of the said Act, after the words "for the period of two months" the following shall be added, namely:—

"or who, being absent on leave, shall fail, without reasonable cause, to report himself for duty on the expiration of such leave,".

Substitution of new section for section 30, Act V, 1861.

10. For section 30 of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely:—

Regulation of public assemblies and processions, and licensing of the same.

"30. (1) The District Superintendent or Assistant District Superintendent of Police may, as occasion requires, direct the conduct of all assemblies and processions on the public roads, or in the public streets or thoroughfares, and prescribe the routes by which, and the times at which, such processions may pass.

in any such road, street or thoroughfare, or to form a procession which would, in the judgment of the Magistrate of the district or of the sub-division of a district, if uncontrolled, be likely to cause a breach of the peace, require by general or special notice that the persons convening or collecting such assembly or directing or promoting such procession shall apply for a license.

"(3) On such application being made he may issue a license specifying the names of the licensees and defining the conditions on which alone such assembly or such procession is to be permitted to take place and otherwise giving effect to this section: Provided that no fee shall be charged on the application for, or grant of, any such license.

"(4) He may also regulate the extent to which music may be used in the streets on the occasion of festivals and ceremonies."

Addition of new section after section 30, Act V, 1861.

11. After section 30 of the said Act the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

Powers with regard to assemblies and processions violating conditions of license.

"30A. (1) Any Magistrate or District Superintendent of Police or Assistant District Superintendent of Police or Inspector of Police or any police-officer in charge of a station may stop any procession which violates the conditions of a license granted under the last foregoing section, and may order it or any assembly which violates any such conditions as aforesaid to disperse.

"(2) Any procession or assembly which neglects or refuses to obey any order given under the last preceding sub-section shall be deemed to be an unlawful assembly."

Amendment of sections 32 and 33, Act V, 1861.

12. In section 32 of the said Act, for the word "two," where it first occurs, the word "three," and in section 33 of the said Act, for the word "three" the word "four," shall be respectively substituted.

Amendment of section 34, Act V, 1861.

13. In section 34 of the said Act, after the words "or in any" the words "open place or" shall be inserted, and for the expression "residents and passengers" the expression "residents or passengers" shall be substituted.

Substitution of new section for sections 37, 38, 39 and 40, Act V, 1861.

14. For sections 37, 38, 39 and 40 of the said Act the following section shall be substituted, namely:—

Recovery of penalties and fines imposed by Magistrates.

"37. The provisions of sections 64 to 70, both inclusive, of the Indian Penal Code, and of sections 386 to 389, both inclusive, of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, with respect to fines, shall apply to penalties and fines imposed under this Act on conviction before a Magistrate:

XLV of 1860.

Provided that, notwithstanding anything contained in section 65 of the first-mentioned Code, any person sentenced to fine under section 34 of this Act may be imprisoned in default of payment of such fine for any period not exceeding eight days."

Substitution of new section for section 46, Act V, 1861

15. For section 46 of the said Act the following shall be substituted, namely:—

Scope of Act.

"46. (1) This Act shall not by its own operation take effect in any presidency, province or place. But the Governor General in Council, by an order to be published in the Gazette of India, may extend the whole or any part of this Act to any presidency, province or place, and the whole or such portion of this Act as shall be specified in such order shall thereupon take effect in such presidency, province or place.

"(2) When the whole or any part of this Act shall have been so extended, the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) to regulate the procedure to be followed by Magistrates and police-officers in the discharge of any duty imposed upon them by or under this Act;

(b) to prescribe the time, manner and conditions within and under which claims for compensation under section 15A are to be made, the particulars to be stated in such claims, the manner in which the same are to be verified, and the proceedings (including local enquiries if necessary) which are to be taken consequent thereon; and,

(c) generally, for giving effect to the provisions of this Act.

"(3) All rules made under this Act may from time to time be amended, added to or cancelled by the Local Government."

Saving of orders heretofore issued under section 46, Act V, 1861.

16. All orders heretofore issued by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government under section 46 of the said Act shall, as far as may be, be deemed to have been issued under the new section substituted for the same by the last foregoing section.

J. M. MACPHERSON,
Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

Shoals northward of Banjak islands and near Pulo Simalu (Babi).

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 77 of 1895) of the existence of the undermentioned shoals:—

1. A breaker was seen from H.N.M.S. Benkoelen in about lat. 2° 36′ N., long. 97° 17′ E, northward of Banjak islands.

2. A bank, with a depth of 10 fathoms on it, hard bottom, lies in approximately lat. 2° 34′ N., long. 96° 45′ E.; depths of 17 to 20 fathoms were obtained about half a mile westward of this bank.

3. Vessels should not approach the south-east coast of pulo Simalu within 4 miles, as foul ground and discoloured water extend nearly that distance offshore between Tanjong Lentang and Tanjong Kakat.

4. A shoal, with a depth of 5 fathoms on it, though there may possibly be less water, lies on the west side of pulo Simalu, in a position with Tanjong Lambaja, bearing N. by W. ½ W. (N. 17° W.), distant 4 miles, or approximately in lat. 2° 29½′ N., long. 96° 3′ E.

5. A shoal, on which the sea breaks, lies about 4 miles S.W. ½ S. (S. 42° W.) from the west extreme of Little Simalu, or approximately in lat. 2° 29′ N., long 95° 54′ E.

Amended particulars of Nine-foot rock westward of White rock.

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 19, dated 2nd February last, issued by this Office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 81 of 1895) that the Master of the steam-vessel Shinanogawa Maru reports having discovered a rock, with a depth of 1½ fathoms on it at low water, and 5 to 7 fathoms close around, lying with White rock beacon, bearing N.E. by E. ½ E. (N. 62° E.), distant 3¾ cables; and summit of Humann island, N. by W. (N. 11° W.).

Approximate position, lat. 87° 18′ 30″ N., long. 126° 23′ 55″ E.

This is in all probability the rock on which the French gun-vessel Inconstant struck, as the position was not accurately determined at the time, but was assumed to be with White rock beacon bearing, E. by N. (N. 79° E.), distant 1¼ cables. This latter has therefore been removed from Admiralty Charts.

NOTE.—Mariners are recommended, as stated in China Sea Directory, vol. IV, 1894, page 63, to pass eastward of White rock.

The establishment of Time Signal.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 84 of 1895) that a Time Signal has been established on the Signal tower, Wickham terrace, Brisbane:—

Brisbane Time Signal consists of a ball, which will be dropped daily, except on Sundays and public holidays, being hoisted half-way up at 0h. 55m., close up at 0h. 57m., and dropped by electricity from the Survey Office Observatory at 1h. 0m. 0s., mean time of the meridian of 150° E., equivalent to 15h. 0m. 0s. Greenwich mean time, or 1h. 12m. 6·4s. local mean time.

Should the signal fail in accuracy, the ball will be hoisted half-way up at once, close up at 1h. 57m., and dropped at 2h. 0m. 0s., mean time of the meridian of 150° E.

Should the ball fail to drop, it will be gradually lowered, and be dropped at 2h. 0m. 0s. mean time of the meridian 150° E.

Leading and Signal lights.

With reference to Notices to Mariners No. 211, dated 2nd November 1894, and No. 5, dated 7th January 1895, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 61 of 1895) that, in addition to the lights shown from the extremities of the breakwaters, west red, east green; and from the signal flag-staff (fixed white), which has been moved to a position on the west breakwater, 2,100 feet within the extremity, the undermentioned leading and signal lights are shown at Westport:—

Leading lights for entering the harbour are shown from two beacons, bearing when in line S. by E. ½ E. (S. 17° E.), and situated on the west bank of the river within the breakwater.

The front light, shown from a white beacon, is red whether the bar is safe or unsafe.

The rear light is red when the bar is safe, white when the bar is not safe, and is shown from a white beacon with a red band; this beacon is 50 feet high, and has a semaphore attached, which will be used when required for the guidance of vessels entering or leaving the harbour.

The undermentioned night signals are shown from the signal flagstaff on the western breakwater, in addition to the general bar and danger signals for all New Zealand ports:—

1. The white harbour light only signifies:—Wait.
2. A green light over the white light:—Bar safe for vessels of less than 9 feet draught.
3. Two green lights over the white light:—Bar safe for vessels of 9 feet draught.
4. A green light under the white light:—Bar safe for vessels of 11 feet 6 inches draught.
5. A green light above, and a green light below, the white light:—Bar safe for vessels of 14 feet draught.

The signals to take the bar will be shown from the signal flagstaff on the west breakwater.

Masters of vessels of more than 10 feet draught are requested to signal their draught of water, when arriving off the harbour entrance after half ebb; and of 10 feet draught or less, when arriving at low water.

The two fixed red lights, previously situated at the coal staithes, have been moved to the inner part of the western breakwater, and do not become visible to vessels entering until they are well inside the breakwaters.

Two fixed green lights are shown from the upper wharf on the eastern side at Westport.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Indian Councils Acts, 1861 and 1892.

The Council met at the Council Chamber on Saturday, the 23rd February, 1895.

Present:

The HON'BLE SIR CHARLES ALFRED ELLIOTT, K.C.S.I., Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, presiding.

The HON'BLE SIR CHARLES PAUL, K.C.I.E., Advocate-General.

The HON'BLE H. J. S. COTTON, C.S.I.

The HON'BLE J. G. WOMACK.

The HON'BLE MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR.

THE LEPERS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BOURDILLON moved that the Bill to provide for the segregation of pauper lepers, and the control of lepers exercising certain trades, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble SIR JOHN LAMBERT, the Hon'ble MR. LYALL, the Hon'ble MR. WILKINS, the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE, the Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF and the Mover. He said:—

"I have ascertained that all the gentlemen named are willing to act on the Select Committee, and I trust that after the remarks which I made at the last meeting of the Council, the principles of the Bill may be accepted, and the Select Committee may be entrusted with the duty of working out the details."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

THE LAND RECORDS MAINTENANCE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND moved that the Bill to provide for the maintenance of Records of Rights in Bengal, and for the recovery of the cost of Cadastral Surveys and Settlements be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble MR. LYALL, the Hon'ble MR. WILKINS, the Hon'ble MAHARAJA OF DARBHANGA, the Hon'ble MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM, the Hon'ble MR. DUTT and the Mover.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I beg to move as an amendment to the motion which has just been laid before the Council that the consideration of this question be postponed; and that pending the reference of the Bill to the Select Committee, the reports of the High Court and of the several public bodies which have been received by the Government, be circulated among members. This is a question of the gravest importance; it has excited a considerable measure of interest and attention, and I think members ought to be placed in possession of all the papers which have been received before they are called upon to give their opinion upon the Bill. I take it that this is the first legislative proposal in connection with what is known as the Bihar Cadastral Survey."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I am sorry to interrupt the hon'ble member, but I must point out that it is not open to him to move an amendment at this stage, as he has not given notice of it. The motion before the Council is, that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee, and it will be in his power to vote against that motion. But any amendment which he wished to put should have been submitted beforehand, and brought on the Agenda before it could be considered by the Council."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE continued:—"I do not exactly wish to move an amendment, but I would like to suggest that the consideration of the matter be adjourned. If I am in order that would be the motion which I would like to move for the consideration of the Council. I was going to say that it is impossible to speak of the Bihar Cadastral Survey without adverting for a moment to the feeling which it evoked when it was first started some two or three years ago. That feeling has not yet subsided, and the measure is one which has met with universal and emphatic condemnation among all sections of the community. Neither the friends of the zamindars nor the friends of the raiyats can be persuaded to approve of the measure. Neither the zamindars nor the raiyats want it. If they want it, it is open to them under the provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act to call for a record of rights. The highest officials in the land, having the widest experience of the Province, have condemned the measure. I need only read one or two extracts from some observations made by the Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal a few years back in connection with the cadastral survey. He said:—

'It is well, no doubt, that an independent agricultural record should exist which neither zamindar nor zamindar's amla could transfer. Such a record is very desirable on many grounds, but I see no reason for supposing that it will bring with it a general agricultural settlement or any material increase of rural prosperity. And a similar result has not ensued in those provinces in India in which a survey and record of rights has been accomplished.

It is not fair to compare the North-Western Provinces with Bengal, as other causes have led to the accumulation of wealth in our favoured province; but certainly I do not find any evidence to show that the record of rights has led to the enrichment of the peasantry of Upper India. And I am sure of this, that in Bengal, where, owing partly to the accident of the Permanent Settlement, it has hitherto been the policy of Government to interfere as little as possible with the people, the attempt to make a survey and record of rights will give rise to great local opposition and to excessive litigation, by which many persons who are now well off will be impoverished . . . The evil, I think, will outweigh any administrative advantages derived from it. I venture also to think that most persons who are competent from their knowledge and experience of these provinces to form an opinion on the subject will be found to agree with me in this deliberate conclusion, that a survey and record of rights, if it is calculated to settle disputes where they already exist, is equally calculated, where they do not, to call them into existence.'

"I think the public verdict is, that the evil will greatly outweigh the good to be derived from the survey. The survey is calculated to sow the seeds of dissension between zamindar and raiyat, to foster litigation, and to let loose a class of low, under-paid amins among the most helpless and defenceless section of the community. Further, it will be a matter of considerable expense, for the Bill provides for the imposition of a cess. I will not enter into the question as to whether the imposition of the cess is or is not consistent with the terms of the Permanent Settlement—that is a very wide question, but I do contend that it will be a grievous burden to impose upon the raiyats—more than what they can bear—more than what I venture to think they ought to be called upon to bear, having regard to the benefits, immediate and prospective, likely to be derived from such a survey. It was understood some three years ago, when the survey was started, that it was intended that the Government would bear a substantial share of the cost. Section 19 of the Bill provides for the apportionment of the cost, but that section is absolutely silent as to what proportion the Government should bear of the cost. I am sure that this is a matter which will engage the attention of the Select Committee. I desire to point out that when survey operations of a similar character were taken in hand in the Benares Division of the North-Western Provinces, which is a permanently-settled division, it was the Government that bore the entire cost of the survey. However that may be, I hope the consideration of the matter will be adjourned, and the Council will be in a position to discuss it in the light of the papers and reports which have already been received."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said:—"As regards the request to postpone the consideration of this matter for a fortnight, I beg leave to submit that I agree with the hon'ble gentleman who has last spoken, but I put forward the proposition not in the light of an amendment, but as one likely to offer facilities in the consideration of the subject-matter of the Bill, and to promote the due consideration thereof, regard being had to the gravity and importance of the measure. When this Bill was before the Council on the last occasion it was decided that public opinion should be invited, and no doubt such opinions have been sent in, because we have seen some of them in the public papers; but those opinions, although they are printed in the public papers, are not in a form convenient for the members of the Council to consider along with this Bill. I submit that it is a practical suggestion and a sound one, that papers in connection with a Bill before the Council, which have been received after the Bill has been read in Council, should be furnished to the members of the Council as soon as they are received. I have had very great difficulty in informing myself upon the points upon which opinions have been offered to the Council, and how far those opinions are relevant or sound with reference to the various provisions of the Bill. I therefore support the request that has been made to adjourn this matter for a fortnight. Of course, if it is decided to proceed with this Bill, I shall make such observations upon the general provisions of the Bill, and as regards its details, as I have been enabled to form my opinion upon from such crude materials as I have been able to put together and gather or collect in connection with the question."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"Finding that the feeling of the Council, as expressed by the Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE and the Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF, and supported by other members who have spoken to me, is in favour of adjourning the discussion, I am prepared on the part of Government to agree to it. I think it would be a great pity, if in the minds of members there was any feeling that this question was rushed or hurried more than was desirable. At the same time I must remind them that it is not the ordinary practice to submit papers of this kind to the Council before the passing of the motion which we have met to pass to-day. The papers, as far as they have come in, have been carefully studied by myself and by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, but they are mostly in reference to details. Undoubtedly they also contain remarks more or less bearing upon the principle of the Bill, and that being so, I have great pleasure in acceding to what I understand to be the general wish of the Council, namely, that we should defer the present motion till the next meeting of the Council."

The consideration of this Motion was accordingly postponed.

THE PUBLIC DEMANDS RECOVERY ACT, 1880, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880.

THE BENGAL SANITARY DRAINAGE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to facilitate the construction of drainage works for improving the sanitary condition of local areas.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE COUNCIL.

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"It was suggested by one hon'ble member that a fortnight would be required for the discussion of the Record of Rights Bill. I venture to think that if the papers are circulated at once a week will be enough. Considering the stage which we have reached and the amount of business before the Council, I think it would be desirable to take up the discussion next Saturday. I do not wish to press this against any strong feeling of the Council, but my advice would be that we should take up the discussion next Saturday. The papers will be circulated at once by the member in charge of the Bill."

The Hon'ble MAULVI MUHAMMAD YUSUF KHAN BAHADUR said:—"I ventured to make a request for a fortnight, but if Your Honour does not see your way to grant a fortnight's postponement, we shall accept a week's time. But a week's time might not be sufficient consistently with our other avocations to study the Bill, and these papers might require a longer time. If, however, Your Honour thinks it necessary that the discussion should come on this day week, I do not wish to press the point."

The Hon'ble MR. BONNERJEE said:—"I beg that this discussion should not come on till this day fortnight. The matter is one of very considerable importance, and will require study at the hands of every member of the Council, and the reports of the Select Committee that have been presented to-day will also require very careful consideration, and as the business is to come on one after the other, I do not think a fortnight's time is too long."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"The Council will meet next Saturday. We will then take up the Bill to amend the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880, and we will defer the discussion on the Record of Rights Bill to this day fortnight."

The Hon'ble MAHARAJA SIR LUCHMESSUR SINGH BAHADUR OF DARBHANGA said:—"I thank Your Honour on behalf of the Council for this concession."

The Council adjourned to Saturday, the 2nd March, 1895.

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The mean at the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Saturday, the 2nd of March 1895.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rain fall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·10 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 5th March 1895.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 2ND OF MARCH 1895.

ORDINARY north-east monsoon conditions had prevailed over the whole of Bengal for the previous week. On the 24th of February, or the first day of the present week, conditions were to a great extent unchanged; pressure had risen slowly to moderately over the whole province, and had become in excess by amounts ranging up to 0·15 inch at Jalpaiguri and 0·16 inch at Darjeeling; temperature had also risen in all districts, but the night temperatures were still low, though the maximum or day temperatures were somewhat in excess. Steady northerly winds also prevailed over practically the whole province and weather was fine and rainless, while skies were cloudless except at the southern stations where a moderate amount of cloud prevailed. On the 25th, pressure and temperature had begun to fall slowly, but in other respects there was no practical change. On the 26th, pressure continued to fall briskly to rapidly in Bengal, and the area of maximum pressure, therefore, began to retreat southwards, and pressure was higher on the mid-west coast of the Bay than in Bengal. Hence the conditions favourable for northerly winds began to disappear, and southerly winds were reported at several stations in Bengal, and both the temperature and humidity changes on this day were variable. On the 27th pressure had continued to fall briskly over Bengal, and the distribution had become almost normal, but pressure was still higher on the Madras coast than in South Bengal, and hence southerly winds were reported at a good many stations in the province, and these had caused a rapid increase in humidity at many stations, while temperature had also generally risen. Weather, however, continued fine and settled. On the 28th a reaction occurred, and pressure rose briskly to rapidly over the province, and the highest pressures were again recorded in Bengal and North-East India. Hence the southerly winds blowing in Bengal began to disappear, though temperature again rose, while humidity remained very high. On March 1st, again, pressure rose slowly in Bengal, and it had become in excess by amounts ranging up to more than a tenth of an inch. Ordinary north-east monsoon conditions, therefore, again prevailed over the province, and humidity fell briskly at most stations, while temperature fell slowly at a few. These conditions of fine settled weather with light northerly winds also prevailed on the 2nd of March or the last day of the week, and hence throughout the week weather has again been practically fine and settled, and there has been a complete absence of rain at the stations in the plains.

Pressure.—The average pressure for the week has been in considerable excess in all districts, and the excess usually has ranged from about a twentieth of an inch in South-East Bengal to about 0 08 inch in the north and west of the province.

Temperature.—The average mean temperature for the week has been from one to two and a half degrees in defect in Chota Nagpur, South-West Bengal and Orissa, while it has been nearly normal in East Bengal and Bihar. On the other hand, in North Bengal an excess of more than a degree has been registered. In the whole province a defect of 0·7° has been registered.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the normal temperature of the present season, are clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum, and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The variations, it will be seen, have been generally moderate in the day or maximum temperatures, about half the stations reporting excess temperatures and the remainder defects. In the case of the minimum or night temperatures defects of about 3° to 7° have usually been registered.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION No. 1090.

The 12th March 1895.—The following rules for the affiliation of Technical Schools to the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, are published for general information:—

1. On the recommendation of the Principal of the Sibpur College, and with the consent of the controlling authority of the Institution, the Director of Public Instruction can order the affiliation of any existing Technical School to (a) the Apprentice Department, or (b) the Artizan Class of the Sibpur College.

2. Before affiliation, the Secretary of the school must satisfy the Director of Public Instruction that the school staff and equipment are adequate for the instruction it is proposed to impart.

3. Subject to the condition specified in rule 4, affiliated schools will have the privilege of sending pupils to the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, for further training, as apprentices or artizans, if certified by the District Engineer to be qualified for it.

4. Students of schools affiliated to the Apprentice Department, who have completed their course at such schools, will be admissible to the 2nd-year examination of the Apprentice Department in class work and workshop practice. If they pass the examination, they may either join the 3rd-year class of the Apprentice Department, and continue their studies at Sibpur, or the fact that they passed this examination will be endorsed on the certificate they receive from their own school.

5. Affiliated schools will be supplied with machinery and appliances made at Sibpur at specially cheap rates; such machinery to be returned to the College in the event of the affiliation being cancelled. The original price paid for the machinery, less deductions for wear and tear, will in that case be refunded to the school.

6. All affiliated schools are liable to inspection by the Principal of the Civil Engineering College; and if the school is unfavourably reported on, the affiliation can be cancelled by the Director of Public Instruction, after notice given to the controlling authority of the school.

7. All orders based on the remarks and recommendations of the Principal of the Civil Engineering College after his inspection will be issued by the controlling authority of the school concerned.

8. The affiliation of any school may be cancelled at the request of the controlling authority.

REVISED WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE ORISSA CANALS.

The 6th March 1895.

No. 83.—Notification.—In exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 99 and 78 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Orissa canals. These rules and rates will supersede those now in force.

A draft of the alterations was published in the Calcutta Gazette of the dates noted in the margin, as notification No. 330, dated 6th November 1894:—

The 7th, 14th, 21st and 28th November, and 5th, 12th and 19th December 1894

C. W. ODLING,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

1. The Divisional Canal Officer is responsible for maintaining the canal in an efficient state of repair, for providing drainage channels where necessary, and generally for all engineering work involved in its management, as well as for the distribution of water to lessees. The word "canal" is here used as defined in section 3 of the Act.

2. The Deputy Collector is responsible, except so far as is otherwise expressly provided, for the assessment and collection of water-rates accruing to Government from the canal.

3. Water shall not be distributed otherwise than on the application of a lessee or to a person in whose favour a provisional license under rule 15 has been issued. Such application may be made verbally or in writing to any subordinate in charge of that part of the canal from which water is required.

4. If any lessee apply for water to the Deputy Collector or one of his subordinates verbally, he shall be directed to address himself to an irrigation officer or subordinate. If he makes such an application in writing, his petition shall be forwarded to the Subdivisional Canal Officer in charge of that part of the canal from which the petitioner's village is supplied.

5. The Divisional Canal Officer shall map out the irrigable area into blocks in accordance with the natural features of the ground, and so determine that the whole block shall be irrigable from one outlet or from one set of outlets. So far as may be practicable, the blocks shall be separated by drainage lines.

6. Each block determined as above shall be numbered and recorded with its irrigable area in registers to be maintained by the Divisional and Subdivisional Canal Officers. The blocks shall also be marked on maps to be maintained by the same officers.

7. Leases for not more than seven years may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block, or, subject to the provisions of Rule 13, for definite parts of a block, under the following conditions:—

I.—Ordinarily the whole irrigable area of any village, so far as situated within the block, must be included in the lease. Lands not irrigable by flow may at the discretion of the Canal Officer be excluded; but in that case water will not be supplied to them on a season lease.

II.—When a village is divided by drainage channels into distinct blocks, each block shall be recognized as a separate village for the purpose of this and all other rules under the Irrigation Act.

III.—All leases within one block shall be granted, so that they shall expire on the same date.

IV.—No permit shall be granted when the supply of water must of necessity be delivered across an unleased area, unless a village-channel exists, which in the opinion of the Subdivisional Canal Officer will deliver water without waste across the unleased area.

8. The rates to be charged for water supplied on a long term lease between the 16th of June and the 30th November, whether by flow or lift, to lessees on application shall be—

I.—For a term of seven years—Re. 1-8 per man for each season.

II.—For water supplied on a provisional license for which a permit for a term of years is not subsequently issued—Rs. 3 per man.

III.—Provided that the leases, whether new or renewals, required for shorter terms than seven years in order to develop the system of blocks as explained above (Rule 7-III), shall be charged Re. 1-8 per man only.

IV.—Beali lands included in a long lease are not exempted from assessment, but no charge will be made for water supplied to them in the rabi season, that is, up to 25th March. No special arrangements to supply water will, however, be made.

V.—Low-lying lands forming part of the rice-cultivated area of a village which do not ordinarily benefit by canal water, though requiring irrigation in years of drought, will be charged at one-third of the usual rate, i.e., at eight annas per man for each season. Lands which are so low that they never under any circumstances require water will be altogether excluded from the lease.

9. The rates for water supplied otherwise than on a lease for a term of years are those detailed in schedule I.

10. For the unauthorised use of canal water a rate of Rs. 5 per man or such less rate as may be sanctioned by the Divisional Canal Officer shall be charged.

11. Application for water-leases under section 7a of the Act may be presented to the Subdivisional Canal Officer of the division in which the applicant's land lies, or to the Sectional Officers for transmission to the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

12. Every application for a permit for a term of years shall be in the form, Appendix I, to these rules, provided that a provisional license may be granted, where water is urgently required, on an application in the form, Appendix II. Application for a season lease shall be in the form, Appendix III.

13. A separate application must be presented for each village, but tehsilalaida or other lands lying within the village boundary at the time of survey may be included.

14. Before a permit for a term of years is granted, the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer shall be obtained, but permits for one year only and provisional licenses may be issued with the written assent of the Subdivisional Canal Officer. Subject to the above conditions, permits may be issued by silladars under the orders of the Deputy Collector. A copy of the permit shall on the day of issue be forwarded to the Deputy Collector for transmission to the Divisional Canal Officer.

Existing leases may, with the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer, be extended for not more than three years without enquiry or remeasurement, payments being made in accordance with the existing assessment, modified, if necessary, in accordance with rules 5, 6, 7 and 8.

15. When a water-lease is granted, a permit shall be given to the lessee or lessees in a form similar to that prescribed in Schedule C of the Act. Pending the completion of a lease, the silladar may, with the written consent of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, issue a provisional license for the supply of water to an area covered by an application.

16. The Subdivisional Canal Officer is authorized to supply water for seed beds in a long-term lease before the 20th June, if a supply of water is available in the canal.

17. When it comes to the knowledge of the Subdivisional Canal Officer that canal water has been taken without authority, he shall hold a local investigation and transmit the record thereof to the Divisional Canal Officer. If the Subdivisional Canal Officer considers that water-rates under Rule 10 should be charged, he shall serve each person liable to be assessed with a notice, by post or otherwise, and fix a date for hearing objections. Any objections made shall be recorded. Separate proceedings shall be taken in the case of each village irrigated without authority.

18. On receipt of the record mentioned in Rule 17, the Divisional Canal Officer, after a further enquiry, if he considers one necessary, shall determine whether water-wates can be legally charged, and if so, he shall proceed to assess, subject to the maximum rate provided in Rule 10, the land irrigated without authority. Water-rates shall not be charged where the unauthorized irrigation has occurred through the act, neglect or default of a Canal Officer or subordinate.

19. The statements of the amounts demandable for water-rates leviable under the rules in force shall be prepared under the supervision and signature of the Deputy Collector in such form as shall from time to time be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor. Persons charged under rules 10 and 18 shall be served by the Deputy Collector, by post or otherwise, with a statement showing the amounts charged to enable them to lodge an appeal to the Collector, if they desire to do so. The Collector shall hear and determine any such appeal preferred within thirty days of the issue of the notices specified in this rule. The petition of appeal shall be accompanied either by the notice received or by a copy of the order passed by the Divisional Canal Officer under rule 18.

20. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted, or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Canal Officer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 1st of June next following. The order to cancel a lease shall be passed before the 1st of April of the year in which it takes effect.

21. The rates for water supplied from June to November shall in each season fall due, and shall be paid on the 1st February following, but the Subdivisional Canal Officer may require one-half of the rates due on applications filed after the 1st of September to be paid in advance, and may refuse to issue a permit for more than one year. The rates for water supplied at other times shall be paid on the dates mentioned in schedule I.

22. Water-rates imposed under rules 10 and 18 shall fall due as soon as the assessment is made, and shall be realized after the expiry of thirty days from the despatch of the notices prescribed in rule 19. The Collector may, if an appeal under rule 19 is preferred, direct that the collection of water-rates shall be suspended until the appeal has been heard and decided.

23. The Superintending Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector, direct the Deputy Collector to—

I.—Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of lands in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realizing water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up, and also, if specially so ordered, unless half the amount due under new applications is paid in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

II.—Cancel any lease for a term of years if on the 1st of June of any year water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears.

24. Remission of water-rates, either in whole or part, as the case may require, shall be granted by the Deputy Collector for—

I.—Errors in the assessment of rates, and by the Divisional Canal Officer for—

II.—Injury to the crop on a leased area caused by deficient supply of water, provided a written application for remission has been made 15 days at least before the crop is cut.

25. The Divisional Canal Officer may grant remissions of water-rates, either in whole or part, for injury to the crops on leased areas caused by excess of water due to deficient drainage.

26. The Divisional Canal Officer may commute rates charged under rules 10 and 18 to those chargeable for water supplied on application, provided that a lease either for a term of years or for the season has been subsequently executed for the lands in question.

27. Remissions on other grounds than the above require the sanction of Government.

28. In cases where sums due on account of water-rates cannot be collected owing to the death, bankruptcy, or absconding of the defaulter, the amount which is non-realizable may be written off as irrecoverable on the authority of the Superintending Canal Officer.

29. Before awarding compensation under section 16 of the Act, or making a reference under section 17 of the Act, the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, and his written opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

30. The chaukidar of any village in which lands are leased for a term of years shall be entitled to a remission of water-rates for his holding either as a jaghir or raiyati up to a limit of 3 acres, provided he gives efficient and willing assistance to the Canal Officers in respect to the following matters—

I.—In the preparation of applications for leases.

II.—In the measurements of irrigated lands.

III.—In giving the names of the occupiers of the various fields.

IV.—In receiving demand statements and informing the cultivators of the demands against them.

V.—In receiving tappas from the zilladars and distributing them.

VI.—In being present when complaints are investigated by Canal Officers, and giving information regarding the matters under investigation.

VII.—In reporting to the zilladars any mutations in holdings of persons who have signed a lease for a term of years.

31. Tanks may be filled with canal water without charge wherever water can be made available without injury to the cultivation dependent on a canal, under the following conditions:—

I.—No tank shall be filled unless the water is to be exclusively used for domestic purposes or for watering cattle.

II.—No tank shall be filled from which irrigation is practised.

III.—No tank shall be filled which intercepts any line of drainage, or is liable to overflow from the accumulation of water from natural causes.

IV.—No tank shall be filled except on the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer issued on the written application of the persons concerned.

V.—No tank shall be filled unless the village channel used to convey water to it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Subdivisional Canal Officer to be in a sound condition when the application is made.

VI.—The privilege here accorded may, by the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, be suspended for twelve months for the breach of the above rules.

32. No person shall, without the permission in writing of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass or cause any animal or vehicle to pass on or across any of the works, banks or channels of a canal or drainage work after he has been desired by a notice in writing, served in a registered letter, or as provided in the Civil Procedure Code for the service of summons, to desist therefrom, except by means of such bridges, fords and ferries and their approaches as are provided by the Divisional Canal Officer. A penalty not exceeding rupees twenty may be imposed for a breach of this rule.

33. No officer employed on the Canals, unless especially exempted by the Lieutenant-Governor from the operation of this rule, shall have any interest in the distribution of water from any of the canals, or purchase or bid for any Government property sold thereon, either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly, or in shares with others.

34. Except as provided in the Act and in these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer; but the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the order of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Subdivisional Canal Officer or Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any orders passed by them in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers.

35. In appeals to the Collector under the Act other than those specially provided for in rule 19, the Collector may require the Superintending Engineer to state his opinion in writing, which shall form part of the record of the proceedings in the case.

SCHEDULE I.

Application for granting water prior to issue of permit.

WE, the principal cultivators of mauza pargana , on our own behalf and that of the other cultivators of the mauza, hereby certify that we have presented an application for the execution of a seven-year lease of all the irrigable land in mauza in area about mans.

To enable us to obtain water which we require urgently and at once before the regular permit is issued, we severally and jointly bind ourselves to pay water-rates for the whole area which on measurement shall be found to be included in the block. The water-rate will be Re. 1-8 per man, but in the event of a seven-year lease not being concluded, Rs. 3 per man will be charged and paid by us on or before the 1st February next.

In token of our obligation in this agreement we have annexed our signatures below.

Dated 18

APPENDIX III.

Application for a season lease, kharif, rabi or sugarcane.

WE, whose names are attached, cultivators of mauza , pargana apply for water to be supplied from the ' distributary of the canal, for the irrigation of the areas named below.

2. The approximate area to be irrigated by each cultivator is stated in the schedule following, but each of us agree to pay water-rates at the rate of Rs. per man on the area found to be in his occupation by measurement, with the proviso that only areas actually irrigated will be charged, fractions of a goont exceeding one quarter being charged as a goont. The minimum charge for a holding will be four annas.

3. We agree to prevent water being wasted or used in an unauthorized manner, and to abide by all the rules passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal under the Irrigation Act.

4. We agree to pay the water-rates due on this application on the——————of——————

Advertisement of Sale.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undermentioned plot of land no longer required by Government, situated along the Bengal and North-Western Railway in the district of Saran, will be put up for sale at 12 o'clock on the 30th of March 1895, corresponding with the 19th of Chaitra 1302 F.S. at the Collectorate of Saran.

The purchasers of the plot of land will be subject to the following conditions:—

1*st*.—The purchasers will have no power to make any excavations on the land nearer than fifteen feet from the Railway fencing, or plough the land closer than three feet from its foundations.

2*nd*.—If the amount of purchase-money does not exceed Rs. 100, the whole amount must be paid down at once.

3*rd*.—If the amount of purchase-money exceeds Rs. 100, one-fourth of the amount must be immediately deposited. If the balance be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, or if that day be a close holiday, then by noon of the first succeeding office day, the sale shall be cancelled, the sum deposited being forfeited to Government, and the lot again put up for sale at the risk of the defaulting purchaser, after issue of advertisement, as in the case of the original sale.

4*th*.—The plot of land will be sold revenue-free to the highest bidders.

5*th*.—The purchaser shall be put in possession on receipt by the Collector of the orders of the Board confirming the sales:—

Wanted.

CANDIDATES are invited to submit applications for the appointment of District Engineer to the District Board of Faridpur. The salary of the post is Rs. 200 a month rising annually by increments of Rs. 10 monthly to Rs. 250 a month. Applications will be received till 16th March 1895, and they should be submitted in sealed and registered covers superscribed "Application for appointment of District Engineer." Each application must be accompanied by all the necessary certificates and testimonials, in original, together with a strong envelope addressed and sufficiently stamped for registration, in which they can be returned in the event of the application being unsuccessful.

A candidate for the appointment must be qualified in one of the manners following, that is to say, he must—

(a) be at the time of seeking employment, or have previously been, a member of the Public Works Department in the grade of Executive or Assistant Engineer, or Sub-Engineer or Supervisor;

(b) hold the degree of Bachelor of Engineering, or be a Licentiate of Engineering of the Calcutta University, or have passed the final examination of the Civil Engineering College at Sibpur, and in any case have been employed on engineering works in a grade corresponding to the grade in the Public Works Department mentioned above for not less than five years, and hold satisfactory certificates of good conduct and efficiency during such employment; and in either case.

(c) hold a certificate from the Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department of the Government of Bengal that his experience, professional attainments, and knowledge of the native language are such as to qualify him for employment as a District Engineer, such certificate having been granted within five years from the time when he seeks such employment.

Each candidate must produce a certificate from a Civil Surgeon that he is physically fit for his outdoor duties and from a District Magistrate that he is able to ride.

Any candidate who already holds the appointment of District Engineer in another district should produce a certificate of approved service from the Chairman of the District Board and the Commissioner of the Division under whom he is employed.

Every candidate must be prepared to join on or before 1st April, if selected.

Besides the salary mentioned above, the selected candidate will get Rs. 50 a month for supervising the works of Government buildings, besides travelling allowance as admissible in the Civil Service Regulations for a second class officer.

Notice.

WANTED a contractor for constructing the proposed General Hospital at Chittagong, the estimated cost of which is Rs. 63,306.

Tenders, in form No. 2, will be received by the undersigned up to 31st March 1895. Tenders in any other form than that prescribed will not be accepted.

Each tender must be accompanied by Government Currency notes (the numbers of which should be noted in the tender) to the value of Rs. 1,300 as earnest-money, without which no tender will be accepted. This sum will be returned to the unsuccessful tenderer, but in the case of the accepted tender will be retained as a portion of the security deposit required by rule 1 of the conditions of contract given in form No. 2.

Every tender must be sent under sealed, registered and insured cover, which must be superscribed "Tender for the General Hospital," and must be addressed "to the District Engineer of Chittagong."

Parties wishing to present their tenders personally will be required to deposit their tenders (duly sealed) in the Tender Box, which will be placed in the District Engineer's office-room.

The contractor will be required to use all materials that may be collected for the work by the District Engineer, the cost price of such materials being deducted from his bill.

The contractor shall supply at his own cost all plant, tools, implements, ladders, cordage, tackle and scaffolding, &c., according to paragraph 20 of the conditions of contract form No. 2.

The District Engineer reserves the right of rejecting all or any of the tenders. The lowest tender will not necessarily be accepted. The tenders should first be submitted in unstamped forms, and should be written afresh on a stamped form before the order of acceptance is finally endorsed on it.

A stamped form will be supplied to the successful tenderer by the District Engineer on application and payment of annas 8.

The abstract of the estimate as well as any further particulars that might be required will be furnished on application.

The work is to be commenced within 30 days from the date of receipt of intimation of the acceptance of the tender, and to be completed by the 31st March 1896.

JAPAN.

Seto uchi—Kiusiu—Shoals in approaches to Nagasaki harbour.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 67 of 1895) that the undermentioned shoals have been found in recent surveys:—

(1) Seto uchi—Shoals in Misima nada.

(a) A shoal named Hiyama iso, with a depth of 5¾ fathoms on it at low water springs, lies about a third of a mile southward of the east end of Rukuro, or approximately in lat. 34° 3′ 45″ N., long. 132° 33′ 20″ E.

(b) A depth of 2 fathoms at low water springs has been found on the spot marked 5 fathoms, southward of the islet on the south side of Sika sima (Kajima), in approximately lat. 34° 2′ 15″ N., long. 132° 31′ 15″ E.

(2) Kiusiu—West Coast—Shoals near Hirado sima and Goto islands.

(a) Nanahirodachi, with a depth of 5 fathoms on it at low water, lies at the southern entrance to Hirado no seto, with the south-east end of Mi sima (Ishima), bearing N.E. ½ E. (N. 51° E.), distant about one mile, or approximately in lat. 33° 9′ 20″ N., long. 129° 30′ 35″ E.

(b) Shichibei, with a depth of 7 fathoms on it at low water, lies eastward of Yenoi sima, Goto islands, with Kanagashira, bearing N.W. ½ W. (N. 51° W.), distant about $2\frac{2}{10}$ miles, or approximately in lat. 33° 1′ 15″ N., long 129° 22′ 25″ E.

(c) To o Kuro, with a depth of 6¼ fathoms on it at low water lies southward of Saracen reefs, with Minamize, bearing N. ¼ W. (N. 6° W.), distant about 2 miles, or approximately in lat. 32° 56′ 45″ N., long. 129° 21′ E.

(d) Yanomune, with a depth of 2 fathoms on it at low water, lies north-west of Yeno sima, with west extreme of Iwozo (Uose), bearing N. by W. (N. 11° W.), distant about half a mile, or approximately in lat. 33° 1′ 30″ N., long. 129° 19′ 10″ E.

(e) Gotsu, with a depth of 6¼ fathoms on it at low water, lies westward of Saracen reefs, with Kuro sima bearing N.E. by E. ¼ E. (N. 59° E.), distant about 1¾ miles, or approximately in lat. 32° 58′ 55″ N., long. 129° 17′ 10″ E.

(f) Gai, with a depth of 5 fathoms on it at low water, lies westward of Saracen reefs, with Kuro sima, bearing N.E. ⅛ E. (N. 55° E.), distant about 3 9/10 miles, or approximately in lat. 32° 57′ 55″ N., long. 129° 15′ 55″ E.

(3) Shoals in approaches to Nagasaki harbour.

(a) Shimonodashi, with a depth of 3¾ fathoms on it at low water, lies westward of Nagasaki peninsula, with south extreme of Nagano sima (Hashima), bearing N.W. ¼ W. (N. 51° W.), distant about 1⅛ miles, or approximately in lat. 32° 36′ 55″ N., long. 129° 45′ 15″ E.

(b) Otonaze, with a depth of one foot on it at low water, lies westward of Nagasaki peninsula, with the north extreme of Nosima, bearing N.E. by E. (N. 56° E.), distant about 6 cables, or approximately in lat. 32° 38′ 50″ N., long. 129° 46′ 55″ E.

(c) Kamadashi, with a depth of 2¼ fathoms on it at low water, lies westward of Nagasaki peninsula, with Joka sima (Yoko shima), bearing N. ⅛ E. (N. 6° E.), distant about half a mile, or approximately in lat. 32° 40′ 10″ N., long. 129° 47′ 15″ E.

(d) A bank, with a depth of 7 fathoms on it at low water, lies in the northern approach to Nagasaki harbour, with Hako Hahakojima), bearing N. by E. (N. 11° E.), distant about 2 miles, or approximately in lat. 32° 49′ 55″ N., long. 129° 37′ 30″ E.

Shoals northward of Banjak islands and near Pulo Simalu (Babi).

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 77 of 1895) of the existence of the undermentioned shoals:—

1. A breaker was seen from H.N.M.S. Benkoelen in about lat. 2° 36′ N., long. 97° 17′ E, northward of Banjak islands.

2. A bank, with a depth of 10 fathoms on it, hard bottom, lies in approximately lat. 2° 34′ N., long. 96° 45′ E.; depths of 17 to 20 fathoms were obtained about half a mile westward of this bank.

3. Vessels should not approach the south-east coast of pulo Simalu within 4 miles, as foul ground and discoloured water extend nearly that distance offshore between Tanjong Lentang and Tanjong Kakat.

4. A shoal, with a depth of 5 fathoms on it, though there may possibly be less water, lies on the west side of pulo Simalu, in a position with Tanjong Lambaja, bearing N. by W. ¼ W. (N. 17° W.), distant 4 miles, or approximately in lat. 2° 29¼′ N., long. 96° 3′ E.

5. A shoal, on which the sea breaks, lies about 4 miles S.W. ¼ S. (S. 42° W.) from the west extreme of Little Simalu, or approximately in lat. 2° 29′ N., long 95° 54′ E.

KOREA, West coast—Chemulpho approach.

Amended particulars of Nine-foot rock westward of White rock.

With reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 19, dated 2nd February last, issued by this Office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 81 of 1895) that the Master of the steam-vessel Shinanogawa Maru reports having discovered a rock, with a depth of 1½ fathoms on it at low water, and 5 to 7 fathoms close around, lying with White rock beacon, bearing N.E. by E. ¼ E (N. 62° E.), distant 3¼ cables; and summit of Humann island, N. by W. (N. 11° W.).

Approximate position, lat. 37° 18′ 30″ N., long. 126° 23′ 55″ E.

This is in all probability the rock on which the French gun-vessel Inconstant struck, as the position was not accurately determined at the time, but was assumed to be with White rock beacon bearing, E. by N. (N. 79° E.), distant 1½ cables. This latter has therefore been removed from Admiralty Charts.

NOTE.—Mariners are recommended, as stated in China Sea Directory, vol. IV, 1894, page 63, to pass eastward of White rock.

The establishment of Time Signal.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 84 of 1895) that a Time Signal has been established on the Signal tower, Wickham terrace, Brisbane:—

Brisbane Time Signal consists of a ball, which will be dropped daily, except on Sundays and public holidays, being hoisted half-way up at 0h. 55m., close up at 0h. 57m., and dropped by electricity from the Survey Office Observatory at 1h. 0m. 0s., mean time of the meridian of 150° E., equivalent to 15h. 0m. 0s. Greenwich mean time, or 1h. 12m. 6·4s. local mean time.

Should the signal fail in accuracy, the ball will be hoisted half-way up at once, close up at 1h. 57m., and dropped at 2h. 0m. 0s., mean time of the meridian of 150° E.

Should the ball fail to drop, it will be gradually lowered, and be dropped at 2h. 0m. 0s. mean time of the meridian 150° E.

Leading and Signal lights.

With reference to Notices to Mariners No. 211, dated 2nd November 1894, and No. 5, dated 7th January 1895, issued by this office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 61 of 1895) that, in addition to the lights shown from the extremities of the breakwaters, west red, east green; and from the signal flag-staff (fixed white), which has been moved to a position on the west breakwater, 2,100 feet within the extremity, the undermentioned leading and signal lights are shown at Westport:—

Leading lights for entering the harbour are shown from two beacons, bearing when in line S. by E. ½ E. (S. 17° E.), and situated on the west bank of the river within the breakwater.

The front light, shown from a white beacon, is red whether the bar is safe or unsafe.

The rear light is red when the bar is safe, white when the bar is not safe, and is shown from a white beacon with a red band; this beacon is 50 feet high, and has a semaphore attached, which will be used when required for the guidance of vessels entering or leaving the harbour.

The undermentioned night signals are shown from the signal flagstaff on the western breakwater, in addition to the general bar and danger signals for all New Zealand ports:—

1. The white harbour light only signifies:—Wait.
2. A green light over the white light:—Bar safe for vessels of less than 9 feet draught.
3. Two green lights over the white light:—Bar safe for vessels of 9 feet draught.
4. A green light under the white light:—Bar safe for vessels of 11 feet 6 inches draught.
5. A green light above, and a green light below, the white light:—Bar safe for vessels of 14 feet draught.

The signals to take the bar will be shown from the signal flagstaff on the west breakwater.

Masters of vessels of more than 10 feet draught are requested to signal their draught of water, when arriving off the harbour entrance after half ebb; and of 10 feet draught or less, when arriving at low water.

The two fixed red lights, previously situated at the coal staithes, have been moved to the inner part of the western breakwater, and do not become visible to vessels entering until they are well inside the breakwaters.

Two fixed green lights are shown from the upper wharf on the eastern side at Westport.

ENDOWMENT OF MAHARAJA SIR JOTEENDRA MOHAN TAGORE, BAHADUR, K.C.S.I.

No. 1002, dated Calcutta, the 9th March 1895.

From—N. BONHAM-CARTER, Esq., Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department,

To—The Director of Public Instruction, Bengal.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1278, dated the 25th February 1895, and its enclosure, regarding the offer of Maharaja Sir Joteendra Mohan Tagore, Bahadur, K.C.S.I., to make over to Government an endowment of Rs. 15,000 for the foundation of scholarships for the promotion of Sanskrit learning.

2. In reply, I am to say that the Lieutenant-Governor accepts the offer, and desires that the acknowledgments of Government be conveyed to the donor for his liberality and public spirit. As it is desirable that in all such cases advantage should be taken of the provisions of the Charitable Endowments Act VI. of 1890, you should request the Maharaja Bahadur to make an application under section 6 of the Act for vesting in the Treasurer of Charitable Endowments the property he proposes to make over to Government.

Gaya.—Rainfall at Sadar 0·10. Harvesting of rabi crops and collection of opium in progress. Weather favourable. Fodder and water sufficient. Prices about normal.

Champaran.—Rainfall practically nil. A slight shower last night (10th) with heavy wind. Prospects of rabi crops and poppy continue favourable. Opium is being collected; outturn promises to be good. Indigo seedlings are looking well. Fodder and water for cattle sufficient. Common rice selling at 16 seers per rupee.

Darbhanga.—Rabi prospects continue favourable. Mustard is being harvested. Poppy doing well. Fodder for cattle sufficient. Prices stationary.

Purnea.—Weather cloudy with westerly winds. Harvesting of mustard and tobacco nearly finished. Standing rabi crops promise well. Ploughing for bhadoi and aghani going on. Fodder and water sufficient. Price of common rice varies from 16 to 24 seers per rupee.

Cuttack.—Rainfall nil. Weather growing hot. Dalua (spring rice) maturing in places. Rain needed for standing crops. Condition of cattle good. Fodder sufficient. Rice sells from 11 seers 13 chitaks to 23 seers 10 chitaks per rupee.

Hazaribagh.—Weather seasonable. Ploughing in progress. Sugarcane being planted. Standing crops doing well. Opium half collected and expected to yield up to estimate. Water ample. Pasturage scanty.

General Summary.—There was practically no rainfall during the week except for $\frac{1}{10}$ inch at Gaya. The prospects of the standing crops continue generally good, but in Eastern Bengal and in the Cuttack district rain is still required. Rain is also wanted for the cultivation of the bhadoi crops in Northern Bengal. In some districts the rabi harvest has begun. The collection of opium is in progress, and the outturn is generally expected to be good. In Bihar the prospects of the young indigo are favourable. Outbreaks of cattle-disease have been reported from Rajshahi and Jessore. The price of common rice continues normal and almost stationary.

Calm 86.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·1⊖ lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY 1895.

THE most important features in the meteorology of Bengal and Assam in February have been—

1. The mean pressure of the month has been distinctly higher than the normal in all districts. The excess has been generally largest in the south-west of the province and along the foot of the hills, where it has averaged about 0·03." Over the remainder of the province and in Assam the excess has equalled from about 0·015" to 0·02."

2. The average day, or maximum, temperatures for the month have usually been above the normal, the excess usually equalling about one to two degrees. In the case of the night, or minimum, temperatures, about half the stations report excess amounts and the remainder defects, and the variations have usually equalled from about a degree to a degree and-a-half. The night temperatures have usually been in defect at the southern and eastern stations, and in excess elsewhere. Hence the variations of the mean temperature from the normal have been small, and the majority of stations show excess amounts of less than a degree, while a few of the southern stations show defects of a few tenths of a degree.

3. In the case of the average humidity, about half the stations in Bengal show excess amounts and the other half defects, but the former have been very much larger in amount than the latter; and therefore on the whole the air has been more moist than usual. In Assam, on the other hand, all the reporting stations show slight excess amounts. In the case of cloud proportion, practically all the stations in both Bengal and Assam show average amounts very decidedly smaller than the normal.

4. Winds have been strongly westerly over the western half of Bengal, but over the eastern half and in Assam winds have usually been southerly and south-easterly.

5. The barometric depressions coming from North-Western India during February were very few in number, and only two feeble disturbances affected Bengal during the month, the first giving unsettled weather from the 1st to the 4th, and the second from the 10th to the 14th. Practically for the whole of the remainder of the month weather was fine with no rain, and usually winds were more or less northerly, and conditions generally of light north-east monsoon character.

6. Owing to only two extremely feeble disturbances having visited Bengal in February, and which also mainly affected the western districts, the rainfall during the month has been singularly small in amount. Indeed, the whole of South-West, East and North Bengal have received practically no rain, the average amounts only equalling a few hundredths of an inch. In Chota Nagpur about a third of an inch has been received on the average, but this is only half the normal fall for the period. Bihar has received an average fall of about four-tenths of an inch, or about a normal fall, while Orissa has received the largest average amount of 0·92 inch, which is very slightly larger than the usual amount for February.

Meteorology of the month.—During the first two days of February a feeble barometric depression, which had advanced eastwards from North-Western India, had affected Bengal, and hence on the 2nd pressure was low, while temperature was high, and the night temperatures reported on the 2nd were in some cases 10° above the normal; skies were also almost overcast, and a good many rain showers were reported. Conditions in Bengal continued somewhat disturbed up till the 5th, when the depression had filled up, and the cool wave of air in the rear of the depression swept over Bengal, giving fine settled weather with a rapid decrease in both temperature and humidity. These conditions continued till the 10th, when another feeble form of barometric depression began to advance over Bengal from the Central Provinces, and this affected the weather over the province up till the 13th or 14th, when the depression had again passed away. Hence, from the 10th to the 13th increasing temperature, humidity and cloud proportion with decreasing pressure and a few local rain showers prevailed, but from the 14th again weather was fine and settled with low temperature and humidity and rather high pressure. On the 18th a rapid and rather remarkable increase of pressure occurred, which continued up till the 20th, when an excess pressure of a seventh of an inch was reported at some stations, but except for a slight disturbance in the hills on the 20th, weather in the plains continued fine and settled, and of ordinary north-east monsoon character up till the 25th or 26th, when the area of maximum pressure, which in the cold-weather months is situated in the north-west of the province, began to retreat southwards, and on the 26th and 27th pressure was higher in the Madras Coast than in South Bengal; and hence moist southerly winds began to set in over Bengal. On the 28th, however, a reaction occurred, and pressure rose briskly to rapidly over Bengal, where the highest pressures were again reported, and hence the southerly winds again began to disappear and weather returned to the ordinary north-east monsoon condition. Hence from about the 14th to the end of the month weather was generally fine and settled, and of ordinary north-east monsoon character.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure during the month have been rather large, especially about the 18th. The general average pressure for February has been in excess at the western and northern stations in Bengal by from about 0·02" to 0·04", while over the remainder of the province the excess has equalled about 0·01" to 0·02". In Assam the average excess has been 0·018".

Temperature.—The average maximum, or day, temperature of the province for February has usually been about 1° to 2° above the normal, while the average minimum, or night, temperatures have been almost normal, for about half the stations in the south and east report slight defects, and the remaining stations slight excess night temperatures. Thus the average mean temperature of the whole province of Bengal for the month has been in excess by 0·3°. In Assam the general excess has equalled 0·6°.

The following table shows the variations of the average, maximum, minimum and mean temperatures, week by week, during February at nine typical stations in different districts of the province from the normal values for the same period, and will show the rather large variations that have occurred :—

Rainfall.—The only falls of importance have occurred in Orissa, Bihar and Chota Nagpur, Orissa having received an average fall of nearly an inch and the other two divisions between three and four tenths. In the two first divisions the falls have been almost normal in amount, and in the last district nearly 50 per cent. in defect. The other divisions have been almost rainless.

In Bihar the districts of Malda, Purnea and Bhagalpur have received a decidedly scanty rainfall, while in Chota Nagpur the same is the case in all districts except Lohardaga, but in Orissa the falls have been fairly evenly distributed, and rainfall is thus almost normal.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the month of February 1895 :—

* Mean of 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The mean at the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

Explanation.—... indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rain fall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when 0·10 inch or rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 12th March 1895.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 9TH OF MARCH 1895.

At the close of the previous week fine settled weather prevailed with pressure considerably above the normal, and conditions generally of the north-east monsoon character. Though no disturbance of any kind occurred during the week under review till towards the end, an almost uninterrupted change has been going on, and has led to lower pressure and consequently southerly or westerly winds and higher temperature. The fall of pressure began slowly on the 3rd, the first day of the week, and continued with moderate rapidity on the 4th, but there was a slow rise on the 5th, after which the fall again set in, and continued in varying amounts till the end of the week except in some of the north-eastern districts, where there was a slight rise on the last two days. As the distribution was fairly uniform, and the changes have been of similar amount over the province and along the west coast of Bay, the general uniformity still continues, but from being highest in Chota Nagpur and lowest in the south of Burmah at the beginning of the week, readings have become highest in the south of Burmah and lowest in South-West Bengal. At the same time the difference from the normal has changed from excess of about a twentieth of an inch over the greater part of Bengal, but especially the western districts, to defect varying from ·02 inch in Chota Nagpore to nearly ·1 inch in the centre of South-West Bengal.

The wind circulation has been generally light and westerly, but the tendency has been for directions when northerly to become southerly, especially in Orissa and the north of the Bay. At the same time the area of relatively high temperature, which at first did not include the southern part of the province and the north of the Bay, extended southwards, though not as far as Orissa till near the end of the week. The excess continued almost unchanged throughout the week in Behar and North Bengal, but in the southern districts the difference from the normal changed from a defect ranging up to nearly 5° to excess of about 4°, and in places to as much as 7°. These high temperatures occurred at Ranchi and Bankura on the 9th, the last day of the week.

The changes at the end of the week were partly due to a slight disturbance which passed from west to east across the province. It was due to a very shallow depression, which was attended by an irregular cyclonic circulation of light winds, and which produced no change in the weather beyond the southerly winds and a warmer moist, and in places a foggy atmosphere.

Pressure.—The mean values for the week are below the normal over the whole province by amounts ranging from less than ·01 inch in Chota Nagpur to nearly ·05 inch in part of East Bengal. This distribution, as stated above, has been brought about by fairly steady, slow downward changes, the only fall of any magnitude occurring on the 7th, and varying from ·05 inch at False Point to ·12 inch at Darbhanga.

Temperature.—The only part of the province where the mean temperature is below the normal is Orissa, and there defect is only half a degree as compared with a defect last week of two and-a-half degrees. In the other districts there is rather a large excess, varying from 1·1° in South-West Bengal to 2·4° in Bihar.

The actual temperatures registered during the week and their variations from the normal temperature of the season are clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. The day temperatures have been everywhere above the normal, while the nights have been comparatively cool at the southern stations, the difference from the mean minimum readings varying from defect of 2·4° at Cuttack to excess of 2° at Hazaribagh, Patna and Purnea:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures, are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 14th March, 1895 :—

No. 8 of 1895.

A Bill to amend the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869; It is hereby enacted as follows :— of 1869.

Substitution of new section for section 8.

1. For section 8 of the said Act the following section shall be substituted, namely :—

"8. Every member of a corps of volunteers shall, for all military offences of which he shall be guilty whilst on actual duty, be subject to the Army Act, 1881, so far as the same is applicable to officers, or consistent with the provisions of this Act. 45 Vict., c. 8.

Volunteers subjected to Army Act, 1881, so far as it applies to officers.

"Explanation.—For the purposes of this and the following sections of this Act, volunteers shall be deemed to be on actual duty,—

(a) when they are being trained or exercised either alone or with any portion of the regular forces; or

(b) when they are attached to or otherwise acting as part of or with any regular forces; or

(c) when their corps is on actual military service; or

(d) when serving in aid of the civil power."

Amendment of section 12, Act XX of 1869.

2. In section 12 of the said Act, for the words "Articles of War" the words and figures "Army Act, 1881," shall be substituted.

Substitution of new section for section 16, Act XX, 1869.

3. Subject to section 7 of this Act, for section 16 of the said Act the following section shall be substituted, namely :—

Local limits of service.

"16. No member of a corps of volunteers other than naval volunteers, shall be bound, without his consent, to serve or proceed on duty beyond the limits of the civil district in which he was enrolled, or, where a corps consists of volunteers enrolled in more civil districts than one, beyond the limits of the territory comprised in those districts: and no member of a corps of naval volunteers shall be bound, without his consent, to serve or proceed on duty beyond the limits of the port to which the corps belongs, such port being construed to include the city or town after which the corps is named, and its suburbs, and the navigable rivers, channels and fairways leading thereto."

Substitution of new sections for sections 19 and 20, Act XX of 1869.

4. For sections 19 and 20 of the said Act the following sections shall be substituted, namely :—

Not attending drill or parade or other minor military offences.

"19. If any member of such corps shall, without reasonable excuse, neglect to attend drill or parade at such times as may be appointed for that purpose, or shall be guilty of any neglect of duty, or other military offence, he shall be liable to pay such fine, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the commanding officer may impose, or (except in the case of a commissioned officer) to simple dismissal from the corps, by order of the said commanding officer:

Provided that no volunteer shall be dismissed from his corps, or otherwise punished by his commanding officer under this section, until his guilt shall have been established by evidence duly taken and recorded in the books of the corps, under the signatures of the commanding officer and adjutant of the said corps:

Provided also that every such sentence of dismissal shall be reported to, and shall be liable to revision by, the Local Government, which may either reverse, or substitute a sentence of fine for, the same, or pass such other order in the case as may in its opinion be just and proper.

Punishment for non-payment of fine.

"20. If any member of such corps shall neglect to pay any fine to which he shall be sentenced by a general court-martial or by a commanding officer within such time as shall be fixed by the commanding officer of the corps, he may be dismissed by the said commanding officer from the said corps, and every dismissal shall be recorded and reported to the Local Government."

Amendment of section 22, Act XX of 1869.

5. In section 22 of the said Act, after the word "court-martial" each time it occurs the words "or commanding officer" shall be inserted, and after the words "President of such Court" the words "or by such commanding officer, as the case may be," shall be inserted.

Addition of new sections after section 26, Act XX, 1869.

6. Subject to section 7 of this Act, after section 26 of the said Act the following sections shall be added, namely:—

"Supplemental.

Calling out of volunteer corps for actual military service.

"27. (1) In case of actual or apprehended emergency (the occasion being first declared by the Governor General in Council and notified in the Gazette of India) the Governor General in Council may call out any corps of volunteers for actual military service.

(2) All volunteers belonging to any corps so called out shall be bound, unless incapacitated by infirmity for military service, to assemble as the Governor General in Council may direct, and to proceed according to orders within the limits hereinbefore specified; and, from the time of their corps being so called out, shall be deemed to be on actual military service.

(3) After a corps of volunteers has been called out for actual military service, the corps shall be deemed to be released from actual military service only after a notification in the Gazette of India declaring the occasion to have passed, and not sooner or otherwise:

Provided that the Governor General in Council may at any time discharge any such corps from actual military service.

(4) Before a corps of volunteers is released from actual military service, provision shall be made by the Government for the return of the volunteers present therewith to their homes.

Power to make rules as to allowances to volunteers.

"28. (1) The Governor General in Council may make rules for—

(a) the making of payments to, and the provision of supplies for, volunteers called out on actual military service; and

(b) the grant of pay, pensions, gratuities, allowances and rewards to them.

(2) The Governor General in Council may apply such rules or any part of them to any volunteers who may have been called out by any Magistrate or other authority for the preservation of the peace:

and may in such case direct, any enactment notwithstanding, by whom the cost of the payments to be made and supplies to be provided under the rules shall be borne.

Appointment of Local Government to act with respect to corps having members enrolled in more provinces than one.

"29. Where a corps consists of volunteers enrolled in territories subject to more Local Governments than one, the Governor General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare what Local Government shall for all or any of the purposes of this Act be deemed to be the Local Government with respect to the corps."

Saving from new sections 16 and 27 in case of volunteers enrolled before commencement of this Act.

7. Nothing in the new section 16 substituted by section 3 of this Act or in the new section 27 added by section 6 of this Act shall apply to any volunteer who was enrolled before the commencement of this Act, unless he consents in writing to be bound by such new section 16 instead of by the section for which it is substituted, or by such new section 27, as the case may be.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to amend the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, in those respects in which the experience of its operation during a quarter of a century has proved the Act to be defective.

2. Section 1 of Bill.—Section 8 of the Act of 1869, which subjects volunteers to military law, so far as it applies to officers, whilst on actual duty or parade, has been recast. Some definition of the expression "actual duty" has been found to be necessary, and an explanation based upon section 176 (8) of the Army Act, 1881, has therefore been added to the section. The proviso, which exempts volunteers from the punishment of death, has been omitted, for it is obvious that (unlikely as the contingency may be) there are offences for which, if committed on active service, death would be the only suitable penalty.

3. Section 2 of Bill.—The expression "Articles of War" is now obsolete, and the reference thereto in section 12 of the Act has in consequence been altered, as in the proposed new section 8 above noticed, to a reference to the Army Act, 1881.

4. Section 3 of Bill.—Under section 16 of the Act, a volunteer is not, in the absence of anything to the contrary in the terms of the constitution of the corps to which he belongs, bound to serve beyond four miles from the place at which he was enrolled. This limit is much too restricted, especially in the case of certain naval, cavalry and railway corps. It is therefore provided in the Bill that the local limits of compulsory service shall ordinarily be the limits of the civil district in which the volunteer was enrolled, but that such local limits shall, (1) in the case of naval volunteers, be the limits of the port (including the adjacent city or town and its suburbs), and the navigable rivers, channels and fairways leading thereto, and (2) in the case of corps consisting of volunteers enrolled in more civil districts than one, be the limits of the territory comprised in those districts.

5. Sections 4 and 5 of Bill.—The opportunity of this Bill has been taken to recast section 19 of the Act, under which, as it at present stands, a member of a corps neglecting to attend drill or parades or committing other minor military offences can only be punished with fine after trial by a Regimental Court-martial. It is proposed to confer jurisdiction in such cases on the Commanding Officer of the corps and to empower him to award either dismissal or fine in the case of a conviction, subject to the proviso that every sentence of dismissal is to be reported to and liable to revision by the Local Government. The conferment of these powers of dismissal on Commanding Officers of volunteer corps in this country is in strict analogy to the law in England (see the Volunteer Act, 1863, section 21), where a Commanding Officer possesses like powers, subject only to such subsequent order or direction as may appear just and proper to Her Majesty. The English law has been found to work well, and there would seem no reason why similar provisions should not be equally efficacious in India. The amendments in sections 20 and 22 of the Act, which are also made by these sections of the Bill, are merely consequential on the recasting of section 19, in the manner above indicated.

6. Section 6 of Bill.—Proposed section 27 provides for the calling out of volunteers for actual military service, for their discharge therefrom, and for provision being made by the Government for their return to their homes: and proposed section 28 will enable the Governor General in Council to make rules for—

(a) the making of payments to, and the provision of supplies for, volunteers called out on actual military service; and

(b) the grant of pay, pensions, gratuities, allowances and rewards to them.

A draft of the rules which it is proposed to issue, if this Bill becomes law, is appended hereto for general information.

Under proposed section 28 the Governor General in Council may apply the rules made in favour of volunteers called out on actual military service, or any part thereof, to volunteers who may have been called out by any Magistrate or other authority for the preservation of the peace, and may direct by whom the cost of the payments to be made and supplies to be provided under the rules so applied in favour of volunteers called out for the preservation of the peace shall be borne.

Proposed section 29, following section 2, sub-section (b), Act III of 1888 (Police), and section 144, Act IX of 1890 (Railways), will enable the Governor General in Council, if he sees fit, to appoint one Local Government only to be such Government with respect to any corps which has companies or troops in more provinces than one.

7. Section 7 of Bill.—On the principle that in all voluntary service it is but right that specific consent should precede the imposition of a new liability, provision is here made that volunteers already enrolled before the proposed amending Act comes into force may, as regards the local limits of compulsory service and the calling out of volunteer corps for actual military service, elect to abide by the law as it stood in the Act of 1869.

APPENDIX.

DRAFT RULES UNDER PROPOSED SECTION 28.

Grant of pay, gratuities, pensions, etc., to volunteers called out for military service.

When a volunteer corps is called out for actual military service, the following rules shall take effect—

(a) There shall be issued to the Commanding Officer a sum of Rs. 32 for the use of every officer, non-commissioned officer and volunteer belonging to, and assembling with, the corps (except such of them as do not desire to receive the benefit thereof); and each such sum, or so much thereof as the Commanding Officer of the corps thinks fit, shall be laid out, under the direction of the Commanding Officer, in providing necessaries for such officer, non-commissioned officer and volunteer; and, within one month after issue thereof, an account shall be settled with each such officer, non-commissioned officer and volunteer respecting the application thereof, and any unapplied residue thereof shall be paid to him.

(b) Such officers, non-commissioned officers and volunteers shall, while on, or proceeding to, or returning from, actual military service, be entitled to receive pay, allowances and rations as under :—

In the case of Government servants.—If on leave, civil leave allowances and military pay and allowances of rank. If not on leave, the volunteer may draw either civil pay or military pay and allowances of rank, according to his option.

If not in Government service.—Pay and allowances admissible to the different ranks in the British Army corresponding with those held by them in the volunteers.

In all cases.—Rations in the same manner and on the same scale as authorised for British troops serving in the military district in which the volunteers are serving.

(c) On the release of the corps from actual military service, each officer, non-commissioned officer and volunteer present with the corps at the time of such release shall be paid Rs. 16 (except such of them as do not desire to receive the same) in addition to his pay and allowances.

(d) A commissioned officer of the volunteers, who, when on actual military service, shall be wounded in action, or shall have received an injury when in the execution of military duty otherwise than in action, shall be entitled to the same pension or gratuity as ar officer of similar rank in the British Army would be entitled to under the Royal Warrant in force at the time being.

(e) A commissioned officer of volunteers, who, when on actual military service, shall be so wounded in action or injured when in the execution of military duty otherwise than in action as to be rendered permanently incapable of resuming similar employment to that in which he was engaged at the time when called out for actual military service, shall have the option of being placed for life upon the half pay of an officer of corresponding rank in the British service, as laid down in the Royal Warrant in force at the time being, instead of receiving any pension or gratuity to which he might be entitled under rule (d).

(f) The widow, children, mother or sisters of a commissioned volunteer officer, who, when on actual military service, has been killed in action or has died of wounds received in action within twelve months after having been wounded, or has died from illness which can be directly traced to fatigue, privation or exposure, incident to active operations in the field, within twelve months after being first removed from duty on account of such illness, provided that the illness be certified to have commenced during such active operations, shall be entitled to such pension or gratuity or compassionate allowances as the widow, children, mother or sisters of an officer of like rank in the British Army would be entitled to under the Royal Warrant in force at the time being.

(g) A volunteer non-commissioned officer or man, who, by reason of wounds or injuries received in action, or in the actual discharge of any military duty when on actual military service, shall be rendered partially or totally incapable of earning a livelihood, or in the same manner shall be rendered temporarily incapable of earning a livelihood, shall be entitled to such pension or gratuity as a non-commissioned officer or man of similar rank in the British Army would be entitled to under the Royal Warrant in force at the time being.

(h) If a married volunteer non-commissioned officer or man, when on actual military service, be killed in action or die of his wounds within twelve months after having been wounded, and leave a widow, she shall be entitled to a gratuity of one year's pay of his military rank at the rate which the volunteer was in receipt of at the time of his death or of his being discharged from actual military service. A gratuity of one-third of a year's pay of the military rank of the father at the time of his death shall be issued under similar conditions to each orphan child under sixteen years of age, whose mother is dead.

If any person, becoming entitled under clauses (d), (e), (f), (g) or (h) of these rules to any pension, half pay, gratuity or compassionate allowances, be entitled under the rules of the Civil Service Regulations, or under special conditions of service, to pension, gratuity or compassionate allowances at higher rates, he or she shall be entitled to receive such higher rates instead of those named in the Royal Warrant.

(k) Nothing in these rules shall be held to interfere with any rights or privileges as to pensions or gratuities to which members of the volunteer force or their families may be already entitled under the regulations now in force.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 14th March, 1895 :—

No. 9 OF 1895.

A Bill to provide for the establishment of bonded warehouses at places other than customs-ports, and to afford facilities for the bonding of salt in such warehouses.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the establishment of bonded warehouses at places other than customs-ports, and to afford facilities for the bonding of salt in such warehouses; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Title, construction and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Inland Bonded Warehouses and Salt Bonding Act, 1895.

(2) It shall be read with, and taken as part of, the Sea Customs Act, 1878 : and VIII of 1878.

(3) It shall come into force at once.

Extent.

2. Sections 4 to 7, both inclusive, of this Act shall extend only to such parts of British India as the Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct in this behalf.

Repeal.

3. (1) The Inland Bonded Warehouses Act, 1887, is hereby repealed. XI of 1887.

(2) The reference to that Act in section 2, clause (5), of the Cotton Duties Act, 1894, shall be read as if it were made to this Act. VII of 1894.

Inland bonded warehouses and law applicable thereto.

4. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Sea Customs Act, 1878, the Chief Customs-authority may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, appoint a public or license a private warehouse at any place which is not a warehousing port, and may with the like sanction cancel such appointment or license. VIII of 1878.

(2) In reference to such a place and a warehouse appointed or licensed thereat the provisions of the said Act with respect to the levy of customs-duties on goods brought in bond from one customs-port to another, and with respect to warehousing, shall be construed as if the place were a customs-port and a warehousing port, and the warehouse a public or a private warehouse, as the case may be, appointed or licensed thereat under that Act :

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply to salt removed under bond under the provisions of the next following section.

Conveyance of salt to inland bonded warehouses under bonds.

5. The Chief Customs-authority may, in accordance with such rules as may be prescribed in this behalf by the Local Government and notwithstanding the provisions of section 93 of the Sea Customs Act, 1878, permit salt removed from ship board or from a warehouse appointed or licensed under the Sea Customs Act, 1878, to be conveyed otherwise than in charge of an officer of Customs to a warehouse appointed or licensed under this Act, under a bond securing the subsequent payment of the duty leviable in respect of the salt so removed. VIII of 1878. VIII of 1878.

Form of bond.

6. Every bond executed in accordance with the provisions of the last preceding section shall be in the form hereto annexed, or, when such form is inapplicable or insufficient, in such other form as is from time to time prescribed by the Chief Customs-authority :

Provided that the time allowed by such bond for the payment of the duty leviable on the salt included therein shall not exceed the time within which it may reasonably be expected that the whole of such salt shall have passed into consumption, and shall in no case exceed six months.

Power to make rules.

7. The Local Government may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make rules consistent with the provisions of this Act regarding—

(1) the inspection by Government officers of warehouses appointed or licensed under this Act ;

(2) the safe custody of salt in transit under the provisions of this Act ;

(3) the removal of salt from a warehouse appointed or licensed under this Act ;

(4) the nature of the security to be required from a person executing a bond in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and the place of payment of the sum recoverable under such bond ; and

(5) generally such other matters as may be deemed necessary to secure the safety of the public revenue.

FORM OF BOND.

(See section 6.)

No. 189 .

We, A. B.,

now of

of the same place, are jointly and severally bound to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India in Council in the sum of Government rupees to be paid to the said Secretary of State in Council, for which payment we jointly and severally bind ourselves and our legal representatives.

The above bounden , having applied to the officer in charge of the Custom-house at for and obtained permission to lodge in a warehouse appointed or licensed under the Inland Bonded Warehouses and Salt Bonding Act, 1895, and situated at , for a period of months the following goods, that is to say, maunds of salt imported by sea from on board of the ship and entered in the Custom-house books as No. of the Register of goods imported by sea ;

The condition of this bond is that—

If the or their legal representatives shall observe all the rules prescribed under the said Inland Bonded Warehouses and Salt Bonding Act, 1895, to be observed by the owners of goods warehoused and persons obtaining permission to warehouse goods under the provisions thereof;

And if the said , or their legal representatives, shall pay to the officer in charge of the Custom-house at the port of , or to the Collector of , all dues, including customs-duties or other lawful charges, which shall be demandable on the said salt or on account of penalties incurred in respect thereto, within from the date of this bond, together with interest on every such sum at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date of demand thereof being made in writing by the said officer in charge of the Custom-house ;

And if, within the term so fixed or such further period (if any) as may be granted by the Chief Customs-authority for the payment thereof, the full amount of all customs-duties and other lawful charges, penalties and interest demandable as aforesaid shall have been first paid on the whole of the said salt ;

This obligation shall be void.

Otherwise, and on breach or failure in the performance of any part of this condition, the same shall be in force.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide an easier system by which salt, imported by sea, may be removed for sale in the interior, without necessary prepayment of duty, the duty being secured by the execution of a bond.

The provisions of the Inland Bonded Warehouses Act, XXI of 1887, were mainly designed in connection with the salt trade, and the opportunity has been taken of removing that Act from the Statute-book and re-enacting it in combination with the proposals now made.

The proposed Act will be of immediate use in the Lower Provinces of Bengal only, but it may hereafter be found desirable to further extend its application. It has, therefore, been drafted in a permissive form.

Shoals northward of Banjak islands and near Pulo Simalu (Babi).

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 77 of 1895) of the existence of the undermentioned shoals:—

1. A breaker was seen from H.N.M.S. Benkoelen in about lat. 2° 36′ N., long. 97° 17′ E, northward of Banjak islands.

2. A bank, with a depth of 10 fathoms on it, hard bottom, lies in approximately lat. 2° 34′ N., long. 96° 45′ E.; depths of 17 to 20 fathoms were obtained about half a mile westward of this bank.

3. Vessels should not approach the south-east coast of pulo Simalu within 4 miles, as foul ground and discoloured water extend nearly that distance offshore between Tanjong Lentang and Tanjong Kakat.

4. A shoal, with a depth of 5 fathoms on it, though there may possibly be less water, lies on the west side of pulo Simalu, in a position with Tanjong Lambaja, bearing N. by W. ½ W. (N. 17° W.), distant 4 miles, or approximately in lat. 2° 29½′ N., long. 96° 3′ E.

5. A shoal, on which the sea breaks, lies about 4 miles S.W. ½ S. (S. 42° W.) from the west extreme of Little Simalu, or approximately in lat. 2° 29′ N., long 95° 54′ E.

KOREA, WEST COAST—CHEMULPHO APPROACH.

Amended particulars of Nine-foot rock westward of White rock.

WITH reference to Notice to Mariners, No. 19, dated 2nd February last, issued by this Office, the British Admiralty has given further notice (No. 81 of 1895) that the Master of the steam-vessel Shinanogawa Maru reports having discovered a rock, with a depth of 1½ fathoms on it at low water, and 5 to 7 fathoms close around, lying with White rock beacon, bearing N.E. by E. ½ E. (N. 62° E.), distant 3¾ cables; and summit of Humann island, N. by W. (N. 11° W.).

Approximate position, lat. 37° 18′ 30″ N., long. 126° 23′ 55″ E.

This is in all probability the rock on which the French gun-vessel Inconstant struck, as the position was not accurately determined at the time, but was assumed to be with White rock beacon bearing, E. by N. (N. 79° E.), distant 1½ cables. This latter has therefore been removed from Admiralty Charts.

NOTE.—Mariners are recommended, as stated in China Sea Directory, vol. IV, 1894, page 63, to pass eastward of White rock.

The establishment of Time Signal.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 84 of 1895) that a Time Signal has been established on the Signal tower, Wickham terrace, Brisbane:—

Brisbane Time Signal consists of a ball, which will be dropped daily, except on Sundays and public holidays, being hoisted half-way up at 0h. 55m., close up at 0h. 57m., and dropped by electricity from the Survey Office Observatory at 1h. 0m. 0s., mean time of the meridian of 150° E., equivalent to 15h. 0m. 0s. Greenwich mean time, or 1h. 12m. 6·4s. local mean time.

Should the signal fail in accuracy, the ball will be hoisted half-way up at once, close up at 1h. 57m., and dropped at 2h. 0m. 0s., mean time of the meridian of 150° E.

Should the ball fail to drop, it will be gradually lowered, and be dropped at 2h. 0m. 0s. mean time of the meridian 150° E.

Prospectus of the Empire of India Exhibition to be held in London in 1895.

THE EMPIRE OF INDIA EXHIBITION, 1895.

TO BE HELD AT EARL'S COURT, LONDON, S.W.

Proprietors:

THE LONDON EXHIBITIONS, LIMITED.

Directors:

PAUL CRÉMIEU-JAVAL, Chairman.
HAROLD THOMAS HARTLEY.
JAMES MARSHALL FRESHWATER.

Managing Director:

IMRE KIRALFY.

This Exhibition will open early in May 1895, for a period of about six months, and will be held in the well-known Earl's Court Exhibition Grounds, which cover an area of about 22 acres, and will be characterised by brilliant and unique attractions.

Ample capital has been provided for this purpose by the London Exhibitions, Limited, who have a capital of £100,000, of which £90,000 is subscribed in cash. It is intended to expend the whole of this amount in preparing THE EMPIRE OF INDIA EXHIBITION.

The Exhibition will be divided into sections, viz.:—The Art and Loan Section, the Industrial Section, and the Spectacular Section.

The Company will be glad to receive particulars of proposed Loan Exhibits from the owners of Artistic and Historical Objects emanating from or connected with India, such as Arms, Furniture, Costumes, Pictures, Jewellery, etc., for which, if approved, the Company will provide carraige to the Exhibition free of cost, and ample space for exhibiting, also every possible protection in the way of safes, show-cases, police, fire insurance, etc., and will guarantee to return the same at the end of the Exhibition at their own expense. This Section will be under the Direction of Sir JAMES LINTON, President of the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colours.

Industrial Exhibitors—whether of Indian produce and manufactures, or manufacturers of goods for the markets of India—who are desirous of securing space, should state the nature of their Exhibits, the space required, and whether process of manufacture employing native or other labour will be shown. To those Exhibitors showing working exhibits employing native Indian operatives special facilities will be afforded.

"THE EMPIRE OF INDIA" is so suggestive of Oriental splendour and of the manifold interests which are associated with this Great Dependency of the British Crown, that it affords abundant inspiration for this Exhibition. Only of late years has any attempt been made to meet the long-felt and pressing need of London for a Pleasure Resort easily accessible from all parts of the Metropolis, and it is confidently believed that this magnificent Exhibition of 1895 will fulfil this requirement; support and co-operation from the highest and most influential quarters have been secured to the enterprise.

The Exhibition will comprise Illustrations of Historical, Artistic, and Industrial India—not only by means of Oriental Pageants, but also by exemplifications of the Customs and Amusements of the various Races; and in order to make THE EMPIRE OF INDIA EXHIBITION really and instructively representative it is intended to reproduce all the leading characteristics of the varied and picturesque phases of life in an INDIAN CITY, comprising Bazaars, Streets, and Shops, peopled by Natives engaged in their various avocations. Arrangements have been made by the Company's Official Delegates in India for securing the presence, during the term of the Exhibition, of a number of Native Craftsmen and other typical representatives of Hindoo and Mahommedan Bazaar-life. In order to stimulate the best artizans of India to take part in the Exhibition and exhibit their choicest works, valuable prizes, amounting to about 7,000 rupees, will be offered by the Company for the best examples of the various native Indian Arts and Crafts.

To ensure a thorough and impartial examination of the Exhibits for the Awards, which will be made in money prizes, the Company invited the co-operation and assistance of the Society for the Encouragement and Preservation of Indian Art, of which Sir MOUNTSTUART GRANT DUFF, G.C.S I., is President, Sir GEORGE BIRDWOOD, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., is Chairman of the Executive Committee, Mrs. DAVID CARMICHAEL, Mr. C. PURDON CLARKE, C.I.E., and MR. MARTIN WOOD, Honorary Secretaries. This responsible and onerous task has been undertaken by the Society as a duty in the interest of Indian Arts and Manufactures.

MR. IMRE KIRALFY has undertaken the Composition and Production of a Great Indian Spectacle, which it is intended shall eclipse anything of the sort that has hitherto been produced, and his name, so well known as the author and producer of "Venice in London," "Nero," "America," and numerous other triumphs, familiar to the inhabitants of both hemispheres, will guarantee both the novelty and the artistic excellence of this Section. The Artistic and Architectural Features of the Exhibition also are his conception and design.

The present buildings being inadequate for the purposes above enumerated, a special feature of the new Exhibition will be the erection in the grounds of one of the finest glass and iron structures in the world, covering 66,014 superficial feet, to be known as THE IMPERIAL PALACE, in which the Exhibits will be displayed.

A New Theatre, probably the largest in the world, will be constructed for the purpose of adequately presenting Grand Spectacular Productions, and will be named "THE EMPRESS THEATRE."

The existing Gardens—which, with their manifold natural charms, have always been a great feature of attraction at Earl's Court—will be improved, and Electric Illuminations, First-class Bands, and other attractions will be provided therein.

Arrangements will also be made with persons having control of typical Indian Amusements, or Shows connected with India, which they are desirous of exhibiting to the British public for special payment at the doors. Such arrangements can be made either on the basis of a fixed rental or of sharing the receipts for admissions. Spaces for this purpose will be provided in the grounds separate in every way from the Exhibition Buildings.

Arrangements have been made with Messrs. SPIERS & POND to provide an efficient system of Restaurants and Refreshment Bars to suit all classes of visitors, at prices varying from the cheap tourist tariff to the celebrated Quadrant Dinners provided by them at the well-known South Kensington Exhibitions of 1885 and 1886.

Intending Exhibitors should fill up the Preliminary Form attached, giving particulars of their Exhibit, and forward the same, addressed to the Secretary, at the Offices of The London Exhibitions, Limited, 10, 11 and 12, New Bridge Street, London, E. C., from whom all information can be obtained, as well as at the Offices of Messrs. KING, KING & Co., at Bombay, and KING, HAMILTON & Co., of Calcutta.

After receipt of the Preliminary Form above referred to, the Applicant will be informed if the space can be allotted to him, and on what conditions, when the Rules and Regulations and Form of Agreement will be sent for his approval and signature.

THE EMPIRE OF INDIA EXHIBITION, 1895.

THE LONDON EXHIBITIONS, LIMITED.

Offices:—10, 11, 12, New Bridge Street, E. C.

To Manufacturers and Importers desirous of developing or establishing trade with India, the commercial importance of this Exhibition cannot be overstated. It will not only bring the manufacturer into practical touch with the consumer, but will also afford an unrivalled opportunity of making brands prominently known in the most desirable of markets.

The solid support the Exhibition meets with both here and in India, in the very highest and most influential quarters, indicates the serious interest taken in it.

The important trade already existing between the two countries is clearly shown in the following Government Statistics of Exports to which we particularly invite the attention of Merchants and Manufacturers of all classes; a trade to which it is believed the Empire of India Exhibition will afford an enormous impetus.

Director of Fine Art and Loan Section.

SIR JAMES D. LINTON,

President of the Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colours.

FINE ART AND LOAN SECTION.

REGULATIONS FOR EXHIBITORS.

CONDITIONS ON WHICH WORKS WILL BE RECEIVED.

1. The Exhibition will consist of Paintings in Oil and Water Colours, Black and White Drawings, Miniatures, Pastels, Engravings, Etchings, all of which must be of Indian or allied subjects, and Loan Objects of Indian Art. Owners of Historical Pictures, Portraits of Governors-General and other personages who have figured conspicuously in the History of India, are particularly invited to co-operate in this Section.

2. The Receiving Days for Pictures intended for the Exhibition will be from Monday, March 18th, to Wednesday, March 20th; for all Loan Objects other than Pictures from March 11th to the 13th, inclusive. All Works must be sent in to the Galleries at Earl's Court on one of those dates, as nothing can be admitted after the last named day. The hours for receiving will be from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M.

3. All Works, except those specially invited, will be subject to the approval of the Fine Art Committee, whose decision will be notified to the Artists and Contributors with as little delay as possible.

4. All Works, except such as are specially invited or promised, must be delivered at the Galleries free of charge and without packing cases, and Artists or Contributors living in the country or abroad must send their Works to an Agent in London to be unpacked and delivered at the Galleries on one of the appointed days.

5. All specially invited Works will be returned by THE LONDON EXHIBITIONS, LIMITED, to the various Contributors free of charge after the close of the Exhibition.

6. The Number and Title of the Work, or description of the Object, with the name and address of the Artist or Contributor, and the price (if the Work or Object be for sale), must be placed on labels, one to be fixed to the back and the other to hang over the front of the Picture or attached to the Object; and the same information with corresponding numbers must be placed upon the form herewith, which form must be delivered with the Works or Objects. On receipt of a stamped directed envelope the Curator will forward form and labels.

7. All Pictures and Water-colour Drawings must be in Gilt Frames. This rule does not apply to Black and White Drawings, Engravings and Etchings. All Pictures must be Glazed with the exception of Oil Paintings, which may be glazed or not at the option of the Artist. Drawings with white or other coloured mounts are admissible.

8. No exhibited Work or Object can be removed before the close of the Exhibition.

9. A commission of 15 per cent. upon the price first sent in will be charged upon all Works sold in the Galleries, whether the sale be effected by the Exhibition Company or by the Contributor. In the case of Loan Objects other than Pictures from abroad, a commission of 10 per cent. will be charged; and any expenses incurred by the Exhibition Company's Committee will also be deducted from the proceeds of the sale before the amount is remitted to the Contributor.

10. On any Work or Object being sold privately by the Artist or Contributor, intimation should at once be sent to the Curator, as a sale in the Gallery will take priority of a sale effected by the Artist or Contributor unless due notice be given.

11. In case the purchaser of any Work or Object sold in the Galleries cannot be found within a reasonable period after the close of the Exhibition, the deposit, if any, shall be forfeited to the Artist or Contributor, after deducting the commission as mentioned in Regulation 9; but the Exhibition Company will not hold itself responsible for more than the amount of such deposit.

12. Every reasonable care will be taken of the Works and Objects contributed, but THE LONDON EXHIBITIONS, LIMITED, does not hold itself reponsible for any injury or loss which may occur to such Works or Objects whilst in the Exhibition or in transit thereto or from, except in the case of such Pictures and Objects which are specially invited by THE LONDON EXHIBITIONS, LIMITED, and which will be insured by them.

13. At the close of the Exhibition an order for the delivery of the Works (except those sold and such as are specially invited) will be sent to each Artist or Contributor, and it is earnestly requested by THE LONDON EXHIBITIONS, LIMITED, that all Works be removed on one of the appointed days, otherwise they will be warehoused at the expense of the owner.

14. ALL CORRESPONDENCE must be addressed: Fine Art and Loan Section, The Empire of India Exhibition, 10, 11, 12, New Bridge Street, London, E.C.

TO INDIAN EXHIBITORS.

No Loans can possibly be received unless a full description, including dimensions, of the proposed objects be previously sent to SIR JAMES D. LINTON, The Fine Art and Loan Section, Empire of India Exhibition, 10, 11, and 12, New Bridge Street, London, E.C., for consideration; when, if acceptable, due notification will be given and the Exhibitions Company's Agents—Messrs. KING, KING & CO., Bombay, and Messrs. KING, HAMILTON & CO., Calcutta, will be advised to receive the same, provided they are properly packed for shipment and delivered free to them. THE LONDON EXHIBITIONS CO. will then defray all charges for freight to and from their Agents' Offices.

GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS AND RULES AND REGULATIONS.

I.—Only articles enumerated in the Classification will be admitted, these must be of Indian manufacture.

II.—Preference will be given to articles adapted to the European market, but in which Indian Art characteristics have been preserved.

III.—Articles will not be esteemed on account of excessive labour employed in their decoration, but for excellence of design, good workmanship, and moderate price.

IV.—Every article sent must be for sale, and the price asked by the sender clearly stated on a label attached to each object. The Exhibition Company reserves the right to add to this price such charges as it may consider necessary in order to cover the transit and packing expenses with regard to each article.

V.—All articles unsold at the close of the Exhibition will be returned free of expense to the senders.

VI.—The articles in competition will be judged by a Committee of the Society for the Encouragement and Preservation of Indian Art, who will award the Money Prizes, and, in addition, grant Special Diplomas of Merit, in several grades, to those receiving the prizes and also to those whose exhibits are honourably mentioned.

VII.—The Commercial Exhibitors and Importers can also enter any articles in their stalls for competition, and will also be eligible to receive prizes for general excellence of collective exhibits in each class should any prizes remain unawarded, owing to a lack of merit, after the Committee has inspected the articles sent specially for competition.

VIII.—Every article must bear a label giving a full description, also stating its Class number and the full name and address of the maker as well as that of the Exhibitor, should they be different persons, and selling price asked by the sender. These details must all be given in English.

IX.—All articles must be securely packed and forwarded with the attached duplicate forms correctly filled up, one being enclosed in the case with the articles, to Messrs. KING, KING & CO., Bombay; or Messrs. KING, HAMILTON & CO., Calcutta; and must arrive at Bombay not later than the 7th February, or Calcutta on the 1st February 1895. In order to ensure safe delivery, special attention is called to the packing of all objects as they will be forwarded to London by the Company's Agents in the condition received and will in no instance be re-packed. Every package must be addressed "The Empire of India Exhibition, London," and bear the name of the sender.

X.—The Exhibition Company will insure the goods against all possible risks, but will not be responsible for any loss or damage which may not be covered by such insurance.

XI.—No Exhibitor may send more than two articles in any one class, but he may compete in several classes.

All particulars and information can be obtained from Messrs. KING, KING & CO., Bombay; Messrs. KING, HAMILTON & CO., Calcutta; and THE LONDON EXHIBITIONS, LIMITED.

WILLIAM FOSTER, Esq., B.A., Honorary Secretary.

The Directors of The Empire of India Exhibition, to be opened at Earl's Court, Kensington, in May next, desiring to make it as useful and instructive as possible, have decided to form a Loan Collection of Relics and other Historical Memorials of the late Honourable East India Company.

The Directors have been much gratified by the warm approval the proposal has received. A number of distinguished Anglo-Indian officials have already kindly consented to act as an Honorary Committee of Advice, to assist the Directors in their efforts to secure a collection which shall recall to the minds of the present generation of Englishmen the remarkable achievements of the great Merchant Company of the City of London, to which we owe our Indian Empire, and shall be worthy of the heroic record they fill in the pages of our National history.

The Directors will be glad to receive particulars of any proposed Loan Exhibits from the owners of objects connected with the history of the Honourable East India Company, such as Portraits, Drawings, Sketches, Maps and Plans, Original Commissions, Arms, Medals, Coins, Old Plate, China and Glass, or other Historical Relics associated with the H. E. I. C. in India or in this country. For all approved Exhibits the Company will provide free carriage to the Exhibition, and ample exhibiting space, and they will return the same at the close of the Exhibition at their own cost.

Every reasonable protection will be afforded in the way of safes, show cases, police supervision and fire insurance by the Company.

The Directors further beg to state that the Loan Collection will be suitably installed in the Imperial Palace, in one of the finest glass and iron structures in the world, now in course of construction.

Intending contributors to this section of The Empire of India Exhibition should fill up the attached form and forward it to

WILLIAM FOSTER, Esq., B.A.,
Honorary Secretary, H.E.I. Co. Loan Collection,

THE KHARIF IRRIGATION OPERATIONS FOR 1894-95.

No. 446*I*.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—IRRIGATION DEPARTMENT.

Irrigation.

Dated Calcutta, the 18th March 1895.

READ—

Statements Nos. I, II, and III showing irrigation operations of canals in Bengal during the kharif season of 1894-95.

OBSERVATIONS.—The area irrigated during the kharif season of 1894-95 was 483,858 acres, against 493,085 acres in 1893-94, showing a decrease of 1·87 per cent.

2. The decrease took place mainly in the area commanded by the Sone and Midnapore Canals. In the Orissa Canal area there was a slight, and in the case of the Eden Canal a large increase. The increase was due to defect in the rainfall, and where there was an increase, the rainfall of 1894 was more abundant than usual.

3. The increase or decrease in the irrigation from each canal is given in the following statement:—

Canals.	Kharif season.		More.	Less.
1	2	3	4	5
	Acres	Acres.	Acres.	Acres.

Saran Canal	994	.....*	.....	994
Total ...	493,085	483,858	26.942	36 169

* There was no irrigation from the Saran Canals during the kharif season of 1894-95.

4. On the Orissa, Midnapore, Eden and Saran Canals, the only kharif crop irrigated is rice, whilst on the Sone Canals there are in addition sugarcane and hot-weather crops.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution and of the statements Nos. I, II, and III be published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette, and submitted to the Government of India, Public Works Department, for information.

Ordered, also, that copies of this Resolution and of the statements be forwarded to the Commissioners of Orissa, Burdwan, and Patna Divisions; the Collectors of Cuttack, Balasore, Midnapore, Burdwan, Hooghly, Gaya, Patna, Shahabad, and Saran; the Superintending Engineers, Orissa, South-Western and Sone Circles; and the Examiner of Public Works Accounts, Bengal, for information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. D. McARTHUR, Lieut.-Col., R.E.,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

WEATHER AND CROP REPORT.

For the week ending the 18th March, 1895.

Burdwan.—Rainfall at Sadar ·02. Weather getting sensibly warmer. Sugarcane is being pressed. Potatoes and other rabi crops are being harvested. Price of common rice 10 to 20 seers per rupee in the district.

Midnapore.—Rainfall nil. Weather growing hot. Boro (spring rice) and indigo are doing well. Rice sells from 17 to 21 seers per rupee.

24-Parganas.—Rainfall at Sadar ·02. Weather seasonable. Prospects of standing crops good. Ploughing for early crops and jute has commenced. Condition of cattle good. Fodder and water sufficient. Rice sells at—

	Srs. Ch.
Sadar	12 to 13 0	per rupee.
Barasat	15 0
Basirhat	13 0
Diamond Harbour	14 8

Murshidabad.—Rainfall ·16. Weather getting hot. Prospects of crops good. Rabi being harvested. Fodder available. Price of common rice 14 seers per rupee.

Khulna.—Rainfall at Bagirhat ·02, elsewhere nil. Weather hot in the day; cool in the morning and the latter part of the night. Transplantation of boro (spring rice) going on. Rabi crops are being harvested. Fodder and water sufficient. A few cases of cattle-disease reported from the Sadar subdivision. Common rice sells from 16 to 22 seers per rupee.

Dinajpur.—Rainfall nil. Weather fine. Cultivation of jute and bhadoi rice going on. Price of common rice from 14 to 16 seers per rupee. No outbreak of cattle-disease and no complaint of want of fodder and drinking water.

Rangpur.—Average rainfall ·04. Sowing of aus paddy and jute has commenced in Gaibanda. Rain is wanted. Outturn of tobacco 16 annas.

Pabna.—Rainfall nil. Weather hot. Prospects favourable, but rain wanted. Common rice selling at from 14 to 17 seers per rupee. Fodder and water sufficient.

Dacca.—Rainfall ·13. Weather seasonable. Prospects of standing crops fair. More rain wanted. Ploughing going on. Price of common rice from 12 to 20 seers per rupee. Cattle-disease in north-west of the district. Fodder plentiful.

Chittagong.—Rainfall ·26. Weather seasonable. Prospects of crops bad. Rain much wanted. Prices stationary. Condition of cattle generally good. Water and fodder sufficient.

Patna.—Rainfall ·02. Harvesting of rabi crops and collection of opium in progress. Outturn promises to be good. Common rice sells at—

	Srs.
Sadar	18	per rupee.
Dinapore	18
Bihar	18
Barh	19

Gaya.—Harvesting of rabi crops in progress. Weather not very favourable for opium; about 10 annas of the produce collected. Price of rice from 16 to 18 seers per rupee, which is about normal. Water and fodder sufficient.

Champaran.—Rainfall at Motihari ·03, but in Bettiah subdivision as high as ·9 at one place, and much of the indigo land in that subdivisison is being resown. Indigo seedlings in the Sadar subdivision are looking well. Harvesting of wheat has commenced. Opium being collected. Common rice selling at 15½ seers per rupee. West wind getting up and weather becoming hot.

Darbhanga.—Rabi harvest commenced. Indigo sowing almost completed. Collection of opium in progress. Mango blossoms abundant. Fodder for cattle sufficient. Prices almost stationary.

Bhagalpur.—Mustard and linseed have been harvested with excellent result. Cutting of wheat and barley has begun. Indigo looks well.

Purnea.—Rain urgently wanted. Harvesting of mustard over. Tobacco still being harvested in places. Lands being prepared for bhadoi crops. Common rice selling from 15 to 21 seers per rupee. Fodder and water sufficient. No cattle-disease.

Cuttack.—No rain. Weather seasonable. Dalua (spring rice) maturing in places. Rain much wanted. Condition of cattle good. Fodder sufficient. Rice sells from 11 to 26 seers per rupee in the district.

Hazaribagh.—Weather warm. Rabi crops being harvested with fair outturn generally. Collection of opium three-fourths completed, and outturn expected to come up to estimates. Pasturage scanty. Water sufficient.

General Summary.—There was rain in several districts during the week, but it was insignificant in amount except in Murshidabad (·16), Dacca (·13), Chittagong (·26), and the Bettiah (·9) sub-division of Champaran. More rain is required for the standing crops in Eastern Bengal and for the cultivation of the bhadoi crops there and in Northern Bengal. In Orissa rain is required to mature the spring rice. The rabi harvest is in progress and promises generally to yield a good outturn. The collection of opium is going on satisfactorily, but in Gaya the weather is said to be not very favourable. The young indigo is generally doing well. No cattle-disease is reported except in the north-west of Dacca and a few cases in Khulna. The price of common rice continues normal and almost stationary.

Explanation.—.. indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rain fall column are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·10 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 19th March 1895.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 16TH OF MARCH 1895.

THE slight disturbance which occurred at the end of the previous week passed off with little or no effect on the general weather conditions. It was followed almost immediately by another in the early part of the present week, the effect of which was felt chiefly in the northern districts, where fairly general light rain fell on Monday and Tuesday. The rainfall was followed by a fall of temperature, which spread slowly across Bengal, but which was of little importance in the southern as compared with the northern half of the province. Temperature soon rose after the rainfall ceased, and gradually increased till by the end of the week there was a large excess, especially in South-West Bengal and Bihar.

One of the most noticeable features in connection with the weather of the week under review is the low pressure, which continued steadily throughout, but was most marked on the 14th and following days. There was a rapid fall on the 14th, varying from ·07 inch in Orissa to ·15 inch in Bihar, and the resulting distribution was below the normal by amounts ranging up to a fifth of an inch. The greatest defect has been in the northern districts, and to this arrangement is due the steady south-westerly or westerly air circulation which has prevailed in all districts except at some of the extreme northern stations, where wind directions have at times been north-easterly. Humidity has been high, and the sky more cloudy than is usual at this season of the year.

Pressure.—At the beginning of the week pressure was about a twentieth of an inch below the normal. A slow rise prevailed during the first two days of the week, after which a fall set in slowly on the 12th and 13th, then rapidly on the 14th. This was followed by a slow rise on the 15th and 16th. The large defect, which was the result of the fall on the 14th, continued almost unchanged till the end of the week, and it is owing to these low readings that the means of the week are so much below the normal. Mean defect varies from ·06 inch in Chota Nagpur to nearly ·12 inch at the northern stations in North Bengal and Bihar.

Temperature was above the normal at the beginning of the week except at some of the southern stations. The rainfall on Monday and Tuesday caused an almost general fall of temperature, and there was then defect except in East Bengal. During the latter half of the week there was a steady rise, which resulted in a large excess, especially in Bihar and Lower Bengal. The mean excess at the close of the week in Lower Bengal averaged about 6°, and in places was as much as 9°. The excess at Faridpur was 8·9°, at Ranchi 7·4°, at Dehri 7·2°, and at Rampur Boalia 6·9°.

The actual temperatures registered during the week and their variations from the normal temperature of the season are clearly seen in the table below, when the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period:—

Rainfall.—Light rain fell in nearly all districts on Monday and Tuesday, the 11th and 12th, except in East Bengal, where the falls occurred on the 12th and 13th. The falls rarely exceeded half an inch, and the averages for the various districts are all below the normal for the week. East Bengal and Chota Nagpur each received a third of an inch, North Bengal ·14 inch, and South-West Bengal and Bihar less than a tenth of an inch. No rain was received in Orissa.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 16th of March 1895 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

NOTIFICATION—No. 1637L.R.

The 25th March 1895.—With the sanction of the Secretary of State for India and the Government of India, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to direct the publication of the following correspondence on the proposed repeal of the Bengal Patwari Regulation XII of 1817, for general information.

C. E. BUCKLAND,

Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 483T.-R., dated Darjeeling, the 22nd September 1894.

From—C. E. BUCKLAND, Esq., Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Revenue Dept.,

To—The Secretary to the Board of Revenue, L.P.

IN continuation of my letter No. 482T.-R., dated 21st September 1894, I am desired to address the Board of Revenue regarding paragraphs 6 and 7 of the Government of India's letter No. $\frac{2548}{61}$, dated 4th September, which deal with the question of the repeal of the Patwari Regulations. A copy of those paragraphs is appended to this letter for easy reference.

2. The Board will observe that the Secretary of State in paragraph 9 of his Despatch of 5th July 1894 speaks of the repeal of Regulation XII of 1817 as a feature common to both of the rival schemes placed before him; he saw no objection to the repeal, and he desired in paragraph 16 that provision for it should be embodied in the Bill for the Maintenance of Records It was with some surprise, therefore, that Sir Charles Elliott read that the Government of India considered that the selection of one of the rival schemes should lead to the postponement of the proposal for repeal, which the Secretary of State considered to be common to both schemes.

3. Nothing contained in the letter from the Government of India has shaken Sir Charles Elliott's opinion that the position of the patwari in Bihar is untenable and mischievous, and that his legal status under the Regulations ought to be abolished. But His Honour desires a careful and independent expression of the Board's views, uninfluenced by the fact that the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department, and the Lieutenant-Governor, are at variance as regards the matter under discussion.

4. The arguments used in paragraph 7 of the Government of India's letter may be summed up thus—

(1) The Regulations give the Government much control over the patwari, which might be, though it has not been, usefully employed;

(2) The patwari is even now often a valuable protection to the raiyat against illegal claims;

(3) He has often been made use of for numerous important uses throughout Bihar;

(4) He is the nucleus from which an effective Land Record Agency can be developed.

It is to these arguments that His Honour requests the Board of Revenue specially to address themselves, and he would particularly desire to be favoured with any facts which are on record and which support the arguments numbered (2) and (3).

5. The case of Orissa must be distinguished from that of Bihar. In the parts of that division which are temporarily settled, and now under revision of settlement, the Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt that a patwari establishment ought to be created on the model of the North-Western Provinces, a patwari cess imposed, and annual revision of the Settlement Record and map carried out. The measures requisite to this end should be well thought out, and the question does not press, as the new establishment could only be introduced from 1897 at earliest. But if it is decided to repeal the Patwari Regulations as regards Bihar, care must be taken to do nothing which will prejudice the introduction of a more elaborate patwari system in Orissa.

ENCLOSURE TO GOVERNMENT ORDER No, 483T.-R., DATED 22ND SEPTEMBER 1894.

Extract, paragraphs 6 and 7, from Government of India Revenue and Agricultural Department letter No. $\frac{2548}{61}$, dated Simla, the 4th September 1894.

PARA 6. In paragraph 16 of his despatch under notice, the Secretary of State suggests that the Bill may also provide for the repeal of the Patwari Regulations. On this subject I am to remark as follows. The draft Bill forwarded for the consideration of the Secretary of State provided for the repeal of these Regulations; but it did so because it also provided for a new agency, under the name of land record-keepers, which would take the place of the patwaris, and be paid by a cess imposed for the purpose. The imposition of the cess, and therefore the creation of the new agency, have, however, been disallowed for the present; and it would seem that the abolition of the existing agency, which the new agency was to have superseded, should similarly be postponed.

7. Much has been done of late years to develop and improve the village agency in Northern and Central India. In Bombay the question of the better maintenance of village records is engaging attention. In Madras, both in rayatwari tracts and in permanently-settled zamindaris, such as we have in Bihar, the Government have lately moved in the direction of improving the patwari staff. The Bengal Regulations on the subject give Government much control over the patwari establishment; and if the existing condition of that establishment is very far from what could be desired, it is so mainly because no such earnest and sustained effort has yet been made in Bihar, as has been made in other Provinces, to improve it. Even as he is, the Bihar patwari is not without his uses. He is influenced by village opinion, and when brought on the Government registers is often, in the strength of the semi-independent position which he enjoys under the Regulations, a valuable protection to the raiyats against unjust and illegal claims. Moreover, being theoretically a Government servant, he has often been made use of for numerous important duties throughout Bihar. But it is not only upon his present value that the Government of India desire to lay stress. He is the nucleus from which it may be possible to develop an effective land record agency, should the agency which it is immediately intended to create prove ineffective. The Supreme Government are not convinced that it may not be desirable to foster such development in the future. In every other Province in India we are laboriously improving our village organizations, having recognised the truth that, without a proper local agency, we cannot bring ourselves into contact with fact, or appreciate the real necessities and feelings of the people. This is a policy with which His Honour Sir Charles Elliott's name has been heretofore identified. The Permanent Settlement Regulations leave the Government a very limited measure of control over the land in Bengal; and such means of control as they do provide should be jealously guarded, and not surrendered without an adequate substitute. His Excellency in Council is opposed to abandoning a valuable village agency that costs nothing to the Government, to depriving the raiyats of what is often a protection to them, and to forfeiting a valuable vantage ground in the future maintenance of the record-of-rights unless something as good or better is provided to take the place of the Regulation patwari. I am to say, however, that if Sir Charles Elliott desires to substitute for that organisation any other agency which will fulfil the conditions indicated above, his proposals will receive the fullest consideration from the Governor-General in Council.

No. 1296A., dated Calcutta, the 23rd October 1894.

From—M. FINUCANE, ESQ., Offg. Secretary to the Board of Revenue, L P.,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

THE HON'BLE C. C. STEVENS.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 488T.-R., dated the 22nd September 1894, on the question of the repeal of the Patwari Regulations, and to reply as follows.

2. The Board have carefully considered, from every point of view, the question of the repeal of the Patwari Regulations on which their opinion is asked in your letter, and the conclusion to which they have come is that it would be inexpedient to repeal these Regulations unless and until provision is made by law for the creation of a better village or local peripatetic agency for the maintenance of the records.

3. Mr. Stevens did not officially express his opinion on Sir Charles Elliott's scheme for the maintenance of records as sketched out in your No. 492T.-R., dated 30th June 1892, because he understood that His Honour, on consideration of the criticisms made upon it by the local officers and by the Director of Land Records (copies of which appear to have been unofficially submitted to Government direct) had decided to abandon the scheme. The Board, however, were of opinion that the criticisms referred to showed that the scheme was open to very great objections, the most important of which was that, without some local agency for the discovery of changes on the ground, it was unreasonable to expect that mutations would be voluntarily reported by the tenants and landlords themselves, and if landlords and tenants did not report them voluntarily, that they could be compelled to report by any system of fines and penalties. They still adhere to this view. The landlords are not required, and the tenants under the scheme will have little or no inducement, to register changes of their own accord. On the contrary, apart from their natural apathy and their ignorance of the new obligation which the law will impose on them, they will have a strong incentive to refrain from registering mutations, for by doing so they will avoid the payment to the Sub-Registrar of the legal fee and escape the inconvenience entailed by visits to his office, and at the same time will not be subjected to any real punishment for their neglect in this respect. The scheme has, however, been accepted, and the Board have every desire that it should be given a fair trial. It is primarily on this account that they think the Patwari Regulations should not be repealed. With such aid as may be obtained from the patwaris, it is, they think, not impossible that the scheme may prove successful. Without the powers given by the Patwari Regulations the scheme is, in the Board's opinion, foredoomed to failure. If the tenants do not voluntarily report mutations, and the Patwari Regulations are repealed, Government will be left absolutely destitute of any means of finding out mutations and compelling registration of them. But given the patwaris, such as they are, and the legal powers now held over them, it is evident that they can be utilised for finding out and reporting mutations so as to enable action to be taken under the penal clause 11 of the Bill. The Board cannot see in what other manner the Collector is to discover omissions to give the notice required under the scheme, or how, therefore, the penalty section can ordinarily be brought into operation at all. If, on the other hand, patwaris are retained as at present, it is evident that with the powers now existing of compelling them to give information to the Collector or Sub-Registrar, by the aid of the new maps and records, they might be made to render valuable assistance in helping the raiyats to report mutations in the forms that may be prescribed, and also in bringing to light omissions on their part to report these mutations. From this point of view, then, the Board think, if the scheme is not to be altogether inoperative, it is essential to retain the Patwari Regulations

4. It seems also clear that the control which the Regulations give Government over patwaris may, when a survey has been made and record-of-right prepared, be more usefully exercised than it hitherto has been. Much of the fault found hitherto with patwaris in Bihar arose from the fact that either they did not furnish returns when called upon to do so, or that they supplied incorrect returns. But it is often forgotten that without maps and records, such as the survey and settlement will give, it has been impossible for patwaris to furnish the returns called for. With the aid of maps and of the survey and settlement records, it seems to the Board that the case may be different in future. The existing law gives the Collector large powers in the appointment of patwaris, in regulating the amount of their pay, and in compelling them to furnish such information as the Collector may require. If these powers are properly exercised, if care is taken that in making new appointments only properly qualified men are selected, and if patwaris are registered and their circles arranged by Revenue officers during the course of the present survey and settlement operations, it seems quite possible gradually to create an efficient agency for the correction of the records under the present Regulations. But at all events it seems inadvisable to repeal these Regulations and abolish patwaris without any substitute being supplied in their places, "the last potentiality (to use the words of Sir Antony MacDonnell) of Government control over village agrarian economy being thus wiped out."

5. In regard to points 2 and 3 of paragraph 2 of your letter, I am to invite attention to the letters of the Commissioner of Patna, No. 1113B., dated 7th September 1880, and 218R., dated the 4th May 1880, and to the Board's No. 712A., dated 21st October, which formed one of the enclosures to the Board's more recent letter No. 861A., dated 27th June 1893, addressed to the Director of Land Records, and to the other enclosures to that letter (copy annexed for ready reference). The duties which patwaris now perform in the several districts of the Patna Division are enumerated at length in the Commissioner's letter of the 7th September 1880. They are, it will be seen, very useful to the raiyats and to the administration, and may be recapitulated here for facility of reference:—

Patna.—In Patna it is reported the patwaris have—

(1) To measure annually the holdings of raiyats.
(2) To give receipts for payment of rents.
(3) To make an estimate of the produce of lands held bhaoli.
(4) To attend on public officers when engaged in local enquiries.
(5) To receive processes or orders issued by public officers to zamindars.
(6) To collect rents when there is no gumashta for the estate.

Gaya.—In Gaya, where the bhaoli system extensively prevails, the patwaris are chiefly employed on danabundi and agorabatai. In effecting danabundi, the duty of the patwari is to make an estimate of the crops and to settle the shares of the zamindars and raiyats, while in the case of agorabatai, the patwari is to set watch over the crops which are stored at the harvest time till they are divided. The patwaris in Gaya are also occasionally employed on collecting rents in conjunction with the jeyt or head raiyats. They have to execute petty works for the improvement of estates, locally called giandazi, and they are required to supply Government officers with necessary information when a village is under settlement.

Shahabad.—In Shahabad the functions of a patwari are purely those of an accountant. In addition to the duty of keeping the village accounts, he has to perform the following duties:—

(a) To give receipts and farakhatis to raiyats.
(b) To copy the khatiani of water-rate demands, and supply demand slips to each raiyat.
(c) To attend the amin who prepares the demand statement as representative of villagers, in order to see that their rates are correctly entered in the khatiani, &c.
(d) To give receipts for payments of chaukidari cess.
(e) To keep accounts of collections of chaukidari cess.

Tirhut.—In Muzaffarpur and Darbhanga the patwaris have to perform the following duties:—

(1) To prepare measurement khasras.
(2) To prepare kankuti khawas or assessment of bhaoli crops.
(3) To furnish local officers with statistical information about local rates in the neighbourhood when settlements or re-settlements of Government estates are made.
(4) To give information as zamindars' agents of unnatural deaths (section 196, Criminal Procedure Code).
(5) To act as a member of the punchayet appointed under Act VI (B.C.) of 1870.
(6) To act as enumerators during census operations.
(7) To keep the mortuary returns.
(8) To give receipts to raiyats.

Champaran.—The duties performed by the patwaris in Champaran are described by the Commissioner to be—

I.—Collection of rents.
II.—Giving receipts to raiyats for rents paid.

III.—Making valuation of crops of bhaoli lands.
IV.—Measurement of lands settled with raiyats.
V.—Giving information to the police of any occurrence.

Saran.—In Saran the patwaris are required to perform the following duties:—

(a) Collecting rents.
(b) Giving receipts for rents.
(c) Giving pattas.
(d) Attendance at the Civil Courts on behalf of the zamindars in rent and similar suits.
(e) Attendance in butwara proceedings.
(f) Attendance on behalf of the zamindar in settlement proceedings.
(g) The performance of all correspondence and accounts for the zamindar whenever required.
(h) To be present at the danabundi or batai in villages where that system is in force.
(i) To settle new lands for the maliks.
(j) Acting as the zamindar's representative in all minor matters between him and the revenue authorities.

The Commissioner (Mr. Halliday), in his report No. 248R., dated the 4th May 1880 (paragraphs 18 and 20), wrote:—"In all these matters (i.e., matters described in the preceding paragraphs of his report) they (the patwaris) are no doubt useful, and may become even more so * * *" "I would certainly not advocate the abolition of patwaris; on the contrary, I would prefer to see the institution more strongly established."

6. The Board (Mr. Reynolds), in reviewing the reports of the local officers above referred to in Mr. Cotton's letter No. 712A., dated 21st October 1880, wrote:—

The duties in which the agency of the patwari appears to the Board to be especially valuable are the granting of rent receipts, and attendance at the valuation or division of the crop where the bhaoli system prevails. Considering the ignorance and helplessness of the mass of the Bihar peasantry, the Board would be inclined to attach very great importance to the performance of these duties by an official who is presumably one of the most respectable inhabitants of the village, and who is, in some measure at least, independent of the zamindar. It would, in the Board's opinion, be greatly to be regretted if the trouble which has been taken to effect the partial reorganization of the patwari system in Bihar should now be thrown away by the final abandonment of the scheme. The usefulness of the patwari, even under the drawbacks of the present imperfect arrangements, is universally acknowledged by the local officers: and appeals which come before the Board sufficiently indicate that the appointment is keenly sought by respectable persons.

Government, in replying to the Board's letter in Mr. Bolton's No. 1762L.R., dated 15th December 1880, said:—

"On the whole, the Lieutenant-Governor thinks it best that the institution should be left for the present on its existing mixed basis. If the patwari were formally allowed to become a mere zamindari servant, his usefullness to the raiyats and his amenability to village considerations, would entirely disappear, and he would become simply a petty gumashta, the worst enemy of the raiyats."

7. It will thus be seen that in the discussions that took place on the subject in Sir Ashley Eden's time in 1880 to 1882, it was generally held by the local officers, the Board and Government, that the patwaris, imperfect as they were, performed functions useful to the raiyats and to Government, and that even officers who were opposed to any violent change in the law relating to them were equally opposed to the repeal of the Patwari Regulations and to the entire abolition of the system, it being held by so strong an advocate of the Bengal system of non-interference and so powerful an opponent of the North-Western Provinces system as Sir Ashley Eden that, "if the patwari were formally allowed to become a mere zamindari servant, his usefulness to the raiyats would entirely disappear, and he would become simply a petty gumashta, the worst enemy of the raiyats." The Board (Mr. Schalch), reporting on the subject previously in 1875, recorded that, "in regard to the Patna Division, patwaris had been maintained from the first in various districts with various degrees of efficiency, and had proved most useful. Although the Patwari Regulations had not been carefully maintained in their full force, yet the efficiency of the class had been to a great extent preserved." Sir Richard Temple in reply then wrote: "In Bihar * * the institution of patwaris is calculated to be of special value and may prove to be of great use * * Though parts of the system have become obscured, still its essential vitality is unimpaired, and its position is vindicated by some of the best informed local authorities."

8. The subject came under discussion again in 1885, when the then Commissioner of Patna, Mr. Halliday, reported on it in his No. 1173, dated 2nd January of that year. The Collector of Shahabad then remarked as follows:

Vide page 163 of the papers relating to the Bill to amend the law relating to Kanungoes and Patwaris.

"The raiyats would be highly aggrieved if patwaris were declared to be dependent solely on the zamindars, and I think with reason." * *

"The patwaris are most useful officials, keeping accounts, collecting canal dues and chaukidari tax, and helping in many ways. I would just as soon hand over the chaukidars, the police, or any other public service, for the exclusive benefit of a class, as abandon the claim of Government to the services of the patwari."

Messrs. Burrows, Mylne, and Thomson of Behcea, themselves zamindars of the best type, wrote thus:—

"The patwaris of Shahabad are much more the servants and patwaris of their brother cultivators and rent-payers than they are of either zamindar or Government; for they are, as a rule, not only themselves cultivators, but in all the relationships, interests, and surrounding are identified with the cultivating classes."

These latter remarks apply to other districts of Bihar likewise, though in the reports from them no special reference seems at that time to have been made to the assistance afforded by the patwaris to raiyats. All the officers consulted appear, however, to have been of opinion that the patwaris gave much useful information to Government officers and performed functions useful to the raiyats, and might be made to do more. Various suggestions for their improvement were offered, but no officer in Bihar has ever yet proposed their entire and unconditional abolition.

9. The Board, as now constituted, agree with the local officers of Bihar and with their own predecessors in the Board, and with all previous Governments of Bengal, in thinking that the Bihar patwaris are a source of some protection to the tenants. They also give useful information to Government and perform useful functions such as have been enumerated above. The Board would therefore deprecate their entire abolition by the repeal of Regulation XII of 1817 unless and until some other local agency is substituted for them. The zamindars would, no doubt, gain and would be much pleased by the repeal of the Regulation, but the raiyats and Government would lose, and there is, the Board think, no sufficient reason for taking any action that is likely to bring about such results.

10. I am to explain that the Board supported Sir Antony MacDonnell's proposal to repeal the Patwari Regulations, but their support of it, like the proposal itself, was contingent on a more efficient peripatetic local agency being substituted for the patwaris. As no such agency is now to be substituted, they think that the patwaris, imperfect as they may be, are better than nothing, and therefore would be averse from their abolition.

11. As has been above stated, the Board think that, given maps and correct records, it may be found possible so to improve the patwari system under the present law as to keep the records corrected from year to year by their instrumentality without the imposition of a cess, though they would prefer the more complete scheme put forward by Sir Antony MacDonnell.

12. Since Sir Steuart Bayley was Commissioner of Patna in 1874, more or less sustained effort has been made to register patwaris and bring them under control of the authorities, and the Board think that it would be greatly to be regretted if the results of these efforts were now to be thrown away.

No. 5764L.R., dated Calcutta, the 21st December 1894.

From—C. E BUCKLAND, Esq., Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal, Revenue Dept.,
To—The Secretary to the Govt of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. $\frac{2544}{41}$, dated the 4th September 1894, and to say that the Bill for the Maintenance of the Record of Rights has been for some time under preparation, as desired in the fifth paragraph of your letter, and will shortly be submitted. The Lieutenant-Governor has thought it better to address you separately on the subject of the abolition of the Patwari Regulation, which, but for the remarks contained in the sixth and seventh paragraphs of your letter, would have been included in the draft Bill.

Secretary of State's sanction to repeal of Patwari Regulations.

2. The Right Honourable the Secretary of State, in paragraph 9 of his Despatch No. 88, dated the 5th July 1894, wrote of the proposed repeal of Regulation XII of 1817 as a feature common to both of the schemes for the maintenance of the record of rights then under his consideration, and stated, in paragraph 16 of his Despatch, that provision for it could be embodied in the Bill for the Maintenance of the Record of Rights. His Honour had hoped that this decision would have closed the controversy on the subject. He felt therefore both regret and surprise on reading that the Government of India considered that the selection of one of the schemes before the Secretary of State should lead to the postponement of the proposal for repeal of the Patwari Regulation which the Secretary of State had regarded as a feature common to both schemes. In forwarding a copy of the correspondence regarding the Bihar Cadastral Survey to the Board of Revenue, Board of Revenue consulted.

and consulting them specially on the subject of the Patwari Regulations, Sir Charles Elliott requested them to address themselves to the arguments used in paragraph 7 of the Government of India's letter under reply, summed up as follows:—

(1) The Regulations give the Government much control over the patwari, which might be, though it has not been, usefully employed;
(2) The patwari is even now often a valuable protection to the raiyat against illegal claims;
(3) He has often been made use of for numerous important uses throughout Bihar;
(4) He is the nucleus from which an effective Land Record Agency can be developed; and the Board were particularly desired to favour the Lieutenant-Governor with any facts on record which support the arguments numbered (2) and (3).

Board of Revenue's reply.

3. I am to forward, for the information of the Government of India, a copy of the Board's letter No. 1296A., dated the 23rd October, and its enclosures, in which they deprecate the entire abolition of patwaris by the repeal of Regulation XII of 1817, unless and until some other local agency is substituted for them. The Board's letter may be summed up as follows. First, they consider that Sir Charles Elliott's scheme of maintenance of the record of rights may prove successful with such aid as may be obtained from patwaris, but that, without the powers given by the Patwari Regulations, it is foredoomed to failure. Secondly, they quote at some length from correspondence of 1880-82, and more briefly from reports of 1875 and 1885, to show that all the officers consulted were of opinion that the patwaris gave much useful information to Government officers and performed functions useful to the raiyats, and might be made to do more. Thirdly, they assert that no officer in Bihar has ever yet proposed their entire and unconditional abolition, and that they agree with the local officers in Bihar, with their own predecessors in the Board, and with all previous Governments of Bengal, in thinking that the Bihar patwaris are a source of some protection to the tenants.

Utilisation of patwaris in the maintenance of records.

4. With regard to the first head of the Board's reply, I am to observe that the Bill shortly to be submitted to the Government of India contains no provision for the utilisation of the patwari. If the scheme it embodies is successful, it will not be through the aid of the patwari; if it fails, it will not be for want of such support. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that it is conclusively established that the unreformed patwari as he now exists is an instrument which cannot be employed effectually for the purpose of keeping village accounts or maintaining the record. It has never been His Honour's intention to utilize the patwari, as the Board propose, in finding out and reporting mutations. He relies, as the Government of India will see, on disabilities and on penalties for making the registrations of transfers compulsory and effective.

In advocating the non-repeal of the existing law, the Board say that "if these powers are properly exercised, if care is taken that in making new appointments only properly qualified men are selected, and if patwaris are registered and their circles arranged by Revenue officers during the course of the present survey and settlement operations, it seems quite possible gradually to create an efficient agency for the correction of the records under the present Regulations." This view can hardly be treated as anything more than a pious opinion, for though many attempts have been made in past years to carry out the reforms suggested, they have never been successful, and cannot be successful so long as the patwari retains the position created by the Regulation of 1817. At the best, it requires the concurrent achievement of three important conditions, which have never yet been attained since 1817, to arrive at a possibility of success. There is no sound reason for the Board's reviving now, and treating as within the sphere of practical politics, a scheme which both the present Lieutenant-Governor and the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor in 1893 refused to contemplate.

5. The argument drawn by the Board from past experience, "quod semper, quod ubique, quod ab omnibus," is a weighty one; and if it were justified by facts, the Government would undoubtedly hesitate in accepting a proposal which is opposed to the consensus of authoritative opinion. The patwari question has, however, been under consideration on many occasions, its literature is multifarious, and, although the whole of it may not have come under the official cognizance of the Board, the Lieutenant-Governor cannot help thinking that the Board's assertion would have been more weighty and less positive if they had dealt exhaustively with all the records which were accessible to them. The Secretary to this Government in the Revenue Department has, at the Lieutenant-Governor's request, examined this literature with care, and a note on the subject signed by him forms the first Appendix to this letter. In Sir Charles Elliott's opinion a perusal of these documents, and of the correspondence from which they are culled, drives an impartial student to a conclusion diametrically opposed to that at which the Board of Revenue has arrived.

The argument from past experience.

6. Mr. Buckland's note contains extracts from the discussions which took place on the following occasions:—

(1) in 1878-79, when the revision of the rent law was first under consideration;
(2) in 1880-82, when reports were called for on the working of the patwari system in Bihar;
(3) in 1884-85, when correspondence took place preparatory to the introduction of the Patwari Bill;
(4) in the debates in Council on the Patwari Bill in 1885;
(5) in 1886, when the mode of maintaining the record of rights framed in the Muzaffarpur experimental survey was discussed;
(6) in 1887, when the special difficulties caused by the peculiar conditions in Muzaffarpur were ascertained;
(7) in 1887-88, when the retention of the registers prescribed for patwaris was under consideration;
(8) in 1892-93, when reports were submitted on the first sketch of the present Lieutenant-Governor's scheme for maintenance of settlement records in Bihar.

All this correspondence is pervaded by one prevailing and almost universal opinion, that the patwari's position as created by Regulation XII of 1817 is an impossible one, and that the Regulation must be repealed. Naturally, as long as the Patwari Bill or any scheme of that nature was in the air, the Bihar officers recommended, not the entire abolition of the patwari, but an imitation of the system which prevails in other parts of India, by which his divided allegiance should be destroyed and he should cease to be a servant of the zamindar and become solely a servant of Government. That scheme was wrecked by the impossibility of imposing a cess to provide for his pay, and from that time official opinion became more and more unfavourable to him, till at last, when a suggestion was made for keeping up a record of transfers without the intervention of the patwari, several of the Bihar officials advocated his entire abolition as a Government servant. It cannot therefore fairly be made a charge against the present proposal that no former Lieutenant-Governor, and no former Member of the Board, have urged the complete abolition of the patwari. What was originally advocated was the repeal of Regulation XII of 1817, and the substitution of an Act bringing the patwari completely under Government control. What is now advocated is the repeal of the Regulation and the substitution of the Bill, the principle of which has been approved by the Secretary of State, and the text of which will immediately be submitted to the Supreme Government.

Opinions of present local officers mostly unfavourable to the patwari.

7. Finding that the Board had not reported on the state of things now existing, but confined themselves to a summary of opinions expressed many years ago, the Lieutenant-Governor thought it necessary to ascertain the views of the Bihar Commissioner and Collectors, and of the Manager of the Darbhanga Raj; and I am to enclose in Appendix II a copy of their reports for the information of the Government of India. Two of the Collectors, Messrs. Marindin and O'Donnell, are in favour of the retention of the patwari even under the present law but the majority are desirous of his abolition. Mr. Forbes and Mr. Blyth have dwelt on the subject with great thoroughness and impartiality. The general conclusions to be drawn from this collection of papers are that the patwari in his present state is worthless; that he is a potent cause of active mischief; that he is often used without legal authority; and that, to be really useful, he must be thoroughly reformed. Mr. H. Bell, Manager of the Darbhanga Raj, gives instances of the rascality of the patwari, and dwells on the unfairness of compelling the zamindar to retain him, and the impossibility of turning him to any useful account, either for the purposes of Government or the zamindar, unless he is wholly the servant of one or the other.

8. I am now to submit the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion on the four arguments used in paragraph 7 of your letter under reply.

First, it may be admitted that the Regulation gives the Government some control over the patwari; but that control cannot be used for any good purpose. The frequent effect of the power of Government in respect of appointment and dismissal of a patwari is to prevent a zamindar from selecting the best man or the man he can trust, and thus to justify his complaint that he is hampered in the management of his estate. The Government can appoint a patwari, but cannot compel a zamindar to employ him in keeping village accounts or to give him any information. In divided villages, where there are many proprietors, the patwari of the Regulation cannot exist and therefore cannot be usefully employed, since every separate share-holder can insist on employing his own patwari, and there have been known to be as many as ten patwaris in a single village. Time after time the most zealous and most sanguine officers in Bihar have attempted to organise and use the Patwari Regulations, and time after time they have fallen back baffled from the infructuous endeavour. It is idle to hope that any similar effort will be more successful now, and as a matter of fact the Government of India itself does not contemplate making such an effort.

9. Secondly, it is impossible to prove a negative, that is, to prove that the patwari is never a valuable protection to the raiyat against illegal claims; but the onus of proof lies on those who assert it. No such evidence has been found in the correspondence which has been examined, and no single fact of the kind has been brought to the Lieutenant-Governor's knowledge. Of course when a patwari has fallen out with his zamindar, he will take the side of the raiyat in a dispute, even to the extent of fabricating false evidence in his behalf, and this is all that the Lieutenant-Governor understands

Mr. O'Donnell to mean when he say he knows of cases in which the patwari actually did protect the raiyat and incurred the ill-will of the zamindar in consequence. It is not contended that the patwari can never be an honest man, but there is an immense weight of evidence that he is, as a class, corrupt and untrustworthy, and follows his interests by siding with the stronger party, the zamindar. Even if the contention of this argument were sound, he would not be, as Mr. Forbes remarks, more of a protection to the raiyat than any zamindar's gomashta would be who turns againt his master. His "semi-independent position" is only of service to him when he has quarrelled with his zamindar and desires to retain his post against the zamindar's will; and only then, if the Collector refuses to sanction his dismissal. In the Shahabad district this seems to have been often refused: in the Muzaffarpur district it has been so little the habit to support the patwari, and his post is so little worth having, that the Collector is hardly ever appealed to for protection against the zamindar.

10. The third argument is discussed at length in part II of the first Appendix, and its inherent error exposed. The patwari may have been useful in important ways, but the fact that he is theoretically a Government servant has not increased his usefulness or enabled him to do more than he might have done had he been only a zamindar's gomashta. His usefulness did not arise from the position created for him by the Regulation, but from his being a man (often the only man) of some education and importance in the village. The services which are claimed for him by Messrs. Marindin and O'Donnell, such as usefulness in the famine and in the census and for help in communicating with the villagers, could be demanded from him and performed by him equally if the Regulation of 1817 were repealed; and as a matter of fact they are performed equally in other parts of Bengal where no patwaris exist. If the second and third arguments used in your letter under reply were correct, it should follow that the raiyat is better off and the administration more efficient in Bihar than in the rest of the province; and this assertion cannot seriously be made.

11. Lastly, the argument that the patwari is the nucleus for an effective land record agency reads strangely when it is considered that the Land Record-keepers Bill, as drafted in 1893, and as modified and sent to London in January 1894, made no mention or use of patwaris at all, and provided for the repeal of the Regulation. As a matter of fact, there is no logical connection between the existence of a body of patwaris and either of the two systems devised for maintenance of the records or for registration of mutations. In both of these projects it is postulated that the patwaris of the Regulation cannot be utilised, and that other means must be devised to arrive at the desired end. Sir Charles Elliott's scheme has no room for the patwari; and, if he is allowed to survive, a festering sore will be continued, which all persons who care for the welfare of the country should desire to excise. If Sir Charles Elliott's scheme fails, Sir A. P. MacDonnell's scheme will be tried, and that, too, provides no employment for the patwari and presumes his disappearance. In neither case, therefore, can the Lieutenant-Governor admit that anything will be gained by retaining the patwari as a nucleus of future reforms.

12. It has been said in your letter under reply that the improvement of our village organizations and the development of a proper local agency is a policy with which Sir Charles Elliott's name has been heretofore identified. He has no hesitation in acknowledging that he has always given his support to schemes for getting the best possible work out of the patwari, and utilising him to the utmost, where he exists in reality and not in name only. He also advocated, before he came to Bengal, the creation of a Patwari Establishment throughout the Province, provided the patwari was a Government servant, as was contemplated in the Patwari Bill of 1885. In writing to the Board on the present occasion, he was careful to say that the case of Orissa must be distinguished from that of Bihar, and that in the parts of that Division which are temporarily settled and now under revision of settlement, a patwari establishment ought to be created on the model of the North-Western Provinces, a patwari cess imposed, and annual revision of the settlement record and map carried out. But in permanently-settled Bihar, in the face of the Secretary of State's decisions against the imposition of a cess in 1886, on account of the patwari, and in 1894 on account of the maintenance of records, Sir Charles Elliott cannot see his way to making any constructive recommendation for the purpose. The simple truth is that there is but one reform possible consistent with the maintenance of the patwari, and that is to pass some such law as the Patwari Bill of 1885. That law will not be passed, and as the patwari cannot be mended, he should be ended.

13. I am to request that when the Government of India address Her Majesty's Government again on this question, a copy of this letter may be submitted to the Right Honourable the Secretary of State.

APPENDIX I.

Note on certain assertions contained in the Board of Revenue's letter No. 1296A., dated the 23rd October 1894.

1. The Board of Revenue in paragraph 9 of their letter of 23rd October 1894, write that they "agree with the local officers of Bihar and with their own predecessors in the Board and with all previous Governments of Bengal in thinking that the Bihar patwaris are a source of some protection to the tenants. They also give useful information to Government." It is desirable to examine the records of past discussions on the subject, in order to see how far this contention as to the practical unanimity of previous official opinion is borne out by the facts.

I.

Views of the Bihar Rent Committee, 1878-79.

2. The Bihar Rent Committee of 1878-79 certainly struck a very different note from that which is heard in the Board's present letter. The 4th paragraph of their report, submitted with the Commissioner of Patna's No. 214R., dated 8th March 1879, ran as follows:—

"Patwaris.—We do not deem it desirable to incorporate the law relating to patwaris with the rent-law. A separate draft Bill regarding patwaris has been submitted for our consideration. That Bill involves the imposition of a 'patwaris' cess' to which a majority of us are, under present circumstances, opposed. We have therefore no suggestions to offer with regard to patwaris. We are, however, of opinion that the patwari should be made (first) either a bonâ fide public servant paid by the State, a village record-keeper, and nothing more; or (secondly) that he should be made entirely a zamindari servant, liable to dismissal at the pleasure of his master, the landholder. The present system, under which the patwari is nominally a public servant, but is in reality the zamindar's paid servant, we are unanimous in condemning."

3. Reference may also be made to a note,* dated January 1878, written by Mr. Finucane, when Secretary to the Bihar Rent Committee. After stating the opinions of several gentlemen, he wrote: "It thus appears that there is a general consensus of opinion—

* Page 111 of the volume of papers on the patwari Bill of 1885.

1*st*.—As to the patwaris being now not worthy of trust;
2*nd*.—As to the expediency of severing the patwari's connexion with the zamindar as his paid servant;
3*rd*.—As to the expediency of rendering the patwari altogether a Government servant, paid by Government.

As to the first point everybody is agreed."

Again he wrote:—"I therefore think with Mr. Gibbon that we should aim at improving the patwari, and not at abolishing him; that this object can only be attained by making him a village registrar and accountant, and nothing more; that he should be independent alike of the raiyat and the zamindar; that he should be paid by the State direct," &c., &c. The report submitted at the time by Mr. (now Sir) W. B. Hudson, then Secretary of the Bihar Planters' Association, contained the following passages:—"It is inconceivable that men with the smallest experience of these vile parasites (patwaris) should propose to allow them any executive functions whatever. Were it possible by a stroke of the pen to do away with them entirely, that simple pen stroke would do more real good to the Bihar raiyat than all the provisions of the new Act are likely to afford him.

"In the name of justice, let Government try to place landlord and tenant face to face without the intervention of this pest. If he cannot be dispensed with at present, then make him simple village registrar under severe penalties for dishonesty, but let him have no executive functions whatever."

4. The Bihar Landholders' Association also wrote to the same effect. In their letter of the 24th September 1882 to Government, the Association included* the following extract from their annual report:—

Views of the Bihar Landholders' Association.

"A petty Government official, on a small salary, whose works cannot be supervised, and whose every-day conduct is not closely scrutinized by an official superior, is a public infliction. In the present case, even the safeguard of public opinion, which unfortunately under the present circumstances of the country is the weakest hold on the honesty of public servants, is entirely wanting; and the patwari reigns supreme in his village, remote from official supervision and public opinion of any kind, and sometimes backs the raiyats against the zamindar, and sometimes sides with the zamindars against the raiyats, according as it suits his pleasure and interest That interest is always best served by creating disputes and by keeping the two at loggerheads. Oftentimes he aims at a higher game, and actually succeeds, for purposes of his own, in creating dissensions among the different members of the proprietary body itself." and the Association asked that he (the patwari) "should not be allowed to go on unchecked in his position as a quasi-Government servant doing mischief all around to the zamindars and raiyats alike, under the protection which the Regulations afford him. It is a grave mistake to suppose that the patwari is a disinterested third party present in the village. The fact is he is always for making the best of his little position, and goes on fomenting quarrels, where otherwise there would be none, simply to further his selfish ends."

The Association wrote† also to the Comissioner of Patna:—

†Not dated or numbered; see pages 149-152 of the same Volume of papers.

"The duties of the patwari towards the raiyat are stated in rule 8,‡ which is as follows: 'The patwari shall as a rule attend at the danabandi of each raiyat's crops, but he shall not act as an arbitrator, but shall merely act as a recorder of the transaction. Similarly, where the battyya system prevails, he shall be present at the division of the corn, and record the extent of the zamindar and raiyat's share in the produce.' There seems to be no necessity to retain a patwari for the performance of such duties as these. When there is no dispute as to the division of the crop, the patwari's attendance is unnecessary: when there is a dispute, it is practically useless, for he cannot interfere in any way, and it would of course be mischievous to give him the power of interference."

‡Now VII.

II.

5. In paragraphs 5 and 6 of their letter, the Board have quoted largely from the correspondence of the year 1880-82 as supporting the contention (in their 7th paragraph) that "it was generally held by the local officers, the Board and Government, that the patwaris, imperfect as they were, performed functions useful to the raiyats and to Government, and that even officers who were opposed to any violent change in the law relating to them were equally opposed to the repeal of the Patwari Regulations and to the entire abolition of the system." The meaning of the last clause in the sentence is obscure, for those who are violently opposed to a change in the law would naturally be opposed to its repeal. The only references to this point appear to be Mr. Halliday's advice (paragraph 20 of his report and paragraph 6 of Board's letter of 21st October 1880) that Regulation XII of 1817 should be repealed wholly and recast in a new Act, in a form more applicable to the circumstances of the present day, and Mr. Dampier's suggestion (note of 27th May 1880, and paragraph 17 of Board's letter of 21st October 1880) that the Regulation of 1817 should be repealed and re-enacted in a form which should leave the sections relating to the patwari unaltered, but should modify those relating to his duties. Both those suggestions were put aside for the time, pending the introduction of the Patwari Bill.

6. As regards the performance by the patwaris of functions useful to the raiyats and to Government, the entire correspondence referred to is appended to the Board's letter, and it is doubtful if a reader, who observes how much of what was usually held to be the patwari's duty was set aside, will set great store by the usefulness of the petty functions that remained. The main purpose for which the patwari was constituted was that of keeping the village accounts, and as to this the Bengal Government in summing up the discussion on 15th December 1880 pronounced that "the accounts filed by the patwaris are worth absolutely nothing and consequently do more harm than good, and may be the means of misleading the authorities who attempt to use them." The Board, however, desired "to see the patwari maintained on his present footing as a servant of both Government and the zamindar, chiefly for the performance of all customary services to the State covered by the Regulation, and for granting rent receipts and attendance at the valuation or division of the crop in districts and villages where the bhaoli" (metayer) "system prevails." It is interesting therefore to enquire what those customary services were, or are. The granting of rent receipts, mentioned in the letter quoted above and in the list for Patna (No. 2), Shahabad (No. 1), Tirhut (No. 8), Champaran (No. 2), and Saran (No. 2), is no longer the duty of the patwari, but it is imposed by the Bengal Tenancy Act on the landlord. Presence at the valuation or division of crops is also mentioned above, as well as in the Patna, Gaya, Champaran, and Saran lists, but the extracts from the Bihar Landholders' report, given in paragraph 4, show how little useful that presence was, since under Rule VII of the Patwari Rules he is to do nothing but act as a recorder of a transaction and cannot interfere in a dispute. The collection of rents, mentioned in the Patna, Gaya, Champaran, and Saran lists, never was the duty of the patwari as such, and was only performed by him as a servant of a zamindar. Four out of the five "customary" duties in Shahabad were connected with the collection of canal water-rates and chaukidari cess. With the former the patwari has now nothing to do; with the latter he is connected, not as a patwari, but only if he happens to be a member of the Chaukidari Panchayat. Such duties as attendance on public officers engaged in local enquiries (Patna 4), furnishing local information of unnatural deaths (Tirhut 4), acting as Census Enumerator (Tirhut 6), giving information to police of any occurrence (Champaran 5), attendance at Civil Courts in rent suits, &c. (Saran d), attendance on batwara proceedings (Saran e), attendance on settlement proceedings (Saran f), keeping the zamindari correspondence and accounts (Saran g), acting as the zamindar's representative (Saran j), were performed by the patwari, not in consequence of the position created for him by the Regulation, but as a servant of the zamindar or a member of the public, and would be equally performed by him now if the Regulation were repealed and he became a gomashta of the zamindar. Keeping mortuary returns (Tirhut 7) is now the duty of the chaukidar, not the patwari. As to furnishing local officers with statistical information when settlements are being made (Tirhut 3), the remarks of the Bengal Government in the letter of 15th December 1880, as to the incompleteness and untrustworthiness of the patwaris' accounts, apply. It appears therefore that there is not a single one of the duties enumerated in Sir John Edgar's letter of 7th September 1880, and in paragraph 5 of the Board's letter now under examination, which still devolves upon the patwari because of his appointment to that post under the Regulation of 1817. The services, if rendered as an employé of the zamindars or as a member of the public, were unobjectionable and may have been useful, but there is hardly anything said in the correspondence to justify a conclusion on that subject. The most definite remark bearing on it is contained in paragraph 2 of the Board's letter No. 183A. of 28th March 1882, to the effect that in Shahabad the patwaris were not "able to resist the pressure brought by zamindars to have all raiyats entered as tenants-at-will." In this respect at least they do not appear to have been "useful to the tenants and to Government."

III.

Opinions of local officers and non-officials in 1884-85.

7. In paragraph 8 of their letter of 23rd October 1894, the Board quote extracts from some enclosures to a letter written by Mr. F. M. Halliday, Commissioner of Patna, on 2nd January 1885, and referring to the discussions of that time, which preceded the introduction of the Patwari Bill of 1885, and are printed in pages 155-173 of the volume of papers relating to that Bill, they say that "all the officers consulted appear, however, to have been of opinion that the patwaris gave much useful information to Government officers, and performed functions useful to the raiyats, and might be made to do more." It is worth while therefore to quote some opinions to a contrary effect, which must have escaped the notice of the Board, as in them it was held that the patwari was not useful, and that his retention (unless his position was altogether changed) was injurious to the interests of all classes.

Mr. Barlow, Commissioner of Bhagalpur, wrote:—

No. 729R., dated 20th May 1884.

"I do not believe that we can at once get patwaris, on the pay, who will act quite honestly and independently of the zamindar. In the correspondence it is clearly admitted that in the last matter the zamindar has the game mostly in his hands, and can checkmate the patwaris by withholding information."

Mr. St. Clair Grant, zamindar and planter, wrote:—

"The village servant is not always, as is often supposed, the unprincipled agent of the zamindar. He, too, often plays the part of the unjust steward. * *

"The measurement of the lands is a very important point, and in this as in the appraisement and partition of crops, and in almost every other matter concerning the raiyats, they are very much better represented by the principal man of their village than by any one else."

Mr. Halliday's letter (quoted above) contained a summary of the opinions of the officers of the Patna Division and other gentlemen, from which the following extracts are made:—

Mr. Vowell, Collector of Patna, wrote:—

"The reform of patwaris should commence by making them Government servants Our object is to secure in them impartial accountants, and place them beyond village influences. If they remain dependent on the zamindars for their pay, the balance is immediately depressed. For the same reason they should have nothing whatever to do with the collection of rents."

The Maharaja of Dumraon quoted the 4th paragraph of the report of the Bihar Rent Committee (see paragraph 2 above), and urged that "the position of the patwari is perfectly anomalous under the present law" and that "in the present attempt to revise the Patwari law, this recommendation should not be lost sight of."

Again—"The Maharaja points out that the patwari happens oftener to be an inhabitant of a distant village than a resident of a village where he holds his office, wanting in sympathy with all about him; even the raiyats do not admit that he is more respectable than they, and, whatever advantage he has over his fellows as a lettered man, he always abuses this to the detriment of the raiyats or the landholders."

Also—"The Maharaja says that it is a policy of very doubtful utility to attempt to introduce a more active administration with the patwaris as the local units of such administration."

Mr. Price, Collector of Darbhanga, was of opinion "that if the patwari is to be made useful at all, if he is to be a reasonably honest and good village accountant, his connection with, and subordination to, the zamindar must be put an end to; he must for the future become a Government servant, accountable only to the Collector for the due performance of his duties. Let the patwari be a Government servant pure and simple, paid monthly or periodically by the Collector."

Colonel R. C. Money, Manager of the Darbhanga Raj, wrote:—

"The evils of the present system have been so fully pointed out that it is needless to recapitulate them. At present the patwari is the greatest source of mischief and loss to both zamindars and raiyats, and in the interest of both it is very desirable that early action be taken to do away with his anomalous position."

The Maharaja of Hatwa wrote:—

"As a public servant, the patwari has therefore no existence now except in name. Notwithstanding the parwana of appointment he receives from the Collector, he is wholly the servant of the zamindar, from whom he draws his remuneration, and whose good-will it is his main object to secure. His primary duty is to collect rents and grant receipts, and such being the case, he is not looked upon by the raiyats as their friend. To make such men therefore the real custodians of the village rent-roll, trustworthy informants of all matters connected with the rates and areas of rent-paying lands, &c., will not further the interests of the raiyats, whose welfare the Government really seems to have in view. The education of the patwaris as a class is so limited, their remuneration so small, their traditions so demoralising, that to entrust them with such important duties as those contemplated is to make light of the duties themselves."

Mr. Worsley and Mr. Henry in Champaran reported that the patwaris could be made useful under proper supervision.

Mr. Gibbon, Manager of the Bettiah Raj, was strongly of opinion that neither the present law nor any future law would serve any good purpose until the patwari's position under it in reference to Government, zamindar, and raiyat, were authoritatively decided.

Mr. Halliday gave his own opinion as follows:—

"On the first point I have no hesitation in stating that the patwari should be absolutely forbidden to render private services to the zamindar, and should be converted into a strictly dublic officer, subordinate to his official superiors alone. It is, in my opinion, to his discharge of such duties as the collecting of rents, granting receipts, &c., that is mainly due the general distrust or suspicion with which the patwari is regarded by the people. His office, as a rule, is valued by himself, more for the irregular emoluments which he is enabled to obtain, whether by fraud, oppression or influence, than for the moderate remuneration allowed by law. And not only must his business of rent collector and the frequent and various demands made upon him by the zamindar seriously interfere with the performance of those duties which he owes to the village community, but he is liable at any moment to be sued for accounts or charged with embezzlement, and thus rendered incapable of attending to his public business for weeks and months together. It is seldom in the trans-Gangetic districts, even on estates owned by a single proprietor, that the patwari enjoys the confidence both of zamindar and raiyat; while in joint undivided estates, of which the shareholders are numerous, he is invariably the object of more or less antipathy to all. In such estates, even if he is inclined to be honest, it is often impossible for him to attend impartially to the interests of all the shareholders."

These quotations will show that the Board's general statement ("all the officers consulted," &c.), quoted at the beginning of this paragraph, is not borne out by the papers. Some of the officers thought that the patwari even as he was, had his uses; some thought the reverse; but all agreed that in order to make him efficient and trustworthy, a radical alteration in the law was required.

IV.

8. On the 31st January 1885, the Honourable Mr. (now Sir) A. P. MacDonnell moved in the Bengal Legislative Council for leave to introduce a Bill for the amendment of the law relating to kanungos and patwaris in the provinces under the administration of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. Its main principles, were—to declare the patwari a Government servant free from the zamindar's control; to disassociate him from the collection of the zamindar's rent, wherever he may now happen to collect it; and to levy, through the zamindar, a cess not exceeding three-fourths of an anna on the rupee of rent for payment of the patwari's wages.

Government of Bengal's letter No. 610—234L.R., dated 16th February 1886.

In criticizing the unsatisfactory character of the law, Regulation XII of 1817, which was a compromise, the Hon'ble mover said:—

"The compromise resulted in no practical good; for the improvements effected by it were altogether incommensurate with the object in view. In fact, where it has not been entirely ignored, I am ready to admit that Regulation XII, 1817, has only had the result of causing inconvenience to the zamindars without benefiting to any material degree the raiyat or the Government. Under it the patwari is regarded as a Government servant appointed by the Collector on the nomination of the zamindar, and subject to the Collector's orders in regard to the production of his accounts. As the patwari, however, is paid by the zamindar, or by the raiyats with the zamindar's approval, it will be readily understood that, where the patwari and landlord have not quarrelled, the former is practically the latter's servant; while, where they have quarrelled, the patwari loses not only his occupation, but practically his emoluments too. In fact, wherever the patwari is not the zamindar's servant, he is a sinecure. * * * In my experience as District Collector I have known patwaris practically shorn of emoluments and duties of the office by the will of the zamindars, yet maintained in nominal office by the order of the Collector."

And again—

"I find it difficult to imagine experienced men in 1817 satisfied with Regulation XII, or failing to perceive that it was from its very essence foredoomed to failure. For the essence of Regulation XII, 1817, is an attempt to reconcile irreconcilable interests. It strove to make a man serve two masters whose interests were conflicting, and it placed it within the power of one master to checkmate the other. Of the many provisions in our old Regulations conceived in a spirit of trustfulness in the self-denial of a class, or in people's abnegation of their own pecuniary interests, none, in my opinion, surpasses Regulation XII for fatuity of conception or for sterility of results."

Further, in the course of the same speech, the following observations were made:—

"To every attempt to establish an impartial record of facts, the zamindars opposed a persistent and successful resistance, and they found a powerful ally in the law which imposed on the patwari a dual allegiance. Within the past few years, however, the relations of zamindars and raiyats have undergone an examination more thorough and exhaustive in its character than the proceedings of our Indian Governments have yet exhibited. The lessons which past experience teaches us have been taken to heart by the Bengal Government, and none has been more appreciated than this, that if any good is to be got out of the ancient system of village accounts, the patwari must be made a Government servant.

"No one knows better than they (the zamindari party) do what a pestilent member of society the patwari often is, and always may become. He preys upon the tenantry and foments dissension among the landlords. His peculations know no bounds, and his conscience no scruple. He does nothing without a fee, and if for a fee he gratifies the raiyat, he also for a fee forswears himself to please the zamindar.

"When to this I add that the patwari of to-day is, as a rule, as remarkable for intelligence and astuteness as for complete want of moral principle, Hon'ble Members will understand how desirable it is, apart from the larger question of agrarian reform to which I have referred, that he should be brought under proper control. It will, I grant, be no easy task to reduce him to order, and to check the evil propensities which a century of mismanagement has engendered."

When the Patwari Bill was introduced and read in Council on the 14th February 1885, the Hon'ble Abdul Jubbar observed:—

"The object of the Bill is, I understand, to reorganize the system of kanungos and patwaris—a system which has entirely ceased to exist in Bengal and has worked mischievously in Bihar. The reason for this state of things is not far to seek.

"In Bengal, the law which requires the zamindars to appoint patwaris, has been rendered nugatory by inexecution, and in Bihar patwaris have been looked upon as servants of the zamindars, and not as responsible public functionaries. If patwaris are properly to discharge the duties required of them, they should be placed under the control and supervision of the revenue authorities, and made quite independent of the zamindars. * * * * * * * * * *

"I have said that the patwari system has worked mischief in Bihar, and I think that I ought to explain what I, from my seventeen years' experience of that province, know, that under the existing system it is impossible to get from the patwaris any reliable information on any point in dispute between landlords and tenants. Where the patwari is under the orders of the zamindars, he is hostile to the raiyats, and where he takes the side of the latter, he does all he can to sacrifice the interests of the former."

At the same Council meeting, the Hon'ble Joy Prokash Lal said:—

"The Government of Bengal is to be congratulated on the recognition of the principle that the present anomalous position of the patwari as a quasi-Government official with obligation of service to the Government which do not pay him, and the zamindar who pays, should not be allowed to exist. This was condemned by the Bihar Rent Commission, and the Bihar landholders have persistently urged that, whatever other directions the revision of the patwari laws may take, the present anomalous system under which the nomination of the patwari was vested in them, and appointment and dismissal with the Collector, and under which, while they have to pay the patwari, the Collector can at any time, and for any length of time, command his services, should not be allowed to exist. In so far therefore as the present Bill proposes to repeal Regulation XII of 1817, under which this dual system was established, I have only to offer my heartiest thanks to Government for this concession made to the complaints of the Bihar landholders."

These quotations show how forcibly the opinion was expressed during the discussion of the Patwari Bill in Council, that the unreformed patwari was not, as the Board express it, useful to Government and to the raiyats, but an official who oppressed the raiyats and whose information could not be trusted by Government.

V.

Correspondence subsequent to the Patwari Bill of 1885.

9. The next discussion took place when the Secretary of State refused to sanction the imposition of a new tax to support the maintenance of the records of rights prepared by the Muzaffarpur experimental survey. The Government of India in paragraph 8 of their letter No. 130—27-4, dated the 3rd March 1886, made the following observations:—

"I am desired to suggest, for His Honour's consideration, whether the requirement so strongly insisted on by the Secretary of State, that the payment of the new class of village accountants shall not impose additional expense on the landowners for the collection of their rents or the keeping of their accounts, might not be met by an endeavour to utilise the already existing patwaris, whom the Regulations already require the zamindars to keep up and remunerate, instead of creating an entirely new class of officers independent of the landowners. The Government of India are aware that in Bihar the opinion has hitherto been very strongly held and expressed that the present patwaris are incapable of improvement, and that a reform of the system must take the shape of putting them altogether on one side, and introducing a new agency responsible only to the Government. But in Oudh, where a state of things not altogether dissimilar to that which exists in Bihar formerly prevailed, it has been found possible to obtain not unsatisfactory results from the zamindari patwaris, without taking away from the landowners the control over their appointment and remuneration. * * * It is true that in Oudh, owing to the operation of Act XIII of 1882, the Government was able to offer the landowners an inducement to improve their patwari system by taking upon itself the charge for salaries, and that this inducement cannot be applied in Bihar. But with reference to the High Court's decision declaring the levy by zamindars from their tenants of a cess for the payment of the patwaris to be illegal, I am to suggest, for His Honour's consideration, whether the same end might not be attained if the Government were, while recognizing the position of the patwari as the zamindar's servant and account-keeper, to offer the landlords legal facilities for the collection of such a cess from the raiyats."

The Government of Bengal's reply to these suggestions (paragraph 15 of letter No. 1011—409L.R., dated 23rd March 1886) was as follows:—

"It remains to consider the concluding paragraph of your letter. This paragraph suggests that the existing staff of patwaris should be retained in their present relations to the landowners, the Government, and the raiyats, but that they should be better supervised. The adoption of this proposal would not, in view of the ruling in Chultan Mahton's case, relieve the Government from the necessity of levying a patwari cess, or rather of legalizing the cess now declared to be illegally levied by landowners; but it would relieve the zamindars from the expenditure which the ruling in that case will inevitably in course of time impose on them. This would be an advantage to the zamindars, but in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion it would be the only advantage which would result from the adoption of the suggestion.

"In the first place, the adoption of the suggestion would impose on Government a very large expenditure in payment of the salaries of the supervising staff, which then would have to be very different from, and far more expensive than, the supervising staff contemplated by the Patwari Bill as now revised. We are now precluded by section 34, Regulation VIII of 1793, from charging the land with the payment of kanungos' salaries; consequently the expenditure on salaries of the supervising staff would fall wholly on Government.

"Again, there is unanimity on the point that no amount of supervision would be of avail in making out of the existing patwaris a trustworthy village agency such as we require. The defects of the present system are far too radical to be cured by supervision.

It appears that at this time Sir Rivers Thompson, Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, instead of holding that the patwari was useful to Government and to the raiyat, judged him incapable of reform and unworthy of retention unless his position was entirely changed by legislation.

VI.

10. Some special difficulties affecting the utilisation of the unreformed patwari in the Muzaffarpur district, where the villages are owned by large numbers of small proprietors, were brought to light by the experimental survey-settlement. Mr. Collin, in submitting his proposals for the maintenance of the Muzaffarpur survey records in July 1887, made the following remarks:—

The experimental Muzaffarpur survey-settlement.

"The patwaris have become almost entirely the servants of the proprietors. Owing to the great subdivision of villages into estates, and the extension of leases, the number of patwaris has increased, and they no longer represent a village, but an estate The majority of patwaris are not registered in the Collector's office, and they are therefore entirely under the control of the proprietors. They have lost their hereditary and permanent character, and are to a great extent merely servants of the proprietor or lessee, removable at pleasure, and dependent for all information upon their employers."

Mr. Collin was of opinion that, as the patwari system had practically become obsolete, it would be better to recognize the fact, and to deal directly with the landlords rather than with their servants. He recommended, therefore, that the landlords should be called upon, under sections 31 and 32 of Regulation XII of 1817, to produce the necessary returns for the correction of the records, the cost of supervision being defrayed by Government.

Mr. Finucane, then Director of Land Records, in advocating that an attempt should be made to maintain the records, made certain proposals to the Board as follows:—

"To summarise the preceding remarks, it would appear that—

(a) As a fact a registered patwari does not exist for each village.

(b) That if a separate patwari were now to be registered for each separate village, it would be impossible for him to maintain and correct the records unless he were also to perform the actual work of keeping all the accounts of the village, and it would be impossible to secure this in practice, as every landlord has now his own patwari, who is his accountant.

(c) That the only practicable way under the existing law of utilizing the present staff of patwaris is to register such of them as are now doing the duties of patwari, each for the specific area on which he performs patwari's duties.

(d) That the success of the plan depends on the voluntary co-operation of the landlords and tenants concerned.

(e) That the two alternative schemes, namely, that of appointing circle patwaris in addition to, or in lieu of, the existing staff, and that of throwing upon zamindars the entire burden of filing such returns as may be required, are impracticable without alteration in the law, which it would be here out of place to suggest or discuss."

The Board (Mr. Halliday), in forwarding the correspondence, concurred "in the view taken by the Director that, notwithstanding the considerations which may be advanced on the other side, an attempt should be made to maintain the records and keep them corrected up to date: and they agree with him that, in the absence of any other agency, there is practically no course open but to utilize the patwaris for the purpose. * * * It has not escaped the Board's notice that Mr. Finucane does not regard the scheme submitted by him as a complete and satisfactory one; but they concur with him that it would be desirable to give it a trial." After further consideration the Board (Mr. Reynolds) wrote again on the 15th June 1888:—

"In submitting to Government the proposals of the Director of Land Records and of the Settlement Officer regarding the measures to be taken for the maintenance of the survey and settlement records in the area lately brought under survey in Muzaffarpur, the Board, in their letter No. 532A., dated the 4th August 1887, expressed, though with much hesitation, their concurrence in the Director's opinion that an attempt should be made to keep the records corrected up to date, and that the agency of the patwaris should be utilized for the purpose. Mr. Collin, on the other hand, considered that, as the patwari system has practically become obsolete, it would be better to recognise the fact, and to call upon the landlords to file the necessary returns, the cost of supervision being defrayed by Government. * * * * * * * *

"In its own estates the Government can do what it thinks proper, and it is possible that, in estates which come under temporary settlement, engagements might be taken which would provide for the maintenance of the record, though the enforcement of such engagements would be a matter of some difficulty. But in a permanently-settled area, such as is now under consideration, the Board are reluctantly compelled to say that the existing law leaves the Government practically without any resource. It is hopeless to expect that the record can be maintained by the agency either of the patwaris or of the zamindars. Mr. Collin's scheme proposes a supervising establishment at an annual cost of about Rs. 4,000, though this makes no allowance for the work of the Collector or his deputies. The Board are unable to recommend that any such expenditure should be authorized upon a plan which, in their opinion, is necessarily foredoomed to failure.

"The feeling which has prompted Messrs. Finucane and Collin to urge the adoption of some measures which will give a permanent value to the work in which they have taken so much interest, and which they have accomplished so well, has the entire sympathy of the Board. But the Board would be wanting in their duty if they failed to represent that Government has practically before it only the alternatives of abandoning all measures for the proper maintenance of the records of the Muzaffarpur survey, or of invoking the aid of the Legislature for the establishment of an efficient system of patwaris and kanungos."

The Collector of Muzaffarpur's opinion, enclosed in this letter from the Board, was as follows:—"The uselessness of patwaris under the present law is, however, best evidenced by the simple fact known to every one who has had any experience of them, that a patwari, when asked for accounts, commonly replies that it is out of his power to produce them, as the landlord does not give him access to his papers; nor is there any provision of law compelling the landlord to do so."

These opinions sufficiently indicate the hopelessness of expecting the records to be maintained and corrected by the agency of patwaris under the existing conditions in the Muzaffarpur district, and the same difficulties exist in all other parts of North Bihar where the fundamental assumption of Regulation XII of 1817, that there is but one patwari to a village, who is employed to keep the accounts of a single proprietor or a combined body of proprietors, does not apply.

VII.

11. The next occasion, somewhat overlapping the last mentioned, on which the patwari question was discussed, also deserves to be included. In a letter, No. 1385—497L.R., dated 1st June 1882 (which forms one of the enclosures of the Board's letter of 23rd October 1894), this Government ruled that, pending the issue of orders by the Government of India on the proposed amendment of the rent-law, no changes should be introduced into the existing state of affairs with regard to the patwaris and their work. This subject therefore remained in abeyance until this Government, on the 10th December 1886, wrote to the Board as follows:—

Correspondence with the Board in 1886 1888 about patwaris' registers.

"In your letter No. 183A.,* dated 28th March 1882, you conveyed an expression of the opinion of the Board of Revenue that, without any formal revision or amendment of the Patwari Rules, Collectors should be directed to allow Rule XV,† prescribing the maintenance of certain registers, to remain in abeyance. In reply, it was stated in the letter of this department, No. 1385—497L R., dated 1st June 1882, that pending the issue of orders on the amendment of the rent-law then proposed, no change should be introduced.

"The Bengal Tenancy Act having come into operation, and the Patwari Bill having been abandoned, it is now desirable to reconsider the question of the maintenance of registers by the patwaris in Bihar. I am therefore directed to invite the renewed attention of the Board to the subject, and to request the favour of a report showing how far these registers are in practice maintained, and whether they should be modified.

"The question of the registers to be maintained on such Government estates in Bihar as have been, or may hereafter be, surveyed may be separately considered. Recent discussions have drawn prominent attention to the distinction between the value of the statistical information obtained from patwaris in villages as to which there is no original record of rights, or of the area of fields, and the value of that procurable where such information exists, and forms a basis on which to work."

The Board (Mr. Reynolds) replied‡ as follows:—

‡ No. 635A., dated 25th June 1888.

"The orders of Government conveyed in Mr. Nolan's letter No. 2505—952L.R., dated the 10th December 1886, invited the attention of the Board to the question of the registers to be maintained by patwaris in Bihar, and called for a report showing how far these registers are in practice maintained, and whether they should be modified.

"It is unnecessary, for the purposes of the present letter, to recapitulate the correspondence which had previously passed between the Government, the Board, and the Commissioners of Patna and Bhagalpur on the subject of the patwaris' registers and accounts. It appears sufficient to refer to the Board's letter No. 183A., dated the 28th March 1882, which reported the existing condition of things in the district of Shahabad, and conveyed an expression of Mr. Dampier's opinion that, when at the cost of great labour the object of getting the patwaris' registers kept in the prescribed form should have been attained, we should be almost as far as ever from the real object of securing the maintenance of trustworthy accounts.

"I am now to submit, for the consideration of Government, copies of the reports* received from the Commissioners of Bhagalpur and Patna upon the question. It will be seen that, in the Bhagalpur Division, Monghyr is the only district in which patwaris under Regulation XII of 1817 are supposed to have been generally appointed; and that in Monghyr none of the registers prescribed by the rules is kept up. In the Patna Division the registers are not kept up completely in any district.

* Commissioner of Bhagalpur, No. 356R. of 29th April 1887.
Commissioner of Patna, No. 285R. of 25th May 1888.

"The existing rules† prescribe three registers to be kept up by patwaris and one to be kept in the Collector's office. Register No. 1 is an annual account-current of the village under 23 different heads. No. 2 is a register of mutations of proprietors, tenure-holders, and raiyats. No. 3 is a register of pottahs granted during the agricultural year. The patwaris are directed to fill in the entries in these registers correctly and promptly, and to produce their books for inspection by the kanungo, or by any other official authorised by the Collector or Subdivisional Officer to examine them.

† Board's No. 882A., dated 21th October 1877, and Government order No. 3086, dated 26th November 1877.

"That registers of this kind 'are not kept up completely in any district' can hardly be a matter for surprise. Even if the patwari were the most deligent and the most loyal of public servants, it would often be quite out of his power to obtain the necessary information. The Patwari Rules, as they stand at present, maintain strictly the idea of the patwari as expressed in the old Regulations of the Bengal Code. One patwari, and only one, is recognized for each village, even if the village is too large to be undertaken by one man, no division of the charge is permitted, but an assistant patwari is appointed, who is wholly subordinate to the patwari. The recognized patwari is the man who receives a sanad of appointment from the Collector, and on whom the duty of maintaining the registers and accounts is imposed.

"But, as a matter of fact, the patwari of the old regulations no longer exists, and no sanad signed by the Collector can resuscitate him. The patwari of the present day is the servant of one out of a number of village landlords. As he cannot obtain access to the accounts of farmers and of rival shareholders, his information must necessarily be incomplete; and as he is naturally subservient to the zamindar whose actual subordinate he is, his registers will in general be untrustworthy.

"Among the reports now submitted, it will be observed that the Collectors of Monghyr and Gaya recommend no changes in the forms of the registers. But as the registers are not kept up in Monghyr, the Collector seems hardly in a position to offer an opinion on the point; while the Collector of Gaya apparently thinks that the present rules require copies of the registers to be sent to the Collector, which is not the case. Mr. Norman, the late Collector of Muzaffarpur, who thinks that any connection of the administration with patwaris is out of place in a permanently-settled district, had apparently forgotten that the patwari system works usefully and efficiently in the permanently-settled districts of the Benares Division. The Collector and the Commissioner of Bhagalpur consider that the forms of registers should be much shortened and simplified; and the Commissioner of Patna, who expresses a very similar opinion, supports the representation of the Collectors of Patna and Shahabad as to the necessity of an improved supervising agency.

"It appears to the Board that it is premature to discuss the question of the forms of the registers till the Government has finally decided whether any recourse is to be had to legislation. Even the simpler forms of registers, suggested by Mr. Wace and Mr. Boxwell, cannot and will not be kept up under the present law. And, if this is the case, it is useless to establish a supervising agency to examine and tabulate incomplete and untrustworthy returns. The kind of middle course which has hitherto been adopted, of giving a sanad to the nominee of the principal landlord, and calling him the village patwari (when he is really nothing of the kind), and requiring him to fill up the registers to the best of his ability and knowledge, has, in the Board's opinion, nothing to recommend it. If it is desired to make the office of village patwari a reality (and there is much to be said in favour of doing so), this can only be effected by a change in the law. If it is determined to leave the law as it stands, the Board cannot see that anything would be lost by cancelling the present patwari rules and abolishing the registers."

The Board's present opinion that the patwaris give "much useful information to Government officers" is in startling contrast to the view held in 1888, that they could not give correct information if they would, and would not if they could.

VIII.

Examination of the correspondence of 1892-93.

12. In conclusion, some weighty evidence is contained in the reports received in reply to this Government letter No. 492T.R., dated 30th June 1892, bearing on the subject under discussion.

Mr. Dalton (Collector of Darbhanga) observed in his letter of November 1892:—

"The rottenness of the present patwari system is, I take it, an acknowledged fact, and its abolition an accepted preliminary to any suggested reform."

Mr. Blyth (Collector of Champaran), in his letter dated 20th June 1892, wrote:—

"The late Commissioner, Mr. Lyall, in his letter No. 4R., dated the 1st April 1892, with which he forwarded to the Board of Revenue a report of the meeting held at Muzaffarpur to discuss the question of the cadastral survey, remarks concerning the patwari:—

'Even in the short time I have been in this division, I have seen how necessary such an officer is in Bihar.'

"I do not think that any of the other officials who have have had experience of Bihar concur in this view, and I believe that had Mr. Lyall had a little longer experience of this province, he would have come to the conclusion that his first impressions were not correct, and would have been convinced that the patwaris as a class are as useless, dishonest, and mischievous as they are held to be by every one who has had to deal with their work.

"The landlord must of course retain in the village some official whose duty will be similar to those now performed by the patwari; but it will be more satisfactory when this official is the servant of the zamindar than it is at present when he is practically the servant of no one, and merely uses his position for his own personal aggrandisement, and behaves dishonestly towards the Government, the landlord, and the raiyats in turn, as it suits his interests or convenience.

"All registers and returns which the patwari is at present supposed to keep up on behalf of Government can as easily be kept up by the landlord, and they will be at least as trustworthy in the latter case as in the former, and with the disappearance of the patwari as a quasi-Government servant will disappear a great element of discord from the village administration. Government should deal direct with the landlord, and should require him, under such penalties as may be necessary, to keep up the registers, &c., which are now kept up by the patwari, and should hold him responsible for their being correctly maintained.

"The patwari is entirely out of the question as the person to keep up the records of rights, and he should disappear from the village as an official recognised by Government. The kanungo would be in a very much inferior position to the landlord as a registering officer, and would in few instances be able to decide, without reference to the landlord, whether a mutation should be entered or not, and the landlord thus remains as the person who, from his position and knowledge, stands out as the proper and most convenient agent for performing the duty of keeping up the records."

Mr. Earle, Collector of Saran—wrote in his letter of 12th December 1892:—

"With regard to patwaris under Regulation XII of 1817, I may say that popular as well as official opinion is entirely in favour of their abolition. Courts of justice, zamindars and raiyats have all had experience of how potent they are for mischief, and of how little they work for good."

Babu Bepin Bihari Bose, Manager, Hatwa Raj, reported on the 17th October 1892, as follows:—

"I agree with the views expressed by the Government that it is not at all advisable to revive the Patwari Bill, which was abandoned by the orders of the Secretary of State in 1886, and that the patwaris as a class of Government servants may be abolished altogether by the repeal of Regulation XII of 1817. It is a well-known fact that the patwaris of Bihar are a set of low-paid, unscrupulous men, with a statutory position, which enables them to fill their own pockets at the sacrifice of the interests of the raiyats and zamindars alike, particularly in the case of villages owned jointly by several proprietors where no individual landlord can exercise any effectual control over them, the result being that they become the de facto proprietors of the villages."

At the same time Mr. Hare (note of 14th February 1893) advocated the repeal of Regulation XII of 1817; and Sir W. B Hudson (note of 7th July 1892) saw no objection to its repeal. Mr. Forbes, in his report of the 21st March 1893, recommended the repeal of Regulation XII of 1817, and the abolition of the patwari as a Government servant. The Board have overlooked these reports when they wrote of the patwaris that "No officer in Bihar has ever yet proposed their entire and unconditional abolition."

C. E. BUCKLAND,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The 16th December 1894.

APPENDIX II.

REPLIES of officers of the Patna Division to a circular asking for their opinions on the four arguments for the retention of the patwari, as summed up in paragraph 2 of the letter to which this Appendix is an enclosure.

1. From A. FORBES, ESQ., Commissioner of the Patna Division, dated the 3rd December 1894.

I. The Regulation, no doubt, gives Government a certain control over the patwari, as his appointment, dismissal and punishment for negligence in the discharge of his statutory duties rest with the Collector. But the usefulness for Government purposes of this control is limited, owing to the facts that, first, the law confines the actual duties which the Collector can require of the patwari to the limits laid down in sections 16 and 22 of the Regulation, and secondly, and especially, that, if the landlord becomes dissatisfied with the man, he does not allow him to continue to work, and he becomes a patwari in name only, of no use to any one; and the law, as it stands, affords no real remedy for this. We can force the landlord to nominate a patwari, but we cannot oblige him to make use of him. Thus, so long only as the patwari continues to be an acceptable servant, in the fullest sense of the word, of the landlord, can he be of any use to us.

It seems to me that it would be much more to the purpose if the responsibility for the proper keeping of the village accounts, and for their production when required, were imposed by law upon the landlord himself, and if he were then left to make his own arrangements for doing so. And it will be noticed that all recent legislation has proceeded on these lines. Thus under the Cess Act, Butwara Act, &c., the person called upon to submit returns and accounts is, not the patwari, but the landlord. The existence of the patwari and his use for such purposes is entirely ignored. So, too, under the Tenancy Act, the landlord is solely responsible for the proper keeping of the accounts—see sections 57, 58, 59 and passim. The patwari is nowhere mentioned.

The fact is that the patwari in his character of a Government official is an anachronism. With the march of events his time has gone by. A reference to the preamble of the Regulation will show this. Three quarters of a century ago it was imagined that he would be of use to the Revenue Officers of Government in the following matters, viz.—(1) the division of estates, (2) the hearing of suits for rents, (3) the decision of boundary disputes, (4) the execution of decrees for possession. The direction taken by subsequent legislation has silently shelved the patwari,—quoad a Government official,—in all these matters. (1) He is ignored, as I have already noticed, in the Butwara Act; (2) rent suits have been made over from his former masters, the Revenue Officers, to the Civil Courts; (3) boundary disputes are settled under the Survey Act V (B.C.) of 1875, in which no reference is made to the patwari, or by civil suit; and (4) execution of decrees for possession is also entirely a matter for the Civil Courts. Regulation XII of 1817 is, at the present day, made of no use whatever in any of these matters. In other words its raison d'etre has passed away.

II. It seems to me a fallacy to suppose that the patwari is of any greater use as a protection to the raiyats against the landlord than any naib or gomashta or other village servant who deserts his employer, and turns his knowledge to account on the side of the raiyats. Theoretically, he is, in a measure, a Government servant; and he is so far safe from the landlord that he cannot be dismissed from his nominal post as patwari without the consent of the Collector. But there is no reason to think that this in any way tends to increase his sense of justice, or to induce him to disregard his own interests; and these are best consulted by his siding with the stronger party, which he invariably does. The Lalla class, to which he belongs, is of admittedly low morality—an unscrupulous, self-seeking, dishonest class; and his position of semi-independence, if of any use to him at all, is made use of for his own purposes. The fact is that the real protection of the raiyat is not, and never can be, this, that, or another low paid village muharrir; but the Tenancy Act itself and the accumulative evidence of his rights that the law gives in the shape of his receipts, of the accounts which the landlord is bound to keep, and lastly the record of rights which is now being prepared in Bihar.

I know that Mr. Marindin is in favour of retaining the patwari in Shahabad, his view being that, as the raiyats pay his "neg," he is practically a servant of theirs, and has thus an inducement to work in their interests; and he tells me that, when he proposed to abolish the patwari system in the khas mahals in his district, the raiyats so strongly objected that he abstained from carrying out the measure. How far the collection of "neg" from the raiyats holds in other districts I am not prepared at this moment (I write this note in camp), without reference to my office papers, to say; but I believe (I write from memory) that the Board have lately condemned the practice in Shahabad, and that in the other Bihar districts it is usually the landlord who pays the patwari; in all suits by patwaris for arrears of pay that have come before me it has invariably been the landlords and not the raiyats who were sued. And as regards the feeling among the raiyats referred to by Mr. Marindin, the question is not, I take it, the abolition of the patwari system, but the withdrawal by Government of any interference with the landlords in their relations—as master and servant—with their patwaris. The patwari system, as a collecting agency, if it be still found to succeed, will, doubtless, remain intact.

III. No doubt the patwari is occasionally of use to Government officials but such use will, I think, almost invariably be found to be outside of the Regulation. He was used for census purposes; but this was effected under the Census Act, under which many other servants of the landlord, besides patwaris, and many landlords themselves, were appointed as census officers. The Regulation had nothing to do with the matter. He may also possibly be of use in times of famine as an agent of the landlord, and he is sometimes of use in assisting to provide "russud" for troops and for officers on tour and in various other ways. But these are not a part of his duties under the Regulation, but are performed by him as the zamindar's agent, and not in pursuance of any orders that the Collector is legally empowered to give him quoad Regulation XII patwari. Landlords have similar duties to perform in Eastern Bengal, and they are exacted from them with equal ease there, though there are no Regulation patwaris.

IV. Looking at the matter from the above standpoints, I consider that the retention of the patwari on his Regulation XII status of independence towards his de facto master, the landlord, is without justification. The special duties for which his services were retained in the early days of our Raj have now passed away, having long ago devolved by law upon the landlords, or been replaced by the procedure of the Civil Courts. Yet his position of semi-independence towards his employer is still kept up as a thorn in the side of the landlords, of which they have, in my opinion, just reason to complain.

At the same time, provided that we can remove the cause of irritation, I see no reason why the patwari should not be retained as a quasi-Government official in view of his being made of use in assisting us to keep up the record of rights in Bihar. It is too early yet to say that he can be made of no use for this purpose. It would obviously be of considerable advantage to us to have an accredited agent of the landlord, possessing a full knowledge of details in each village, who is at the same time under our own control; and I would not recommend the total repeal of the Regulation until we gain some further experience of our needs in this respect. But what I would certainly do, and that as soon as possible, is to give landlords more free control over their patwaris than Regulation XII gives them. The patwari should continue to be nominated by the landlord for approval by the Collector, and negligence in respect of his Government duties should be punishable, as now, by that officer; but the landlord should be allowed to dismiss, transfer, or otherwise punish his patwari, as he does any of his other servants, without interference by Government. In other words, the landlord will be called upon to place his patwari at the disposal of Government for such purposes as we require. More than this I do not see that we can, in justice, ask.

The only difficulty would be where Government interests and the landlord's interests clash. The landlord may be irritated with his patwari for giving information to the Settlement Officers which he considers prejudicial to his own interests. I do not anticipate, if landlords see that we only wish to act fairly, that this will often happen. But to provide for such a case, the law might direct that, when the Collector is satisfied (for reasons to be reduced to writing—with an appeal to the Commissioner) that the cause of the landlord's dissatisfaction is in respect of the performance by the patwari of his duties towards Government he (Collector) may require payment of compensation (within certain limits) by the landlord to the patwari. The only alternative would be the reinstatement of the patwari by the Collector, but this would land us in exactly the same difficulty as Regulation XII now does, arising from our inability to compel the landlord to employ the patwari. I would therefore prefer the first alternative I have suggested.

This would leave the landlord free to deal as he likes with a patwari who, as regards his employer's relations with his tenants, his co-sharers, &c., appeared to him to be untrue to his salt, or whom for any other private reason he might wish to get rid of. It is this kind of freedom of action that the landlords claim, and which in justice should be granted them. The disadvantage in this respect, under which Bihar lardlords labour, is a very real one; and we have no excuse at the end of the 19th century for continuing it.

The most business-way of going to work would be to provide, in the proposed Bill, for the performance by the patwari of the requisite duties in connection with the preparation and up-keep of the record of rights—which Regulation XII does not effectively do, not having originally been intended for this particular purpose—and then to repeal Regulation XII altogether. The Bill should give the landlords thorough control over their patwaris in all matters outside of their duties towards Government, as I have suggested above.

2. From C. R. MARINDIN, ESQ., Collector of Shahabad, dated the 12th November 1894.

IN districts where the Regulation is in use it helps to keep the Collector in touch with the zamindars and raiyats. Changes in the law and in the executive functions of the District Officer have, as His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor is aware, done much in the course of even the last 25 years or so to loosen the tie between the District Officer and the people, and the abolition of the Patwari Regulation would be cutting one more strand in the rope. I quite admit that this by itself is not a very cogent reason for its retention, but it is worth considering along with others.

A great objection to the proposed abolition lies, I think, in the fact that the Regulation enables the Collector to exercise a control over the appointment and dismissal of patwaris, which is often really useful in the interests of both zamindars and raiyats.

Cases under the Patwari Regulation form a substantial item in the work of this Collectorate. The post of patwari is one which is highly valued. The zamindar's nomination is not unfrequently hotly contested by a rival claimant. I often have to decide objections against the Deputy Collector's decision in such cases, and my orders are appealed against to the Commissioner and sometimes up to the Board of Revenue.

Then shareholders in an estate often differ and dispute over the nomination, and support different nominees between whom the Collector has to decide. Lastly, the zamindar on one side or the raiyat on the other complains to the Collector of the dishonesty or misconduct of the patwari and seeks his intervention. It might be argued that the number of such cases is in itself proof of the value of the Regulation, while, on the other hand, it might be contended that the zamindars had much better be left to decide all their matters for themselves. Were the interests of the zamindars alone concerned, the latter contention would doubtless carry great weight; but in my opinion there is much in favour of the other view, as the zamindar is not the only person whose interests we have to consider.

It would, I submit, be most disadvantageous to the raiyats were the patwari to become solely and entirely the servant of the zamindar. By custom, which has been embodied in the present law, the patwari is a village official holding an hereditary office, whose duty it is to keep the village accounts fairly as between zamindar and raiyat. The raiyats here certainly look to him to safeguard their interests against trickery and fraud by the zamindari amla. In this district, moreover, the patwari is actually paid by the raiyats, for on every estate a patwari's "neg" is levied, which is a cess paid by each raiyat in proportion to and in addition to his rent, out of which the zamindar pays the patwari's salary. This "neg" has lately been abolished in Government estates under the Board's orders, and in connection with this change I had to consider whether we could not do without patwaris on some at least of the khas mahals; but I found that, apart from the legal obligation to appoint patwaris, the raiyats looked upon him as their protector against the landlord, and that to abolish him would be a measure regarded with extreme suspicion and most unpopular.

The patwari being thus primarily a village official owing duties both to the raiyats and the zamindar, and the interests of these two classes being often conflicting, I consider that it is essential, in the interests of both, that the Collector should continue to exercise control over his appointment and dismissal under the Regulation.

I cannot deny that the zamindars would probably welcome a change which gives them the patwari's undivided allegiance, but the question is whether it would be right and just to the raiyats to help on the conversion of the patwari into a mere servant of the zamindar, by abolishing the Regulation. The measure would be I am obliged to say in my opinion most detrimental to the interests of the raiyat, and very unpopular with that class. It seems to me also to be a retrograde one in view of all that has been done by the Tenancy Act, and is being done by the Bihar Survey and Settlement in the raiyat's behalf. Moreover, I do not think that the present law is exactly a source of irritation to the zamindars. They are glad enough to have recourse to it themselves when there is a dispute among shareholders about the appointment of a patwari. They are too as a class very conservative in their views, and this must help to reconcile them to a system which has now been for so many years in existence.

I now turn to the question of the position of the patwari as a Government servant, and the arguments of the Government of India in favour of his retention.

1. I certainly think we might make much more use of the Patwari Regulation than is at present the case. Accounts are very seldom, I believe, examined by Revenue Officers for statistical or other purposes, and, as a matter of fact, our control is limited to questions of appointment or dismissal.

2. I believe the patwari is a valuable protection to the raiyat against illegal claims, and that he would cease to be so if he were converted into the zamindar's servant. I cannot recall any specific instance in support of this belief, but, as I have stated above, I do actually find in this district that the raiyat looks to the patwari to safeguard his interests against the zamindar.

3. I have not served much in Bihar Proper, but I can give the following instances where special use was made of the patwaris by Government:—

(1) In the Bihar famine in 1874, when I was Circle Officer at Behera in the Darbhanga district, a good deal of use was then made of the patwari in getting village lists for relief, and in distributing gratuitous relief and looking after village works. Again in the following year, when there was a slight recurrence of scarcity in the Madhubani sub-division of the same district, to which I was then posted, a similar use was made of him.

(2) In Darbhanga, in 1890-91, the patwari's services were utilized in the census operations.

(3) This reminds me that the patwaris were employed to take a rough census in my circle in the Behera thana in 1894.

(4) One has constantly looked to the patwari for help, when on tour, in the matter of supplies and as a medium of communication with the villagers. He is a link between the District Officer and the villagers.

4. The patwari, I have always thought, should be the nucleus out of which an effective agency for maintaining land records might be developed. Short of this, he is now about the only source from which a Collector can gather village agricultural statistics. He is not much used for this purpose I admit, but he might be, and it seems a pity to deprive Government of his services in this direction.

I might be allowed to remind you that the question of village sanitation is now very much to the fore. Sanitation, it is true, does not come within the scope of a patwari's legitimate duties, but when so much will have to be done by the personal influence of District Officers, it seems a mistake to deprive him of his hold over an individual who occupies such an important position in the village system as the patwari.

3. From W. D. BLYTH, ESQ., Collector of Champaran, dated 15th November 1894.

2. The correspondence in this Collectorate regarding the patwari system generally is not voluminous, and my views are therefore based chiefly on my own personal experience of the patwari as an individual during the period of close on five years that I have been in charge of this district.

3. In June 1892, in submitting to the Commissioner suggestions in connection with the maintenance of the record of rights, I proposed the abolition of the patwari as a quasi-Government servant, and remarked that as a class the patwaris are useless, dishonest and mischievous, and use their quasi-official position for their own personal aggrandisement, and behave dishonestly towards Government, the zamindar, and the raiyat in turn, as it suits their interest or convenience. After a further experience of two-and-a-half years I see no reason for modifying in any way the views which I then expressed. A copy of my report was forwarded to the Board by Mr. Forbes, with his letter No. 1365R., dated the 21st March 1893.

4. In your letter you have quoted the four main arguments advanced for the retention of the patwari under the existing Regulations. These are to the effect that—

I. The Regulations give the Government much control over the patwari, which might be, though it has not been, usefully employed.

II. The patwari is even now often a valuable protection to the raiyat against illegal claims.

III. He has often been made use of for numerous important uses throughout Bihar.

IV. He is the nucleus out of which an effective land record agency can be developed.

I propose to consider each of these arguments separately as shortly as possible.

5. It is said in the first place that the Regulations give the Government much control over the patwari, which might be, though it has not been, usefully employed.

Theoretically this may be so, and successive generations of officials have entertained the same idea, and have endeavoured to realize the ideal patwari, but on each occasion the attempt has been unsuccessful. The original effort made about one hundred years ago failed. I am writing from memory; the papers are all in the Board and the Secretariat. The subsequent effort which resulted in the passing of Regulation XII of 1817 was scarcely more successful, and after a fitful existence the system was allowed practically to die a natural death. About 1875 an attempt was made to reorganize the patwari system in connection with the Land Registration Act, but after much discussion Government some years later determined to make no change pending the amendment of the Rent Law. This was some two or three years before the passing of the Bengal Tenancy Act. One change was, however, made, and that was the cancelment by Government of the rule requiring the patwari to file a copy of the accounts. Last year, in connection with the Cadastral Survey, enquiries were again made regarding the existence of patwaris in the different villages, with a view to each patwari being employed on the Cadastral Survey of his own village.

The enquiry showed that, even where there were registered patwaris, they were in a large number of instances unfit for the survey work from ignorance, mental incapacity, sickness, and old age, and sometimes from youth, where a minor had been appointed in the place of his father or uncle, and a large number of substitutes had to be admitted to do the work for them—so that down to the latest date we find the system a failure. Whatever the patwari might have been before the time of the British Raj, he had, before he was taken in hand, become practically the servant of the zamindar, and every effort to convert him into an officer on whom reliance could be placed, and who would keep correct accounts and furnish Government with accurate information, proved ineffectual; he remained the servant of the zamindar, and the only effect of bestowing on him a quasi-official position was to give him more power to work in his own interests, and to render it more difficult for the zamindar to get rid of him when his work was bad. I do not see on what ground it is possible to base any expectation that efforts made to render the patwari a useful officer to Government would succeed in the future, when experience shows that all such efforts have failed in the past. Each failure has rendered the chance of success more faint, and I think that it is useless to hold any longer to the theory that Government could now, under any circumstances, usefully employ such small control as the Regulations give them over the present race of patwaris.

6 The second argument advanced is that the patwari is even now a valuable protection to the raiyat against illegal claims. So far as the papers to which I have access go, I can only find in them a general assertion made on one or two occasions by some officer, in reporting on the subject, that "the patwari is useful to Government, to the zamindar, and to the raiyat." The assertion is not often made, and where it is, I can find no reasons advanced in support of it. To the zamindar, in so far as he is his servant, keeps his accounts and acts generally as a rent collector, he is no doubt useful; but the efforts made at intervals to "reorganize" and "revive" the system seem to show conclusively that, as he at present exists, and as he has existed at any time during the last hundred years, he is of little use to Government, and the statement in the first argument advanced in his favour, that Government has not usefully employed the control the Regulations give them over him, seems to show that this is an admitted fact. Had he been useful, he would have been brought forward, instead of being allowed to remain in the back-ground, and the control would have been usefully employed. So far as the raiyat is concerned, I have never personally known of an instance in which a raiyat obtained "valuable protection" from the patwari. The raiyat can, no doubt, in a suit with his zamindar, call for the production of the patwari's papers; but as these are practically the zamindar's papers, I am unable to see that the raiyat gets any more benefit from them than he would from papers produced directly from the zamindar's sarishta. Possibly where a patwari, in collusion with the raiyat and with an eye to his own interests and gains, has altered the papers, the raiyat might obtain an unfair advantage; but this, of course, is not the protection which is meant. I have on many occasions discussed the subject with European leaseholders—gentlemen who manage their zamindaris well, and are desirous of promoting the welfare of their raiyats—and I have never been told by any one of them that the patwari protects the raiyat; on the contrary they, as well as the native landlords to whom I have spoken, have unanimously represented the patwari as a man who preys on the raiyats in his village, and adds field to field to the great detriment of the poorer cultivators. With the more wealthy and influential cultivators the patwari generally refrains from interfering. Mr. Coffin, of Sathi, in this district, has told me that he found that the raiyats were so oppressed by the patwaris, not only in regard to the various cesses which they realized from them for their own benefit, but in actual short credit given to them for sums paid in as rent to the patwari as rent-collector, that he has begun to collect his rents direct from the raiyats. The cultivators come in to Mr. Coffin's cutcherry, pay in the rents to him direct, and he himself gives them their receipts and writes up their accounts. The patwaris at first used every means in their power to dissuade the raiyats from making these personal payments, but the raiyats have come to see that the system is most advantageous so far as they are themselves concerned, and they have fully adopted it; and Mr. Coffin now collects in a few days, and with fewer arrears, the rents which the patwaris formerly collected and paid into his office in small amounts over a term of many weeks. Mr. Coffin works his zamindari well, and has done much for the benefit of his raiyats in the way of making irrigation channels, for which he has charged the raiyats nothing, either in the shape of a contribution to the cost of excavation, or as increased rents, and I have no hesitation in accepting as correct, for his zamindari, the facts which he has stated with regard to the patwari. Other European ticcadars have also adopted the system of making direct collections, and taking this duty out of the hands of the patwaris, on account of the mischief that they have been found to do. I frequently receive complaints against patwaris of embezzling portions of the rents collected by them, and then representing the raiyats as either not having paid at all, or as having paid a portion only of the sum that they actually handed over to the patwari. Some patwaris are given land by the zamindar as remuneration for their services, but as a class they all hold land, most of which they have acquired through the advantage which their position gives them. A case came before me some little time ago, in which a patwari induced the son of an absconding raiyat to execute and register a fictitious deed of sale, making over to him the holding which his father had left for a supposed sum of money which he never received. This is not an uncommon method on the part of the patwari of acquiring land, and the manipulation of the jamabandi papers gives him ample opportunity of enriching himself at the expense of the smaller cultivators who are too poor to struggle successfully against him. It is, perhaps, unnecessary to go into any more details of this kind, but, if I do not give them, it is not because they are not forthcoming. There are no grounds whatever, in Champaran at least, for the allegation that the patwari is a valuable protection, or indeed any protection at all, to the raiyat against illegal claims; he is rather the person who himself brings forward the illegal claims in the shape of various salamis which have to be paid to him by the raiyats in the shape of "neg," "raseedown," "farkhown," "dwat pujah salami," &c., and who generally enriches himself at their expense whenever he sees a suitable opportunity. He is, to a certain extent, looked up to by the villagers, but the respect is that which is always paid in this country to the person who is acknowledged to be in power. The stipulated remuneration of the patwari is small, and were that all that the post were worth, candidates for nomination would not be willing to pay the large salami for the nomination which they are now ready to give to the zamindar when a vacancy occurs. It is to the "pickings" which come out of the pockets of the raiyats that they look, and if these were not very considerable, there would be no large salami offered for the nomination, nor would there be the expensive fights in the Collector's Court as to the rights of nominees to be appointed, nor would there be the costly appeals to the Commissioner and the Board against orders of dismissal. The appointment is undoubtedly a very valuable one to the holder, and it is the unfortunate raiyat who has to pay for its being so.

7. It is said in the third place that the patwari "has often been made use of for numerous important uses throughout Bihar." As regards the other districts in Bihar I am not in a position to say anything, but so far as Champaran is concerned the patwaris have not rendered any important service, nor have they been put to any important use during my five years of office, nor have I found any trace in this office of their having been useful to any of my predecessors. It is true that they were to some extent made use of during the census, but the census is taken only at intervals of ten years, and it would scarcely be worth while to retain patwaris as quasi-Government servants merely to utilize them on these rare occasions, even if under the Census Act they were not, as purely zamindari servants, liable to give exactly the same assistance when called upon to render it. For the Cadastral Survey they were not found to be a success. They furnish no information on agricultural subjects, and no assistance is given by them towards supplying the materials for any of the statistical returns which are sent in by the Collector of the district. They are now not required to submit copies of their accounts, as they were considered to be unreliable and of less value than the zamindari papers filed under the Road Cess Act, and, though they are supposed to keep up certain registers, they never do so, and, if called on to file any papers under any special circumstances, they invariably, on various pretexts, ask for time, which merely means that they have not got the papers, and that they have either to prepare them, or to search for them in the zamindar's sarishta. Papers and accounts they no doubt keep, but not such as it would be desirable from their point of view to produce in Court, or to file in the office of the Collector of the district. The solitary official use of the patwari seems to me to be to make arrangements for officers camping in the district, and the zamindar's agent should be able to perform the same duties, though no doubt he might not be as ready to obey the behests of the District Officer as is the patwari, over whom the Collector claims a shadowy control. It is possible to conceive that there might be some other duties in the performance of which he could be utilized, but it is not so easy to specify any, which, under Regulation XII of 1817 and the Board's Rules, he could legitimately be forced to perform, should he neglect or refuse to perform them. If they were duties which are now performed by others, there would be no necessity for altering the existing arrangements; if they were duties not at present performed by any one, it seems clear that they would not fall within the scope of Regulation XII and the rules. In short, had the patwari been of "important use" to Government, it is impossible to conceive that in the intervals between the various efforts to reorganize and revive the system, the patwari would have been as lost sight of and as neglected by Government officials as he undoubtedly was, and the repeated detailed enquiries which were made at different times to ascertain whether villages had or had not got registered patwaris would have been unnecessary. As a Government servant the patwari was never really used, and it was only when called on for a report regarding him that the District Officer began to make specific enquiries as to his existence, of which he had previously been only dimly conscious.

8. The fourth and last argument is that the patwari is the nucleus out of which an effective land record agency can be developed. On this subject I had some little conversation with Mr. W. C. Macpherson when he was recently here. Mr. Macpherson thinks that the patwari might be used to look after and report transfers and other changes in his village, but the patwari to whom he refers is not the existing zamindari servant, but the ideal and non-existent patwari, honestly performing his duties to Government, without any thought for the interests of his more immediate master, the zamindar, where the interests of the latter clash with the work to be done on behalf of Government. It is only the theory advanced in argument No. I appearing in another form. It is useless, I think, to discuss what might be done with the reformed patwari when we have found that every effort to reform him has been unsuccessful. We have rather to consider whether we could do anything with the patwari as we find him, and I do not think that the most sanguine officer, after a little experience of him as he exists, would venture to say that he had any hope of making anything out of him. The patwaris as a class have for years been practically servants of the zamindar and possessed of all the local information which their position affords them, and they have naturally an intimate local knowledge of the circumstances of the villages in which they hold office, and were they zamindari servants pure and simple, they would, I believe, work better and more honestly than they now do. As it is, they pose as quasi-Government officials when it suits them, and they know that they cannot be ousted from their appointments without great difficulty, and under these circumstances it would be wonderful had they not taken advantage of the situation and used their position and influence to advance their own interests rather than those of either the zamindar or the raiyat. The customs and traditions of the patwari as a class are now stereotyped, and it is too late to try and do anything with him; unreliable and dishonest he is, and unreliable and dishonest he will remain, and the best course under the circumstances is to make him over to the zamindar, and let the zamindar have absolute power of dismissing him, and so be in a position to control him completely instead of imperfectly as at present. It is vain to regard the patwari as a bulwark protecting the raiyat; he is nothing of the kind. If the zamindar is a bad one, the patwari aids and abets him; if the zamindar is a good one, the patwari harasses the raiyats feeling sure that the difficulty and expense of the proceedings necessary under the Regulations in order to procure his dismissal by the Collector of the district will in most instances deter the zamindar from undertaking them. In either case he flourishes; and the Regulation, which should protect the raiyat from the extortions of the class, is of no avail in the case of a bad zamindar, while in the case of a good one, it places almost insurmountable obstacles in the way of his interfering with the patwari in the interest of the raiyats. I do not propose to enter here into any discussion of the question whether the existence in the village of an officer of a rank somewhat resembling that of the patwari would be any material assistance in connection with the maintenance of the record; the question is a very complex one; but assuming for the sake of argument that the presence of such an official would be beneficial, I have no hesitation in saying that he must not be the present patwari, one of the landholders in the village, but an independent officer, holding no land in the village and debarred from acquiring any rights, therein, and he must be appointed by the Collector and be absolutely under his control, and be in no degree whatever at the bidding of the zamindar. I am quite aware of the objections which could be raised to such a proposal, not the least of which is that the official would be unable to obtain any information which the zamindar did not wish him to have; but I am not at present discussing these points: I am assuming for the sake of argument that such an official is considered necessary. If such an official is wanted, then an independent outsider is infinitely better than a patwari who will only make use of his new powers, in accordance with his nature, his habits, and his traditions, to enrich himself and his family at the expense both of the zamindar and the raiyat. It would be impossible to put the present race of patwaris into such a position of trust, and if the arrangement is to be introduced within any reasonable period of time, it would be impossible to wait till the present lot of patwaris die out and are replaced by men judiciously selected by the zamindar. Even if we waited, it is questionable if the rules regarding the next-of-kin having the best claim to the vacant appointment would not interfere with the "judicious selection," and it is still more doubtful if the bad zamindar, against whom it is desired to guard, would ever make a judicious selection from the Government point of view when he had the opportunity. Assuming then that you are to have the official, I see no way out of the difficulty, save that of repealing Regulation XII and disestablishing the present race of patwaris, leaving it to the zamindars to keep them on as rent-collectors if they choose, and passing a fresh Act appointing a new set of men absolutely independent of the zamindars and having no landed interest in their villages, whose new duties and responsibilities would be clearly defined in the Act. This would give the best chance of success in the case of the adoption of a scheme of village officials. In no case could an honest or efficient land record agency be developed out of the present race of patwaris.

9. Finally, as to the opinion of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor as to the practical inutility of the patwari to Government or the raiyat. After what I have already written, it is superfluous for me to repeat that I entirely agree with Sir Charles Elliott in his views that the patwari "serves no useful purpose either as regards Government or the raiyat, and that he is a source of irritation to the zamindars" (to those at least who try to manage their estates properly), "who have to maintain an official who owes them a divided allegiance." The patwari as a quasi-Government official is not only useless, but mischievous, and the support which his official recognition gives him only enables him to do with comparative impunity illegal or oppressive acts which he would in all probability not otherwise attempt. He is useless to Government and useless to the raiyat, and the sooner he is handed over to the zamindar and made solely responsible to him, the sooner will the good zamindars have it in their power to bring him under more efficient control.

10. The reports from the various District Officers of North Bihar sent to the Board by Mr. Forbes with his letter to which I have above referred (copies of which have been sent to this office) show that they are all unanimous in their opinions of the existing patwari.

4. From C. J. O'DONNELL, ESQ., Collector of Patna, dated 19*th November* 1894.

MY recent experience of Bihar is only 17 months, but I was three years here between 1876 and 1879. I am in favour of the retention of the patwari as a quasi-Government official, and if his position were strengthened and his independence safeguarded, he would be an invaluable check on the rent enhancement, which is rampant in these districts.

I consider all four arguments of the Government of India valid, and in fact irrefutable. If the patwari were maintained as intended by Regulation XII of 1817, without further elaboration, he would be a protection to the raiyat, and he would be an useful aid to administration in executive matters—famine, census, land statistics, and especially as a land record agency.

As to the second argument, I know of cases in which he actually did protect the raiyat and incurred the ill-will of the zamindar in consequence.

As to the third argument, it is a fact that he was useful in the famine of 1874, and has always been the chief agency for the taking of a census.

Such being the case, it seems advisable that his position and independence should be fortified. If any officer reports to the contrary, it is because he derives his experience from areas like the Darbhanga and Hutwa estates, where the patwari, except as a zamindari servant, has been crushed out of existence. The Darbhanga gross rental-roll has grown from 20 to 30 lakhs in 18 years.

5. From L. HARE, ESQ., Collector of Muzaffarpur, dated 19*th November* 1894.

Question 1.—No doubt the Regulations give the Government much control of the patwari. But in this district not much use has been made of this power. Here, owing to the great sub-division of estates, the patwari is very frequently not only not a patwari of the whole village, but is not even a patwari of the whole of one of the many estates within the village. It is bad enough to have a patwari under two masters—Government and one zamindar—but it is much worse to have him under Government and many zamindars. To have again for a village many patwaris, and those only covering a part and not the whole of the village, is to degrade the patwari to an impossible position in which he is of very little use, and almost wholly an evil. Before the patwari could be made of much account, he would have to be reformed and brought back to the position of the sole patwari of the village, and this would be looked upon as a very great hardship. Even more than this should be aimed at, and he would need to be sole patwari of several villages, if he is to be put into a position and to receive a remuneration which would hold out any hope of honesty and respectability.

Question 2.—The patwari has much power, and the general absence of reliable papers and records much increases this power. Where he is a resident of the village, and the zamindar lives a long way off, he may and no doubt does often give very valuable assistance to the raiyat in resisting his zamindar. But it is doubtful whether he does not quite as often betray the raiyat, and under the conditions explained above, he is almost wholly useless as a protection to the raiyat.

Question 3.—The patwari was used for famine relief. But any jeyt raiyat who could write, or say the panchayat of chaukidars, would have been quite as useful.

Question 4.—If he could be reformed as I have explained above, he could be utilised as a land record agency. He would then tend to become almost exclusively dependent on Government, who would have to see to his being paid, each proprietor being made to contribute his share. As he is at present he would be quite ineffective.

The chief use of the patwari, in my opinion, is as a political pawn. Many zamindars pay a great deal for him, and look upon themselves as aggrieved by having to do so, as they employ him very little if at all on their own duties. But owing to the division of estates, there is much land for which there is no patwari, i.e., no patwari keeps the records of that land, and the proprietor of the land pays no contribution to any patwari's pay for the land. Unless we insist on carrying out the original intention of having only one patwari for the village and making all contribute to his pay, there will be many maliks to whom the abolition of the patwari will make no difference. Darbhanga would no doubt rejoice, but thousands of petty maliks would not be affected if the present patwari were abolished.

6. From F. A. SLACK, ESQ., Collector of Saran, dated 21*st November* 1894.

AFTER a careful search, I can find no cases or facts bearing on the second and third arguments of the Government of India. So far as my own personal experience goes, the patwari, as he is, does nothing more than any other zamindari servant would do, and he is to all intents now a zamindari servant, and is only likely to turn towards the raiyats when he has fallen out with the zamindar.

I agree with the first and fourth arguments of the Government of India, but in the fourth for "can" I would place "might," since looking at the past history of the patwari there is but scanty hope that generally an effective land record agency will be created out of the members of the class. If it is, it will entail excessive hard work on the part of the Collector and his staff of Deputies for many years.

7. From H. BELL, ESQ., Manager of the Darbhanga Raj, dated 22nd November 1894.

NOTE ON THE RETENTION OF THE PATWARI AS A QUASI-GOVERNMENT SERVANT.

BEFORE noticing the argument in favour of the retention of the patwari, I wish to make one or two general remarks. There is an absolute consensus of opinion, both official and non-official, that the patwaris as a body are notoriously and hopelessly corrupt. The one great inducement offered to the zamindars to accept the survey was that the patwaris should cease to be Government servants: and after the Secretary of State in his very conciliatory despatch has sanctioned the abolition of the patwaris, I think it would be a very grave mistake for the Government to insist upon retaining a body of men who are not only mischievous, fraudulent, and corrupt, but most oppressive to the raiyats.

2. In the Minute of Sir A. P. MacDonnell of 30th September 1893, paragraph 67, it was not contended that the patwaris were not corrupt and utterly unreliable; but he proposed to retain them if his scheme for the maintenance of the record was not accepted. What Sir. A. P. MacDonnell practically said was this:—Here is my scheme for the maintenance of the record, and if you wont accept it, so far from abolishing the patwaris, I will make you feel the burden of the patwaris more intolerable than it has ever been. Sir A. P. MacDonnell's scheme was objected to by the zamindars, both European and native, because they believed it to be disastrous and unworkable; and the Government, I feel sure, will not retain the patwari, simply because that scheme has been rejected, but will do their utmost to give effect in its entirety to the Secretary of State's despatch. If after the publication of the Secretary of State's despatch the patwaris are not abolished, the zamindars will naturally think that the Government have some sinister design in retaining them, and that the survey is simply intended as a means of throwing additional burdens upon them. I say deliberately that, so long as the patwari is retained, the zamindars of Bihar are not responsible for the management of their estates. We cannot cope with the universal dishonesty and corruption of the patwaris. If estates are mismanaged in Bihar, the cause of the mismanagement is the patwari.

3. The first thing that strikes one in the arguments put forward for the retention of the patwari is their extreme vagueness. It is difficult to reply to vague generalities. As to the argument that "the Regulations give the Government much control over the patwari, which might be, though it has not been usefully employed," I can only say that more than a hundred years have elapsed since the Permanent Settlement was made, and during this long period the control of Government has been ineffectual to make the patwaris either honest or trustworthy, it is only an act of justice to the zamindars that they should be abolished. How, indeed, can the Government control a patwari? He is the village accountant. He has charge of the zamindar's rent-roll. His duty is to record all payments made by the raiyats, and to give receipts for such payments. How does he perform these duties? Hardly a day passes that I am not asked to have an enquiry into a patwari's account, and the result is always the same. Whenever an enquiry is made, the patwari is invariably found to have embezzled large sums of mony. I have at the present moment the accounts of four villages before me, and in each of these villages the amounts embezzled have varied from Rs. 2,000 to Rs. 3,700. The modus operandi is this. The joyt raiyats and the patwari collect from the raiyats; sometimes no receipts are given; in other cases receipts are given for the amount received, but on the counterfoil of the receipt only a portion of the amount received is entered, and in the village accounts the raiyat is only credited with the amount on the counterfoil, and the consequence is that a raiyat may have paid up all his rent, while heavy arrears are entered against his name. I need hardly say that these accounts, falsified to screen the patwari's defalcation, are a source of the greatest oppression to the raiyats; and hardly a day passes in which I do not receive complaints from the raiyats that large balances are shown against them in the patwari's papers, though no rent is due.

4. The death of a raiyat is another source of illegal gain to the patwari. I have had three cases before me today in which a patwari admitted strangers to the holding of a deceased raiyat, though there were heirs who were entitled to the succession. The stranger got into possession, received receipts for the rent, and of course the only remedy for the heirs was a suit in the Civil Court. In such cases a zamindar cannot summarily eject the raiyat in possession, for he has been entered on the rent-roll as a tenant, and holds the patwari's receipt for the payment of his rent, and the Civil Courts hold the zamindar bound by the patwari's receipts, though he is a servant whom the zamindar has no authority to dismiss.

5. I have also had repeated cases in which a patwari has reported that a raiyat who has fallen into arrears with his rent has absconded, and the land is then entered in the patwari's papers as unoccupied land, while the supposed absconder is continued in possession of the land on the condition of handing over half the produce to the patwari. Where the raiyat has really absconded, the patwari keeps the land in his own possession, by keeping the absconder's name on his papers, and so evading the payment of rent for the land.

6. Under the present law the zamindar cannot eject a raiyat for non-payment of rent; all he can do is to sue him for the arrears, and in execution of the decree put up the holding for sale. In most cases we are compelled to buy in the holding, and then resettle it with another raiyat. Here our difficulties begin. We obtain a decree, and after the sale are put into possession; but the patwari, if bribed by the defaulter, reports that no raiyat will take the vacant land, and allows the defaulter to remain on in possession without paying any rent at all, or in some cases cultivates it himself.

7. That it may not be thought that I am exaggerating the misdeeds of the patwari, I will give a short summary of a report which is at the present moment before me for orders. The name of the village is Gahar near to Hyaghat. There were enormous arrears in the patwari's papers against the raiyats of the village, and a large number of the raiyats came and asked that their accounts might be adjusted, as the patwari had not given them credit for the payments they had made. I deputed an officer to make the enquiry, and he reports that, out of 600 raiyats' receipts which he had then compared in the presence of the patwari with the counterfoils, he found a deficiency of Rs. 3,289. It was also found that the patwari had received from the Raj Rs. 50 for the erection of a bridge, and had in addition levied a contribution from the raiyats, but not a pice of the money had been expended on the work. It was also found that he had taken benami the settlement of a fishery, which he underlet to the raiyats at treble the amount he paid. It was also found that he had dispossessed a number of raiyats of their holdings, reporting them either to be dead or absconded, and had then enjoyed the produce of the land himself, and that a number of raiyats had in consequence left the village. In a neighbouring village of 1,800 bighas, of which he was also patwari, it was found that 243 bighas of land had not been entered on the rent-roll, and that the raiyats in collusion with the patwari were enjoying the land without paying any rent.

8. Now I ask is it fair to the zamindars that they should be compelled to employ in the management of their estates scoundrels like these? They are all alike. Their official position as Government servants enables them not only to oppress the raiyats, particularly the poorer raiyats, and to make a rich harvest out of their appointment at the expense of the zamindar, but they are also the great obstacle to a proper adjustment of the village accounts. Their great object is to keep things in confusion and foment quarrels among the raiyats.

9. It may be said, if the patwaris are such unfaithful officers, why do not the zamindars obtain the sanction of the Collector to their dismissal. But to obtain the sanction of the Collector to the dismissal of a patwari is a very difficult and expensive matter. We have to bear the cost of a long and tedious enquiry. We have to produce witnesses to prove each act of misconduct, and these enquiries sometimes last for days, and even if we succeed in having the patwari dismissed, we are in no better position. The new patwari is appointed by the Collector and is generally as big a scoundrel as his predecessor. The last case in which I applied for the dismissal of a patwari was an amusing one. We had charged the patwari with various acts of misconduct: the patwari replied that the charges had been brought to spite him, because he had refused to execute a sharanamah for the lands he held. The Assistant Collector who tried the case adopted the patwari's statement and dismissed our application.

I was somewhat surprised when I read the decision, and called for a statement of the lands held by the patwari. It then appeared that the man held no land at all under the Raj, and that the whole story was a pure invention; and this is the man whom we are still bound to employ as our village agent.

10. If a fair trial is to be given to Sir Charles Elliott's scheme for the maintenance of the record, as directed by the Secretary of State, I say it is absolutely essential that the village agent, instead of being a quasi-Government servant, removeable only by the Collector, should be absolutely under the control of the zamindar. It is the one great difficulty I have in the management of these estates that the patwaris know I have no power to dismiss them, however flagrant may be their misconduct. They know that it is impossible for zamindars to be constantly instituting suits before the Collector for the dismissal of patwaris, and they naturally presume on their position as quasi-Government servants. The management of a zamindari is as much a business as the management of a merchant's firm; and if a zamindar is to be held responsible for the management of his estate, he surely ought to be able to employ his own agents, and to dismiss those agents when he finds that they are either oppressing the raiyats or robbing himself.

11. Now what are the counter-arrangements which are set forth for the retention of the patwari. The first argument I have already disposed of.

12. The second argument is that the patwari is even now a valuable protection to the raiyats against illegal claims. I am not aware of a single instance in which a patwari has protected a raiyat. If there are disputes in the village, the patwari is simply guided by his own self-interest; he would laugh at the idea of taking the part of a poor raiyat against either a rich raiyat or a rich zamindar. He will no doubt take part with the raiyats against the zamindar when his interests and the raiyats' interests are the same; as for instance where he is a raiyat, and there is a general combination against the zamindar to evade the payment of rent; and in such cases it is manifestly unfair that the zamindar should be compelled to employ as his agent a man who takes part in a combination against him.

These, however, are the only cases in which he is on the side of the raiyats. An unscrupulous zamindar will always have the patwari on his side; so will a rich raiyat in a dispute with a poor raiyat. His position as a quasi-Government servant gives him means of oppression which he would not have as a simple zamindari servant.

13. As to the third argument that the patwari has often been made use of for numerous important uses throughout Bihar, I believe he was employed in the last census operations; but this was done with the concurrence of the zamindars It was no part of his customary duty, under section 16, Regulation XII of 1817, to make a census of the population, and any zamindar might have objected to his employment upon such duty. In the Raj estates the patwari worked under our tahsildars, and the zamindars generally gave every assistance to the Government. I am not aware of any public duties upon which he has been employed independently of the zamindars.

14. It is hardly necessary to refer to the fourth argument that the patwari is the nucleus out of which an effective land record agency could be developed. It is simply an argument for reviving the patwari scheme for the maintenance of the record which has been disallowed. If what I have said of the patwari is true, the very last person who should be employed on the maintenance of the record is the patwari. In all the arguments about the maintenance of the record it seems to be assumed that the zamindar has no interest in keeping up a correct rent-roll of his estate. It is, however, a matter of life and death for him to do so. A correct and undisputable rent-roll is the salvation of a zamindar. The patwari's interest is to have a confused rent-roll, for where the raiyats' accounts are properly adjusted, and the rents are undisputed, there is to a great extent an end to the patwari's peculations. He simply lives by creating confusion and introducing disputes. The obvious advantage of the survey is to have the area and rent of the holdings authoritatively recorded, and when this is done, the zamindar is the person who is interested in keeping his rent-roll up to date. If he fails to do so he loses his rents: and if the zamindar in his own interest cannot keep his records up to date, no one else can. But if the patwari is to be employed in keeping up the records, the sooner the survey is stopped the better.

8. From H. C. STREATFEILD, ESQ., Collector of Darbhanga, dated the 22nd November 1894.

WHILE my experience of patwaris in Bihar is not sufficient to give much weight to my views, I have no hesitation in saying that, as far as it goes, the abolition of Regulation XII of 1817 would be an unmixed blessing.

1. As to the control of Government over the patwari. We have here a thoroughly bad lot of patwaris in our Wards' estates, but I have not found that even here, where Government retains the landlord's powers as well as those conferred by the Regulation, we have any real effective control over them. In my experience the only effect of the Government control over the patwaris is to prevent the landlords from appointing the best men available, owing to the rules in force regarding succession, etc., and from dismissing men whom they know to be worthless or dishonest.

2. I never heard of a patwari affording any protection to the raiyats against illegal claims. He is too much the landlord's servant to refuse to assist the latter in exactions, even if he were so disposed, which he is not: and though he may, and often does, after quarrelling with his landlord, who cannot of course dismiss him at once, take up the position of the unjust steward and combine with the raiyats to defraud his employer, I cannot consider that this is any benefit to the raiyats in the long run, or any argument for his retention.

3. The past usefulness of the patwari is a matter of history. I never heard any tradition of such a thing, but you yourself and other old Bihar officers doubtless know far more about it than I.

4. This question of a land record agency is also one on which I do not feel myself qualified to speak with any assurance As a class, however, I consider the patwaris of this district a poorly educated, self-seeking, and not over-honest set, to whom it would not be safe to entrust any Government work of importance.

---

9. From D. J. MACPHERSON, ESQ., Collector of Gaya, dated 8th December 1894.

I.

I DO not think that the control which the Regulations give over the patwari could be usefully employed so long as he owes a divided allegiance to Government and to the zamindar. Every instance in which Government might seek to enforce that control more effectually than at present would only serve to irritate the zamindar and put the patwari into a position in which he might do much mischief to the latter for his own ends, without at the same time benefiting the raiyats.

II.

I can call to mind no specific instance in which the patwari has proved a "valuable protection to the raiyat against illegal claims." In the cases in which he has taken up an attitude of opposition to the landlord, the impression left on my mind is that his action has not been prompted by a desire to advance the true interests of the raiyats, or that it has had that effect. For the most part it has been in support of the claims of a rival landlord.

III.

The patwari has certainly been made use of in Gaya in making appraisements, but that is in his capacity as a servant of the zamindar for writing up the papers. I have not had experience of other uses to which he has been put that could fairly be described as of importance from a public point of view.

IV.

The patwari might become the nucleus of an effective land record agency, if it be assumed that none could be devised in which such a person had no place; but his whole status would have to be changed before he could be so employed. I think, however, that advantage might be taken of the present control of Government over him to compel him to submit periodical lists of changes in holdings that have been surveyed so as to afford a guide to the officers who may be charged with the maintenance of the record. But I think it would be expedient even in this matter to work through the landlord, so as to get over the present difficulty of dual control. In this view the landlord class might possibly accept the duty of filing these mutation lists in consideration of Government giving up all control over the patwari. Of course, they would also have to accept liability to penalties in the event of failure to file them. But in this matter I speak at a disadvantage, as I have never seen any papers bearing on the subject, except the Secretary of State's despatch recently published in the newspapers.

No. $\frac{628}{3\text{M}8}$, dated Calcutta, the 18th February 1895.

From—DENZIL IBBETSON, Esq., C.S., Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Revenue and Agriculture,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

I AM directed to reply to your letter No 5764L.R., dated 21st December 1894, regarding the proposed repeal of the Patwari Regulation, No. XII of 1817.

2. The Governor-General in Council is most anxious not to differ unnecessarily from Sir Charles Elliott on a matter to which he seems to attach considerable importance, and accordingly has carefully considered your letter and its enclosures, and has again reviewed the discussions which have taken place on this subject. He notices that the Board of Revenue and the Director of Land Records and Agriculture* are strongly against the repeal of the Patwari Regulation until some better agency is devised, and he observes that this opinion is in accord with views which were accepted by former Governments of Bengal. The weight of past and present opinion seems to His Excellency in Council to be entirely in favour of making no change at present, and under the circumstances he regrets that he is unable to see any reason to modify the opinion expressed in paragraphs 6 and 7 of my letter No. 2548 of the 4th September last.

* See Bengal Revenue Proceedings, September 1894, Nos. 51 and 52.

Indeed the Government of India find much in the papers now before them to support their contention that the patwari in Bihar is, even under present conditions, a valuable agency both to Government and to the raiyats. It is doubtless true that he is not all that could be wished, and still less all that he might be made. But to abandon such control over him as Government now possesses, to deprive him of the measure of independence which he now enjoys, and to convert him into a zamindari servant pure and simple, will not tend to improve him; while it will completely destroy his present and potential usefulness to the Government, and so far as the raiyats are concerned remove the last vestige of protection which the Regulation provided for them.

3. In a province where the only other local machinery available to the Government is that of the police, an agency which it is undesirable to employ on fiscal or agrarian enquiries, the Government of India are most unwilling to relinquish, without an equivalent, any form of organization, however imperfect, which forms a link between the State and the cultivator. The object with which the Government of Bengal is now preparing a record-of-rights, at much cost both to itself and to the people, is to put itself into a better position from which to fulfil its duties towards the agricultural classes which form so large a portion of the community; and its efforts should be directed towards strengthening and improving, rather than towards abolishing, such remnants of the village organization as remain to it. This is being done in every other province; it is even being done at the present time in certain parts of Bengal, and there is no substantial reason why all hope of doing it in Bihar should be destroyed by the abolition of that very system which in other parts of India has been, in the space of a few years, brought to a high state of efficiency.

4. The present utility of the patwari is, however, but a small part of the argument on which the Government of India base their desire to retain the Regulation of 1817. It is true that previous efforts to improve the existing organization have failed. These failures have been due partly to the persistent opposition with which measures of reform have been met, and partly to a want of perseverance in prosecuting the schemes for improvement. But a further and very effective cause of past failure is to be found in the absence of reliable material upon which the patwari could be utilized, and of any system under which he could be employed. The record-of-rights now under preparation will supply this want; and, to use the words of the Commissioner of Patna, to whose opinion His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor refers with approval, "it is too early yet to say that he can be made of no use" for the maintenance of that record. It is true that the employment of the patwari forms no integral part of Sir C. Elliott's scheme for maintaining the record. But there is much in the present correspondence, especially in the very important and weighty opinion of the Board of Revenue, to indicate the use that might be made of him in working even that scheme; and though His Honour does not at present propose to utilize him in this manner, it may eventually be found possible and advisable to do so.

5. The discussions on the subject of the Bihar patwari to which you refer in your letter present a remarkable consensus of opinion that a reformed local agency is desirable in place of the patwari as he stands. There are authorities who hold that such reform can be carried out under the Regulation without cost to Government or the raiyats. Others think differently; but at all events proposals for creation of a reformed patwari agency were disallowed in the case of the Patwari Bill, and have now been postponed by the Secretary of State until Sir Charles Elliott's scheme shall have had a fair trial. If that scheme succeeds, the existence of even an unreformed agency cannot, if properly utilised, fail to greatly enhance its success. But in paragraph 14 of his Despatch of 5th July 1894 the Secretary of State recognises that a reformed agency may be required: and, if Sir Charles Elliott's scheme fails, such an agency must necessarily be created. And to release the zamindars from their present liability for the maintenance of a patwari staff would, in the opinion of the Governor-General in Council, be on its merits a great mistake, while it would place Government in an unnecessarily disadvantageous position should the necessity contemplated by the Secretary of State arise. The retention of Regulation XII, 1817, intact as it stands, will not in any way interfere with the working of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor's scheme for maintaining the record, while in the opinion of the Governor-General in Council, having due regard to all that has passed in this connection, the repeal of the Regulation would not have any real effect in abating such opposition as still exists, on the landlords' side only, to the cadastral survey and record-of-rights. His Excellency in Council believes on the information before him that the raiyats of Bihar would not be a consenting party to the abolition of the Patwari Regulation, if nothing clearly better can be supplied.

6. With reference to the earlier portion of the second paragraph of your letter, I am to refer you to paragraph 6 of my letter No. 2548—61 of 4th September 1894 to your address. The orders of the Secretary of State to which you refer are merely permissive; and in the exercise of the discretion allowed by them, the Government of India have decided that the legislation proposed by His Honour should proceed without any reference to the Patwari Regulation, with which, as has been observed, it has no necessary connection, either inherent or incidental.

7. The present correspondence will form a portion of the papers which will be forwarded to the Secretary of State with the Bill that has been introduced in the Bengal Council in compliance with his orders.

HOWRAH-AMTA TRAMWAY.

No. 111.—Notification.—It is hereby notified that an application has been duly made to the Local Government of Bengal by Messrs. Martin & Co., successors to Messrs. Walsh, Lovett & Co. of Calcutta for sanction on behalf of a Company about to be formed and to be called the Bengal District Road Tramways Company, Limited, for sanction to the construction of a line of tramway between the town of Howrah and the town of Amta, within the district of Howrah viâ Jagatballabpur, and whereas it appears to the Local Government expedient and proper that the said application should be granted, the Local Government, in pursuance of section 5 of the Bengal Tramways Act, 1883, makes the following Order :—

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Order may be cited as the Bengal District Road Tramways Company Order, 1895.

Interpretation clause.

2. The several words and expressions to which meanings are assigned by the Bengal Tramways Act, 1883, have in this Order the same respective meanings :

Provided first in this Order the expression "the tramway" or "the undertaking" shall mean the tramway and works and undertaking by this Order authorised, and the term "tramway" shall include that portion of the Howrah Conservancy Lines over which running powers have been arranged for with the Local Authority in that street, except where the context may require a different meaning, and the words "the Act" shall mean the said Bengal Tramways Act, 1883.

Law applicable to the tramway.

3. (1) The tramway authorised by this Order shall be constructed, maintained, and worked, subject to the provisions of the Act, of the rules from time to time in force under the Act, and of this Order.

(2) No powers or rights shall be deemed to have been conferred on the Promoters or to have been withheld by Government, except as in this Order expressly provided.

Promoters and Company.

4. Messrs. Martin & Co., successors to Messrs. Walsh, Lovett & Co. of Calcutta shall be the Promoters for the purposes of this Order, and are in this Order referred to as "the Promoters" and the expression shall except where the context may require a different construction include the Company to be formed and called the Bengal District Road Tramways Company, Limited, hereafter in this Order referred to as "the Company."

CONSTRUCTION OF TRAMWAY.

Authority to Promoters to construct tramway.

5. The Promoters shall construct and maintain, subject to the provisions specified in this Order, and to the agreements made between the Promoters and the Local Authorities, which are set forth in Parts I and II of the First Schedule attached to this Order, and in accordance, also, with plans and sections deposited by the Promoters with the Local Government, the tramway hereinafter described, with all proper sidings, Rolmonds, rails, bearings, chairs, pillows, works, conveniences connected with the tramway as required for the purposes thereof.

Dates for commencing and completing the tramway.

6. (1) Subject to any extension of time that the Local Government may see fit to grant, the Promoters shall substantially commence the construction of the said tramway within nine calendar months from the date of this Order, and shall complete and equip the same in every respect for opening and working for traffic to the satisfaction of the Local Government within two years from the date of this Order.

(2) In the event of the said Promoters failing to commence the construction, and to complete and equip the tramway as provided in the first paragraph of this clause, then and in any such case the Local Government shall be at liberty to revoke this Order, and the Local Government shall thereafter be at liberty to enter into any arrangements with any other person or persons for the construction of a tramway from Howrah to Amta, and in the event of this Order being revoked by reason of the said Promoters failing to complete and equip, and open for traffic, the said tramway within the period of two years from the date of this Order, the Local Government shall have the option of taking over all the permanent-way and rolling-stock of the tramway at a reasonable valuation to be determined by the Local Government, and in the event of the Local Government so raising this option, all the other works and buildings of the tramway may be dealt with under the provisions of the Act relating to the discontinuance of tramways, as a tramway whereof the discontinuance has been proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

If, however, the Local Government do not desire to exercise the option of taking over the permanent-way and rolling-stock of the tramway as herein provided, then and in such case the tramway including the permanent way, the rolling stock, and all the buildings and works of every kind connected therewith, may be dealt with under the provisions of the Act relating to the discontinuance of tramways as a tramway whereof the discontinuance has been proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

Description of the tramway authorised.

7. The tramway authorised by this Order is a single [illegible] as necessary without the [illegible] Howrah from the [illegible] town of Amta, on the [illegible] a distance of about 30 miles [illegible] as the road. The line will start [illegible] to Telkal Ghât, and will pass along and on one side of the road, skirting the Howrah maidan, and thence along the Panchanantala Road to the Bantra Road, where it will effect a junction with the conservancy line of the Howrah Municipality, over which line running powers have been arranged. Leaving the conservancy line at a point a little to the south of the place known as Kadamtola (the first stopping place), the line will proceed in a westerly direction along the Makanda Road to Baltikri (four miles from Howrah), the next stopping place. From Baltikri the line goes (1 mile) on to Jhanka, the line (1 mile) to Solopi, thence (1½ miles) to Makanda, thence (2½ miles) to Doomoor, where a diversion of [illegible] will be made to carry the line over a bridge to be constructed at a lower level than the existing road bridge. From Doomoor the line proceeds (1½ miles) to Bajpur, and thence (3½ miles) to Jagatballabpur. The last stretch of [illegible] (the Bengal Deputy Collector's Office). The [illegible] road to the [illegible] a north-west direction to ... Gate pier, and thence over south towards Anara, Lotanga (locally ... sides of a triangle Jagatdal-Anara (2½ miles) will be served with a branch line, and the main line will proceed from Lotanga to Nyacolee (4 miles), partly across land to be acquired. From Nyacolee the line proceeds (10 miles) to Anara viâ Narayanpur, Dipa, and Moonshee Hat.

3. The Promoters may use for the construction of the tramway, but not for the purposes of any building or erection connected therewith, one side of all roads over which the tramway is to run six feet in width.

In cases where there are buildings on that side of the road on which the tramway is laid, the said width of six feet shall be measured from the gutter on that side of the road, or where the road is in embankment, from the edge of such embankment; and in cases where there are buildings on that side of the road, the said width shall be measured from such point on that side as in the opinion of the Government Engineer in charge of the road is safe and proper: but for the purpose of crossing bridges where deemed, the tramway may approach the centre of the road and as shall, in each case, be defined unavoidable by the said Engineer:

Provided always that—

(1) there shall nowhere be a less width of metalled road clear of the inner rail of the tramway than 16 feet;

(2) if any addition to the existing width of the metalled surface of the road is rendered necessary in order to comply with the terms of this Order, or if any alteration to or alteration of any bridge be in the opinion of the Government Engineer in charge of the road, rendered necessary by the tramway, the same shall be carried out by and at the cost of the Promoters to the satisfaction of the said Engineer;

(3) at no point on the metalled road shall there be more than one line of rails, any loop-lines, turnouts, or sidings that may be required must therefore be laid elsewhere than on the metalled portion of the road;

(4) the metalling of the roadway shall not be disturbed with more than is absolutely necessary for the proper construction of the tramway, and where such metalling is disturbed, it shall be made good with all reasonable speed by and at the cost of the Promoters to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer in charge of the road.

Bridges.

4. In all cases where, in the opinion of the Government Engineer in charge of the road, the existing road bridges are not sufficient to carry the tramway, the Promoters shall, at their own cost, such additions to any such bridges as may be ... the said Engineer, and the work ... to his satisfaction:

Provided that the Promoters ... other utilities ... at their ... the tramway, ... of such damage ... and matters ... duly appointed ... Government ...

Pavement, and shall ... portion of the said ...

Acquisition of additional land required by the Promoters. Disposal of land not required by the Promoters.

16. (1) Such additional land (over and above that which the Local Authorities ... agreed to grant free ... the Promoters, in pursuance ... clause 1 of Part I ... I of Part II ... Schedule hereunto annexed) as ... by the Promoters and sanctioned ... Government as necessary for the ... the tramway shall be acquired by the ... Government on behalf of the Promoters ... Land Acquisition Act, I of 1894, and the cost of acquiring such land shall be met by the Promoters.

(2) The Promoters may, from time to time, with the approval of the Local Government, but not otherwise, sell or otherwise dispose of any land acquired by the Local Government on their behalf which may no longer be required for the purposes of the undertaking.

Gauge of tramway and provisions regarding grooved or double rails.

11. The tramway shall be constructed on a gauge of 2 feet. In villages and at all level crossings of district or village roads and wherever the width of metalled road left clear of the inner rail of the tramway is less than 16 feet and the tramway is not fenced, either grooved or double rails shall be used, and, at all such places, the metal of the road shall be maintained flush with the level of the top of the rails. At all places where double rails are used, such rails shall be kept properly secured to each other by distance pieces placed at regular intervals to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer in charge of the road.

Standard dimensions to be observed.

12. Without prejudice to the powers conferred on the Local Authorities by section 14 of the Act, as regards the type of cars and carriages to be used on the tramway and the brakes and other appliances with which they are to be furnished, the standard weights and dimensions of rails, sleepers, rolling-stock and other equipment of the tramway are to be as set forth and described in the Second Schedule annexed to this Order. The Local Government, however, reserves to itself the right to revise the said standard weights and dimensions, and the special sanction of the Local Government must be obtained before the materials, etc., required for the tramway are ordered.

Stations and buildings.

13. The Local Government shall have the ... existing, from ... the situation ... station yards, offices, warehouses, ... conveniences and works ... connection with or as part of the said tramway.

Fencing.

14. The Promoters shall, within three calendar months of being called upon by the Local Government to do so, be bound to provide at their own expense fencing on both sides of the tramway, either along the whole or any part of its length, and shall carry out and complete the work in such manner and in such time as the Local Government may direct.

Position of Level Crossings, Gates and Guards.

15. (1) The Promoters bind themselves to provide at their own cost ... and to the satisfaction of the Local Government, suitable level crossings wherever the tramway crosses district and village roads, and at such other places as the Local Government or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf may, from time to time, direct.

(2) The Promoters shall, at their own cost, provide gates with gate-keepers' lodges, and shall maintain, at their own cost, gate-keepers at such level crossings or bridges crossed by the tramway as the Local Government may, from time to time, direct.

Provision of additional crossing places, etc., required by Government.

16. Subject to the previous sanction of the Local Government in each case, the Promoters may hereafter from time to time make, at their own cost, such crossings, passing-places, junctions, and other works as may be required, in addition to those specified in their application for this Order or authorized by this Order, and all such works shall, when sanctioned by the Local Government, be completed to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

Additional works required by Local Government.

17. The Promoters shall, at their own cost, construct and maintain all such stations, passing-places, sidings, junctions, and all other works, in addition to those specified in or authorised by this Order, and shall also employ and maintain all such establishments, in addition to those specified in or authorised by this Order, as the Local Government may, from time to time, consider to be expedient for the safe and efficient working of the tramway, or for the convenience and safety of the public and of the traffic of the roadway. All such additional works shall be completed to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

MOTIVE POWER, SPEED AND SIGNALS.

Power to be used by the tramway.

18. The vehicles used on the tramway may be moved by steam power. For that portion of the tramway within the Municipality of Howrah noiseless and smokeless locomotives, with running parts concealed, shall be used. For the remaining portion of the line, the outside cylinder type of locomotive may be used, but the Local Government reserves to itself the right to order noiseless and smokeless locomotives, with running parts concealed, to be used on any portion of the tramway.

Speed of trains.

19. The speed of trains on the tramway shall not exceed 12 miles, or such other speed as may, from time to time, be authorized by the Local Government: Provided always that, until the whole line is fenced on both sides, the maximum speed shall not exceed 10 miles an hour and the engines shall be fitted with cow-catchers, and provided further that, within the Howrah Municipality and other populous places to be determined by the Local Government, the speed shall always be limited to 6 miles an hour.

Signals.

20. All the permanent and crossing stations of the tramway shall be provided with home signals, which shall be at least 20 feet in height, and shall be located on the platforms. The Local Government, however, reserves to itself the right to order distant signals to be provided at the permanent and crossing stations, as well as both home and distant signals at such other stations, in addition to those referred to herein, and at such other places as may be considered necessary by the Local Government.

In thick, foggy, or tempestuous weather detonator signals shall be used in addition to the ordinary day and night signals, and all signals in use on the tramway shall be constructed, worked and used in accordance with such orders as may be prescribed, from time to time, by the Local Government.

MAINTENANCE AND WORKING OF TRAMWAY.

Maintenance of way, works and stock.

21. The Promoters shall at all times maintain and keep in good condition and repair, to the satisfaction of the Local Government, or of any officer duly appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, all way, works, rolling-stock, and appliances appertaining to the tramway; and shall maintain the tramway, way, works, rolling-stock, and appliances, and shall work the same in such manner as will, to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer in charge of the road, avoid all risk of danger or annoyance to the ordinary road traffic.

Maintenance of portion of road over which tramway runs.

22. (1) The Promoters shall maintain and keep in repair, to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer in charge of the road, so as not to interfere in any way with the efficient drainage of the road, the portion of the road on the side on which the tramway is laid; such portion shall include the width of the side of the road on which the tramway is laid from a point three feet from the centre line of the tramway on the side nearest to the centre of the road and on the other side to the bottom of the slope of the embankment when the road is in embankment, or to the top of slope of the cutting when it is in cutting or where there are buildings to the point to be determined by the Government Engineer in charge of the road, under the provisions of clause 8 of this Order.

The said portion of the road shall be ballasted by, and at the cost of, the Promoters, who shall also, at their own cost, alter the position or level of the tramway and of the said portion of the road to suit future alterations in the road or such future alterations in the tramway as may be approved by the Local Government, and shall forthwith repair, make good and reinstate, to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer aforesaid, any other portion of the road which shall at any time be in any way damaged by reason of any fault of the Promoters or of any accident to or upon the tramway. The gutter or drain on the sides of the road on which the tramway is laid, as the same at present exists or shall hereafter be constructed at the cost of the Local Government or of the Local Authorities, shall likewise be maintained in efficient order by and at the cost of the Promoters.

(2) The portions of the road from three feet from the centre line of the tramway to the opposite side of the road from the tramway will be maintained and kept in repair by and at the expense of the Local Authorities.

Inspection of works, accounts, etc.

24. When, after inspection of the tramway or portion of the tramway or any rolling-stock used thereon, the officer making the inspection under clause 23 of this Order reports to the Local Government that, in his opinion, the use of the tramway or any portion thereof, or of any specified rolling-stock, will be attended with danger to the public using it, the Local Government may direct that the tramway or portion thereof be closed for the public conveyance of passengers, or that the rolling-stock so specified shall no longer be used, as the case may be.

Closing of tramway and disuse of rolling-stock by order of Local Government.

25. When the tramway or any portion of the tramway has been closed under clause 24 of this Order, it shall not be re-opened for the public conveyance of passengers unless and until it has been inspected by the officer referred to in clause 23 of this Order, and its opening sanctioned by the Local Government.

Tramway not to be re-opened without sanction.

26. When the Local Government has, under clause 24 of this Order, prohibited the use of any rolling-stock, the said rolling-stock shall not be used unless and until the Local Government sanctions its use.

Rolling-stock not to be used again without sanction.

27. (1) In the event of any necessity arising for carrying out, in or on land occupied by the tramway, any works of any kind whatsoever for which interference with the tramway may be considered necessary by the Local Government, the said Government may, by notice in writing, and without prejudice to the powers conferred on the Local Authorities by section 38 of the Act, call upon the Promoters to show cause why such portion of the tramway should not be closed for traffic as may enable the said works to be carried out in safety.

Powers of Local Government to authorize interference with tramway in carrying out necessary works, etc.

After considering the necessity for closing such portion of the tramway, as well as any objections or suggestions that may be made by the Promoters, the Local Government may direct that the Promoters shall close the said portion of the tramway for such a period of time, and under such conditions, as in the circumstances of the case may appear necessary.

(2) The Promoters shall be bound to comply with such directions and allow the work referred to therein to be carried out: Provided that, unless otherwise directed, any portion of the tramway which it may be necessary to remove in order to carry out such work shall be removed and reinstated by, or at the expense of, the Local Government, or the person or persons at whose instance the work is carried out: And provided also that the Promoters shall, if they are, at the time the Local Government either interferes with or stops the working of the tramway under the first paragraph of this clause, paying any rent to the Local Authorities for the use of road, receive an abatement of such rent proportionate to the length of road over which and to the time during which the working of the tramway is stopped.

28. In the event of the Promoters desiring that any bridge, drain, culvert, water-course, telegraph line or other thing whatsoever on or adjacent to the land to be used for the tramway should be removed or the position thereof altered, the Promoters shall give notice in writing to the Local Authority, who shall thereupon deal with the matter themselves if within their powers, and, if not, shall refer the matter to the Local Government or other authority competent to deal with it, who shall pass such orders thereon as in the circumstances of the case may appear fit.

Conditions on which Promoters allowed to interfere with structures in or on the road.

29. When from accident or flood, or by reason of the execution of any works under the provision contained in clause 27 of this Order, or when, from any other reason, it is in the opinion of the Local Government necessary or expedient to remove or discontinue the use of the tramway or any part thereof, the Promoters may, subject to such conditions and in accordance in all respects with such regulations as the Local Government may, from time to time, make, construct and maintain, so long as occasion may require, a temporary tramway in lieu of the tramway or part of the tramway removed or discontinued.

Power of Promoters to make temporary tramway.

30. The Promoters shall not, without the consent in writing of the Government Engineer in charge of the road or of the Local Authorities, as the case may be, cut down or lop any tree growing along or by the side of the road, provided that in case of emergency the Promoters may remove or lop the branches or any portion of a tree which projects or hangs in such a manner as to be a source of danger or impediment to the tramway traffic.

Lopping trees.

31. Any road metal or material excavated by the Promoters from the road, in the construction or maintenance of the tramway, may be applied by them in or towards reinstating the said road, or in or towards completing any work thereon required by this Order.

Use of excavated material.

32. The Promoters may stack road metal and other materials for the construction or maintenance of the tramway within the limits of the road boundaries, but the same shall be stacked in such a manner as, in the opinion of the Government Engineer in charge of the road or of the Local Authorities, as the case may be, will not impede or endanger the traffic on the said road.

Stacking of materials.

33. The portion of the road which the Promoters are not authorised by or under this order to use for the purpose of the tramway shall be left free and unencumbered for ordinary traffic, and no obstruction whatever shall be placed thereon or caused thereto without the previous written consent, which may be revoked at will, of the Government Engineer in charge of the road or of the Local Authorities, as the case may be.

Unused portion of road to be left free.

TRAFFIC AND TRAFFIC WORKING.

34. The tramway may be used for the purpose of conveying passengers, passengers' luggage, animals, goods, minerals, and parcels, and for haulage of the night-soil wagons of the Howrah Municipality over that portion of the tramway within the Municipality of Howrah as provided in the agreement with the Local Authority of that area. But the Promoters shall have the liberty to refuse to carry any person or any animal suffering from any infectious or contagious disorder, and articles that may be declared dangerous or offensive by bye-laws to be framed under section 27 of the Act. Provided that nothing in this clause shall be taken to restrict the right of the Local Authorities by bye-laws made under section 26 of the Act to prohibit the carriage or conveyance of persons or animals suffering from any contagious disease or of goods declared to be dangerous or offensive.

Traffic to be carried.

Maximum fares and rates.

35. At the outset the following shall be the maximum rates of fares for passengers and tariff of charges for goods:—

	Per mile.
(a) Passengers.—Lower class ...	4½ pies.
Upper „ ...	1½ annas.

Any fraction of a mile will be reckoned as a mile, and no fare shall be less than one anna.

(b) Goods.—The East Indian Railway's classification of goods shall be adopted, and the following rates shall be observed as the maxima for the different classes of goods:—

	Per 100 maunds per mile.
	As.
1st class ...	8
2nd „ ...	10
3rd „ ...	12
4th „ ...	14
5th „ ...	16

(c) Parcels carried any distance—not exceeding 5 seers or 1 c. ft. ... Re. 1

Not exceeding 10 seers or 2 c. ft. ... 2

and Re. 1 for each additional 10 seers or 2 c. ft. or part thereof.

(d) Passenger's luggage.—A free allowance of luggage will be made to each passenger as follows:—

Upper class ...	40 seers.
Lower „ ...	20 „

Luggage in excess of the foregoing weights may be charged for at a rate not exceeding two annas per maund per mile.

Full control over charges of all kinds for the use of the Tramway is reserved to the Local Government.

Running of trains.

36. No trains shall be run between sunset and sunrise, except with the previous consent of the Local Government, and upon such conditions as may be approved by them.

Passenger classes.

37. Provision shall be made in all trains for two or more classes of passengers.

Train lights.

38. (1) During foggy weather, every train shall exhibit a red tail-light and two red side-lights in rear of the train, and every engine running alone, during foggy weather, shall exhibit at least one red tail-light.

(2) The same train and engine lights shall also be used when any train runs with the sanction of the Local Government between sunset and sunrise.

When one engine only to be on each section of the tramway.

39. If permanent signals are provided only at the crossing and terminal stations, one engine only in steam shall be allowed on each section of the tramway, and every such engine so working shall carry a board (bolted and not hung) on each side, stating in large characters that such engine is only to run between the stations to be named thereon.

Brakes and brake-vans.

40. All wagons used on the tramway shall be provided with lever brakes, working wood-blocks on the wheels, and all engines and brake-vans shall be provided with screw brakes acting on all the wheels. There shall be at least one brake-van, with a person in charge of it, attached to each train.

Prohibiting undue preference.

41. The Promoters shall not, as between members of the public, make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to, or in favour of any particular person or company, or any particular description of traffic, or subject any particular person or company, to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage. The Local Government shall have absolute power, for the purposes of this clause, to decide whether any preference, advantage, prejudice or disadvantage is undue or unreasonable.

Miscellaneous.

Crossing of tramway by any railway or other tramway.

42. In the event of its being necessary, under the authority of the Local Government, for any railway or tramway line other than that referred to in this Order to cross the tramway on the level or otherwise, the Promoters shall not be competent to raise any objection, provided that such reasonable expenses as may be shown to the satisfaction of the Local Government to have been incurred by the Promoters, on account of any interference with the tramway that may be necessary for such crossing, shall be borne by the administration of the railway or tramway authorised to cross.

Provided that the Local Government shall have absolute power, for the purposes of this clause, to decide the question as to the reasonableness of the expenses incurred by the Promoters on account of the interference with the tramway.

When the tramway interferes with the location or extension of any railway.

43. In case it hereafter be found that any portion of the alignment adopted by the Promoters for the tramway interferes with the location of any new line of railway, or the extension of any existing line of railway, the alignment occupied by the tramway shall be forthwith, at the request of the Local Government, abandoned in favour of the railway, and the tramway shall be diverted in such way and in such manner as shall appear to an Engineer or other officer duly appointed in this behalf by the Local Government to be fair and proper, provided that the actual cost of constructing such diversion shall be borne by the authorities of the said railway.

Penalty for breach of section 15 of the Act.

44. If the Promoters fail in any respect to comply with any of the provisions of clause 6 of section 15 of the Act, and the Local Authorities shall find it necessary or desirable to do anything or incur any expense to remedy any such failure on the part of the Promoters, all expenses so incurred shall be, on demand, repaid to the Local Authorities by the Promoters, and the certificate of the Chairman for the time being of the Local Authority shall be conclusive evidence that all expenses referred to in such certificate were so incurred, and the said Promoters shall not be at liberty to dispute the same.

On Promoters' default works may be executed by Local Government.

45. In the event of any work required by the Act or by this Order to be done by the Promoters not being done by them, the Local Government may cause a notice to be served on the Promoters requiring them, within a period to be prescribed in the said notice, to execute the said work; and if within the period so prescribed such requisition is not complied with, the Local Government may cause such work to be done and the cost thereof shall be recoverable from the Promoters. The certificate of the Government Engineer or other officer in charge of such work shall be conclusive evidence that all expenses referred to in such certificate have been incurred in carrying out such work, and the Promoters shall not be at liberty to dispute the same.

Improvements may be directed by the Local Government.

46. The Promoters shall adopt and apply all such improvements in the tramway and in the rolling-stock and appliances thereon as the Local Government may from time to time consider necessary or desirable for the safety or convenience of the public.

Supplementary agreement with Municipal Commissioners of Howrah.

47. The Promoters shall forthwith enter into a supplementary agreement with the Municipal Commissioners of Howrah, which shall contain the same provisions as to the purchase of the tramway as are now contained in clause 6 of the agreement between the Promoters and the District Board of Howrah as set forth in Part I of the First Schedule attached to this Order.

Transfer of tramway.

48. The Promoters shall not have power to transfer the undertaking, without the previous sanction of the Local Government, otherwise than as provided in clause 6 of Part I of the First Schedule hereto attached, and as shall be provided in the supplementary agreement to be entered into between the Promoters and the Municipal Commissioners of Howrah in accordance with clause 47 of this Order.

Statistics.

49. The Promoters shall provide, without unreasonable delay, such statistics relating to the tramway or to the traffic thereon as may from time to time be required by the Local Government.

Concession in this Order gives Promoters no exclusive right as carriers on the road traversed by the tramway.

50. It is to be distinctly understood that no concession granted under this Order confers on the Promoters any exclusive right as carriers over any part of the tract traversed by the tramway.

Penalty for failure of Promoters to comply with Order.

51. (1) If the Promoters fail to observe any condition or direction contained in or made under this Order, they shall for each such failure to observe the same be liable to a penalty which may extend to two hundred rupees and, in the case of a continuing failure, to a further penalty which may extend to fifty rupees for each day after the first during which such failure continues.

(2) When the Promoters have through any act or omission become liable for any penalty under this clause, the penalty shall become recoverable by suit in the district court having jurisdiction in the place where the act of omission or any part thereof occurred.

(3) The Local Government may remit the whole or any part of any penalty to which the Promoters become liable under this clause.

(4) Every penalty recovered under this clause shall be applied as the Local Government from time to time may direct.

52. The terms of this Order are without prejudice to the power of the Governor-General in Council under section 146 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, to extend the provisions of that Act to the tramway, of which the construction is authorised by this Order.

ARBITRATION.

53. If any dispute, question or controversy shall at any time arise between the Local Government and the Promoters, or the Local Authorities and the Promoters, touching this Order, or any clause or thing herein contained, or the construction hereof, or any matter connected with this Order, or the operation of the same, or the rights, duties or liabilities of any of the parties in relation to the premises, then and in every such case the matter in difference, unless special provision shall have been made in this Order for the settlement of the matter so in difference, shall be referred to two arbitrators or their umpire, pursuant to and so as with regard to the mode and consequence of the reference, and in all other respects to conform to the provisions in that behalf contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1882, or any subsisting statutory modification thereof, and upon every such reference the arbitrators and umpire shall respectively have power to examine witnesses upon oath or affirmation, and either to fix, settle and determine the amount of costs of the reference and award respectively or incidental thereto to be paid by both parties making the reference, or by either party, or to direct the same to be taxed either as between Solicitor and Client or otherwise, and to direct and award where and by and to whom such costs shall be paid, and every or any such reference may be made a rule of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice or of the High Court of Judicature at Calcutta on the application of either the Local Government the Local Authorities or the Promoters, and either the Local Government the Local Authorities or the Promoters may instruct Counsel to consent thereto for the other party.

THE 1ST SCHEDULE ABOVE REFERRED TO.

PART I.

AN AGREEMENT made this 12th day of June 1889 BETWEEN THE DISTRICT BOARD of Howrah incorporated under the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 (and hereinafter called "the Board") of the one part and THEODORE JACKSON WALSH, WILLIAM LOVETT and SAMUEL DAVID TALLERMAN members of the firm of Messrs. Walsh Lovett and Company of Calcutta Engineers at present residing in England (hereinafter called the Promoters) for and on behalf of a Company about to be formed and to be called the "Bengal District Road Tramways Company Limited" (hereinafter called "the Company") of the other part: WHEREAS the Promoters are desirous to promote the construction of a Tramway to be worked by steam-power from Howrah to Amta vid Jagatbalabpur and have applied to the said Board for a concession to the Company of the right to construct and work such Tramway through that portion of the road between Howrah and Amta which passes through the area under the jurisdiction of the said Board and the said Board have granted such concession (provisionally on the same being sanctioned by the Government of Bengal) upon the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth.

NOW THESE PRESENTS WITNESS that it is hereby mutually agreed as follows:—

1. The Board will grant the Company the free use of as much of the said portion of the said road as is necessary (but not exceeding six feet wide and on one side of the road only) for the purpose of laying thereon a Steam Tramway of two feet gauge to be worked by the Company.

2. The Board will promote the acquisition by the Company under the provisions of Act X of 1870 of such additional land as may be necessary for the purposes of the Tramway.

3. The Board will for a period of twenty-one years with power of renewal exempt the Company from the tax on account of road-cess if the law and the Government so allow or will exact only a nominal tax.

4. So soon as five miles of the Tramway shall have been constructed and declared open to the public the Board shall (whether such portion of the Tramway so constructed and declared open as aforesaid shall be within the area under the jurisdiction of the said Board or not) pay to the Company as and by way of interest on the capital expended by the Company any sum or sums of money which may be required to make the net profit of the Company equivalent to Rs. 850 per annum per mile of Tramway constructed and declared open: Provided that the provisions of this clause shall not involve the Board in a greater liability to the Company than Rs. 22,000 per annum, and shall not be applicable to any mile of the Tramway upon which rails have not been laid and the line declared open to the public.

5. If and whenever the net profits of the Company in respect of the said Tramway from Howrah to Amta shall be in excess of 4 per cent. upon the capital for the time being of the Company such surplus profits shall be divided between the Company and the Board in equal moieties.

6. In the event of the Board exercising in conjunction with the District Board of Hooghly and the Municipality of Howrah the right of purchase conferred upon them by section 41 of Act 3 of 1883 (B.C.) the value to be placed upon the Tramway shall be calculated by adding to the value of the whole Tramway from Howrah to Amta with all its equipments as a dividend-earning investment a bonus of 20 per cent. over and above such value: the said value in case of dispute to be determined by arbitration under the clause in that behalf hereinafter contained.

7. The Company to be formed shall be one of limited liability registered under Act VI of 1882 and all matters connected with the Tramway shall be dealt with by Directors of whom one in six shall be nominated by the Board.

8. The greater part of any remuneration which the Company may agree to pay any Agents whom it may appoint over and above a fair allowance for office expenses shall not be in the form of a fixed payment but in that of a commission on net profits.

9. The Company shall widen and raise the level of the road whenever necessary it being understood that a clear roadway of fourteen feet exclusive of the six feet required for the Tramway shall be left intact for ordinary wheel traffic.

10. The necessary level sections plans and designs as required by the Government shall be prepared by and at the expense of the Company.

11. The Company shall construct new bridges and culverts widen and fortify existing bridges and culverts whenever necessary.

12. The Company shall wherever possible avoid running their line through bazars and villages.

13. The Company shall construct maintain and repair all works connected with the Tramway with materials of the first class quality to be approved by Government.

14. If any doubt or difference shall arise between the Board and the Company concerning anything herein contained on any matter in any way connected therewith or with these presents or the construction thereof or the rights duties and liabilities of any person or persons in connection with these presents or as to the incidence of expense as between the Board and the Company under any of the clauses of this Agreement then and in every such case the matter in doubt or difference shall be referred to two arbitrators, one to be appointed by each party or by the umpire of such arbitrators in case they differ in opinion. But if either party shall refuse or neglect to appoint for one month after notice in writing from the other of an arbitrator being or having been appointed then the arbitrator so appointed may make a final decision alone which shall have the same force and effect as the award of two arbitrators or their umpire duly appointed.

15. Upon the adoption of this Agreement by the Company in such manner as to render the same binding on the Company the Promoters shall be discharged from all liability in respect thereof.

16. Unless within twelve months after the sanction of this Agreement by the Government of Bengal the Company's Capital shall have been fully subscribed either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind this Agreement and after adopting this Agreement the Company shall stand in the place of the Promoters for the purposes of this clause.

17. If this Agreement shall not be adopted by the Company in manner aforesaid within three months after the sanction thereof by the Government of Bengal either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind the same.

18. The rescission of this Agreement under clauses 16 and 17 shall not give rise to any claim for compensation express or otherwise.

As witness the hands of the parties the day and year aforesaid.

PART II.

AN AGREEMENT made the 27th day of September 1889 BETWEEN The MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONERS of Howrah hereinafter called "the Commissioners" of the one part and THEODORE JACKSON WALSH, WILLIAM LOVETT and SAMUEL DAVID TALLERMAN members of the firm of Messrs. Walsh Lovett and Company of Calcutta Engineers at present residing in England (hereinafter called the Promoters) for and on behalf of a Company about to be formed and to be called the "Bengal District Road Tramways Company Limited" hereinafter called "the Company" of the other part: WHEREAS the Promoters are desirous to promote the construction of a Tramway to be worked by steam-power from Howrah to Amta vid Jagatbalabpur and to Sheakhalla and have applied to the Commissioners for a concession to the Company of the right to construct and work such Tramway through and over that portion of the roads between Howrah and Amta which passes through the area under the jurisdiction of the Commissioners and which are shown on the plan hereunto annexed and marked A, and the Commissioners have granted such concession (provisionally in the same being sanctioned by the Government of Bengal) upon the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth. NOW THESE PRESENTS WITNESS that it is hereby mutually agreed as follows:—

1. The Commissioners will grant the Company the free use of as much of the said portion of the said roads as is necessary (but not exceeding six feet wide and on one side of the road only) for the purpose of laying thereon a Steam Tramway of two feet gauge to be worked by the Company.

2. That the said Steam Tramway shall be a single one with the necessary passing stations and turn-outs and shall be laid flush with the road.

3. That the Company shall widen and raise the level of the roads wherever necessary it being understood that a clear roadway of fourteen feet exclusive of the six feet required for the Tramway shall be left intact for ordinary wheel traffic on such of the roads whereon the said Steam Tramway may be laid.

4. That the said Tramway shall be carried outside the line of trees on the north side of the Telkul Ghât Road to the Grand Trunk Road thence outside the line of trees on the east side of the Grand Trunk Road thence along the north side of the Punchanantollah Road to the junction with the Municipal Conservancy Line over which line the Commissioners shall permit the said Tramway to run wholly or in part on the terms hereinafter mentioned, and shall permit connection to be thereby made with the said Tramway to be laid on the Makurda Road and the Old Benares Road.

5. That the Company shall be allowed to use the said roads above mentioned for the said Tramway in the manner aforesaid for a period of fifty years from the date of this agreement the Commissioners reserving power at the expiration of a period of 20 years from the date of this agreement of levying a fair and equitable rate of rent per mile of line.

6. That the Commissioners shall make over to the Company the whole of their said Conservancy Line and Rolling-stock thereon (except Conservancy Wagons) and in consideration thereof and of the use of the roads above-mentioned in manner aforesaid the Company shall undertake at their expense the maintenance of the said Conservancy Line and keep the same and the locomotive in proper repair and working order.

7. That the Company shall undertake at their expense to provide steam haulage for the night-soil wagons of the Commissioners.

8. That in addition to the said Conservancy Line the Company shall in like manner as provided for in clause 6 undertake at their expense the maintenance and working of any extension of the said Conservancy Line which may be constructed in the future provided that the Company shall not be required to maintain and work as aforesaid a greater length than 4 miles of the said Conservancy Line including any extension thereof.

9. That the Commissioners shall have the power of regulating the rate of speed at which the said Tramway may be worked by the Company within the Municipal limits of Howrah and that within such limits if so required by the Commissioners the Company shall provide out-riders to go in front of each train.

10. That the Commissioners will assist the acquisition by the Company under the provisions of Act X of 1870 of such additional lands as may be necessary for the purposes of the said Steam Tramway but the Commissioners shall not be in any way responsible for such acquisition or for any proceedings or expenses connected therewith.

11. That the Company shall acquire such land as may be required to improve the alignment of the Punchanantollah Road in accordance with the plan hereto annexed and marked B, which said plan has been prepared by the Commissioners.

12. The necessary levels sections plans and designs as required by the Bengal Government shall be prepared by and at the expense of the Company.

13. The Company shall construct new bridges and culverts widen and fortify existing bridges and culverts whenever necessary.

14. The Company shall construct and maintain and repair all works connected with the Tramway with materials of the first class quality.

15. If any doubt or difference shall arise between the Commissioners and the Company concerning anything herein contained or any matter in any way connected therewith or with these presents or the construction thereof on the rights duties and liabilities of any person or persons in connection with these presents or as to the incidence of expense as between the Commissioners and the Company under any of the clauses of this Agreement then and in every such case the matter in doubt or difference shall be referred to two arbitrators one to be appointed by each party or by the umpire of such arbitrators in case they differ in opinion. But if either party shall refuse or neglect to appoint for one month after notice in writing from the other of an arbitrator being or having been appointed then the arbitrator so appointed may make a final decision alone which shall have the same force and effect as the award of two arbitrators or their umpire duly appointed.

16. Upon the adoption of this Agreement by the Company in such manner as to render the same binding on the Company the Promoters shall be discharged from all liability in respect thereof.

17. Unless within twelve months after the sanction of this Agreement by the Government of Bengal the Company's Capital shall have been fully subscribed either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind this Agreement and after adopting this Agreement the Company shall stand in the place of the Promoters for the purpose of this clause.

18. If this Agreement shall not be adopted by the Company in manner aforesaid within three months after the sanction thereof by the Government of Bengal either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind the same.

19. The rescission of this Agreement under clauses 17 and 18 shall not give rise to any claim for compensation express or otherwise.

HOWRAH, 27th September 1889.

THE 2ND SCHEDULE REFERRED TO.

NOTE.—The maximum, minimum and fixed dimensions and loads given in this schedule may not be infringed under any circumstances without the special sanction of the Government of India. Where it is proposed to execute any work or to procure Bridge Girders, Station Machinery, Rolling Stock or other Railway material which will infringe these dimensions or loads, the sanction of the Government of India is to be obtained before such work is commenced or order given.

I.—FORMATION.

Single line—

Minimum width of formation—

(1) In embankment	... ...		12 feet.
(2) In cutting (excluding side drains)	in earth ...		12 „
	in rock ...		11½ „

Double line—

Minimum width of formation—

(3) In embankment	... .	28 feet.
(4) In cutting (excluding side drains)	... ...	23 „
(5) Standard distance centre to centre of tracks (out of stations)	... ...	12 „

Curves—

Maximum angle of curvature—

(6) In ordinary country	... ...	12° 0′ (Rad. = 477½ feet.)

N.B.—The angle of curvature is taken as the angle at the centre subtended by an arc of one hundred feet in length. Thus the radius for a one degree curve is 5729·578 feet.

The maximum angle of curvature should only be worked to in special cases where the adoption of an easier curve would be impracticable or involve considerable extra expense. Under very exceptional circumstances, where it may appear necessary that this rule should be relaxed, the matter should be referred to the Government of India for orders.

The maximum angles of curvature given above do not apply to curves in station yards.

II.—BALLAST AND PERMANENT-WAY.

Ballast—

(1) Minimum width of ballast at rail level	... ...	6 feet.
(2) Minimum depth of ballast below sleepers	... ...	6 inches.

N.B.—These minimum dimensions may be relaxed in the case of a line being opened to traffic before the banks have settled.

Sleepers—

Minimum dimensions for timber cross sleepers—

(3) Length	... ...	5 feet.
(4) Breadth	... ...	6 inches.
(5) Depth	.. ..	4 „
(6) Minimum number of cross sleepers per mile	...	1936

N.B.—On bridges where the cross sleepers rest directly on longitudinal girders, the sleepers are to be spaced not more than 1 foot 6 inches apart, centre to centre.

Rails—

(7) Maximum clearance of guard rail for points and crossings	1⅜ inch.
(8) Minimum clearance of guard rail for points and crossings	1½ „
(9) Minimum clearance of guard rail for curves and level crossings	1⅞ „

N.B.—The maximum clearance for curves and level crossings will vary according to the radius of curve.

(10) Minimum depth of space for wheel flange, from rail level	1¼ inch.

Platforms—

(1) No platform walls; earth covered with cinders or gravel to be made up to rail level	.....

Buildings—

(2) Minimum horizontal distance of any building from centre of track at passenger platform	20 feet.
(3) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to any structure in the vicinity of a passenger platform (but not on a platform), within a height of 10 feet from rail level	8 feet.

N.B.—This rule does not apply to point levers between tracks, to water cranes, or to loading gauges.

(4) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to any structure not in the vicinity of a passenger platform, from platform level, if any, or from 1 foot above rail level if there be no platform, to a height of 9 ft. 6 in. above rail level ... ... 7 feet.

N.B.—Under the last entry coal or any material stacked by the side of any track is to be considered a structure in the sense in which the word is here used.

A projecting overhanging roof is permissible in the case of a goods shed on a siding, if such roof extends over the centre of the track at a height of not less than 12 feet above rail level.

Pillars, Lamps, &c.—

(5) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to pillars, columns, lamps or similar isolated structures on platforms ... ... 9 feet.

Roofs, Over-bridges, &c —

(6) Minimum height above rail level for 5 feet from centre of track, of tie-rods or underside of any continuous roof or covering in passenger stations ... ... 16 ft. 6 in.

(7) Minimum height above rail level for 5 feet from centre of track for passenger foot-bridges crossing the line in stations ... ... 16 ft. 6 in.

(8) Minimum height above rail level for telegraph wires crossing the line, or above surface of road where carried over roads within the boundary of a station ... 20 ft. 0 in.

III.—FIXED STRUCTURES—OUT OF STATIONS.

Buildings, &c.—

(1) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to any structure, out of stations, from 1 foot above rail level to a height of 9 ft. 6 in. above rail level. (See diagram No. 2) .. .. 6 feet.

N.B.—Under this entry any material stacked by the side of the line is to be considered a structure in the sense in which the word is here used.

Where the line is on a curve, the horizontal distance of a fixed structure from the centre of adjacent track is to be increased as follows:—

For a curve of	12	degrees	(477½ ft. rad.)	allow 8	in. extra.
„ „	8	„	(716 ft. rad.)	„ 5½	in. „
„ „	4	„	(1432 ft. rad.)	„ 2¾	in.
„ „	2	„	(2865 ft. rad.)	„ 1¼	in.

and for other curves in proportion.

Over-bridges, &c.—

(2) Minimum height above rail level for 5 feet from centre of track for over-bridges out of stations ... 12 feet.

(3) Minimum height above rail level for telegraph wires crossing the line, or above surface of road where carried over roads at level crossings ... 20 ft. 0 in.

N.B.—The minimum horizontal distance, from the centre line of nearest track, at which a telegraph post may be erected, is the total height of the post plus seven feet. Also, where the line is in cutting, a telegraph post erected on the berm must be at a distance from the edge of the cutting of not less than the total height of the post.

V.—STATION YARDS.

Spacing of tracks—

(1) Minimum distance of tracks, centre to centre—

Track nearest platform to next track ...	...	14	feet.
All other tracks in station yards ...	...	12	„

Points and crossings—

(2) Minimum radius of curve ...	...	175	„
(3) Standard crossings ...	...	1 in 6.	1 in 8½.
(4) Standard length for tongue rails ...	...	7	feet.
(5) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to point handle, indicator or any part of point apparatus, above rail level ...	...	7 ft. 0	in.

N.B.—A point handle may not, in any position, be within seven feet of the centre line of nearest track; a clear distance of seven feet is also to be preserved from centre of nearest track to any part of the point apparatus, fixed or movable, above rail level. An arrangement involving the placing of a point handle between tracks should be avoided as far as practicable; but where this arrangement is adopted, the point handle must work parallel with the rails, not at right angles thereto.

Accommodation—

(6) Minimum clear available length of through siding at any roadside station which may be used as a crossing station ... ... 600 feet.

N.B.—The 'available length' of siding (whether the line be curved or straight) terminates where the distance between the centre line of the siding and the centre line of an adjacent track begins to be less than 10 feet.

The length of sidings may (with the sanction of the Government of India) be reduced to such an extent as may appear advisable But for each such special case the sanction of Government is to be obtained to the proposals before work is commenced.

VI.—STATION MACHINERY.

Water-tanks—

Minimum height for bottom of tank above rail level at water column:—

(1) For watering engines ... ... 14 feet.
(2) For washing out engines ... ... 20 „
(3) Minimum distance from centre of track to face of tank house ... ... 9 „
(4) Minimum capacity of tank at any station ... 500 c. ft.

Water-cranes—

(5) Minimum distance in the clear from centre of track to nearest part of water column from 1 foot above rail level ... ... 6 feet.
(6) Standard height above rail level for discharge of orifice of water-crane jib ... ... 10 ft. 6 in.
(7) Standard internal diameter for piping from tank to water-crane ... ... 4 inches.

Ash-pits, &c.—

(8) Minimum clear length at bottom for ash-pits in station yards ... ... 15 feet.
(9) Standard average depth for ash-pits in station yards 3 „
(10) Standard depth for examining pits for carriages and wagons ... ... 3 „

Engine running sheds—

Minimum width for running sheds inside in the clear:—

(11) For two lines of rail ... ... 30 feet.
(12) For one line of rail ... ... 18 „
(13) Minimum distance, centre to centre, of tracks in running sheds ... ... 12 „

Running shed doorways—

(14) Minimum width ... ... 9 feet.
(15) Minimum height, if flat at top ... ... 11 „
(16) Minimum height to crown of arch, if with semi-circular arch ... ... 13 „
(17) Standard average depth for wash-out pits in running sheds ... ... 3 „
(18) Standard average depth for repairing pits in running sheds ... ... 3 „

Turn-tables—

(19) Minimum diameter for engine turn-tables ... 15 feet.
(20) Minimum diameter for carriage or wagon turn-tables ... ... 12 „

Traversers—

(21) Minimum length for carriage or wagon traversers 12 feet.

Weigh-bridges—

(22) Minimum length for weigh-bridges for ordinary stock ... ... 12 feet
(23) Minimum weighing power for weigh-bridges for ordinary stock ... ... 10 tons.

VII.—LOCOMOTIVE ENGINES.

Maximum moving dimensions—

(1) The maximum moving dimensions laid down on page 8 for carriages and wagons apply also to Locomotive Engines.

Weight on a pair of wheels—

(2) Maximum under any circumstances ... ... 6 tons.
(3) Maximum per foot of diameter ... ... 2·25 „

Weight per foot run of wheel base—

(4) Maximum for either engine or tender separately, in the case of tender engines ... ... 1·5 tons.
(5) Maximum for tank engines ... ... 2 „

Weight per foot run over buffers—

(6) Maximum for engine and tender together, in the case of tender engines ... ... 0·875 tons.
(7) Maximum for tank engines ... ... 1 ton.

Total gross weight—

(8) Maximum for engine and tender together, in the case of tender engines ... ... 30 tons.
(9) Maximum for tank engines ... ... 18 „

N.B.—The weights given above are the maximum permissible under any circumstances with engine in working order and full load of fuel and water.

In exceptional cases, engines of weights in excess of the specification given above may be used under the special sanction of the Government of India. Such special sanction must be obtained before the engines are ordered, and the application for sanction must be accompanied by a diagram of the proposed engine, giving full particulars, and by a certificate by the Government Inspector that the bridges on the section over which the engines are intended to work are of sufficient strength.

VIII.—CARRIAGES AND WAGONS.

Maximum moving dimensions—

Maximum width—

(1) From rail level to a height of 2 feet 2 inches above rail level ... ... 7 feet 6 inches.
(2) From a height of 2 feet 9 inches above rail level to a height of 10 feet above rail level ... 8 feet.

N.B.—These heights are to be taken with the vehicle unloaded and buffer centres at the maximum height of 1 foot 11 inches from rail level. For further details see Diagram No. 1.

Maximum height from rail level—

(3) For unloaded vehicle at centre ... ... 10 feet.
(4) For unloaded vehicle at sides ... ... 9 feet 3 inches.

Loading gauge for goods in open tracks—

(5) Maximum width ... ... 8 feet 2 inches.
(6) Maximum height from rail level at centre ... 8 „ 3 „
(7) Maximum height from rail level at sides ... 7 „ 3 „

Maximum gross weight—

(8) On any pair of wheels ... ... 4 tons.
(9) Per foot run over buffers ... ... 0·5 ton.

N.B.—The weights given above are the maximum permissible under any circumstances, with the vehicle fully loaded. The weight on a pair of wheels includes the weight of the wheels, axles, axle-boxes and springs.

Wheel base—

(10) Maximum rigid wheel base for vehicles ... ... 9 feet.

Buffers and Couplings—

(11) Central buffers ... ...
(12) Maximum height above rail level for centres of buffers for unloaded vehicles ... ... 1 ft. 11 in.
(13) Minimum height above rail level for centres of buffers for fully loaded vehicles ... ... 1 ft. 9 in.

Height for floors—

(14) Maximum height above rail level for floor of any vehicle unloaded ... ... 2 ft. 5 in.
(15) Minimum height above rail level for floor of any vehicle fully loaded ... ... 2 ft. 3 in.

Wheels and Axles—

(16) Standard wheel gauge, or distance apart for all wheel flanges ... ... 2 ft. 3½ in.
(17) Standard diameter on the tread for new wheels ... 1 ft. 8 in.
(18) Maximum projection for flange of worn tyre below rail level ... ... 1 in.

Roof Lamps—

(19) Standard diameter inside in the clear for rings of carriage roof lamps ... ... 8¼ in.
(20) Standard diameter for carriage roof lamps at level of ring .... 8 in.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The 26th March 1895.

HOWRAH-SHEAKHALLA TRAMWAY.

No. 112.—Notification.—It is hereby notified that an application has been duly made to the Local Government of Bengal by Messrs. Martin & Co., successors to Messrs Walsh, Lovett & Co. of Calcutta, for and on b half of a Company about to be formed and to be called the Bengal District Road Tramways Company, Limited, for sanction to the construction of a line of tramway between the town of Howrah within the district of Howrah and the town of Sheakhalla, within the district of Hooghly viâ Jonai; And whereas it appears to the Local Government expedient and proper that the said application should be granted, the Local Government, in pursuance of section 5 of the Bengal Tramways Act, 1883, makes the following Order:—

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Order may be cited as the Bengal District Road Tramways Company Order, 1895.

Interpretation clause.

2. The several words and expressions to which meanings are assigned by the Bengal Tramways Act, 1883, have in this Order the same respective meanings:

Provided that in this Order the expression "the tramway" or "the undertaking" shall mean the tramway and works and undertaking by this Order authorized, and shall include that portion of the Howrah Conservancy Line over which running powers have been arranged with the Local Authority in that area, except where the context may require a different meaning, and the words "the Act" shall mean the said Bengal Tramways Act, 1883.

Law applicable to the tramway.

3. (1) The tramway authorized by this Order shall be constructed, maintained, and worked, subject to the provisions of the Act, of the rules from time to time in force under the Act, and of this Order.

(2) No powers of rights shall be deemed to have been conferred on the Promoters or to have been relinquished by Government, except as in this Order expressly provided.

Promoters and Company.

4. Messrs. Martin & Co., successors to Messrs. Walsh, Lovett & Co. of Calcutta, shall be the Promoters for the purposes of this Order, and are in this Order referred to as "the Promoters," and this expression shall, except where the context may require a different construction, include the Company to be formed and called the Bengal District Road Tramway Company, Limited, hereafter in this Order referred to as "the Company."

CONSTRUCTION OF TRAMWAY.

Authority to promoters to construct tramway.

5. The promoters shall construct and maintain, subject to the provisions specified in this Order, and to the agreements made between the Promoters and the Local Authorities which are set forth in Parts I, II and III of the first schedule attached to this Order, and in accordance, also, with plans and sections deposited by the Promoters with the Local Government, the tramway hereinafter described, with all proper establishments, rails, bearings, stations, offices, works, rolling-stock, and conveniences connected with the tramway or required for the purposes thereof.

Dates for commencing and completing the tramway.

6. (1) Subject to any extension of time that the Local Government may see fit to grant, the Promoters shall substantially commence the construction of the said tramway within nine calendar months from the date of this Order, and shall complete and equip the same in every respect for opening and working for traffic to the satisfaction of the Local Government within two years from the date of this Order.

(2) In the event of the said Promoters failing to commence the construction and to complete and equip the tramway as provided in the first paragraph of this clause, then and in any such case the Local Government shall be at liberty to revoke this Order, and the Local Government shall thereafter be at liberty to enter into any arrangements with any other person or persons for the construction of a tramway from Howrah to Sheakhalla, and in the event of this Order being revoked by reasons of the said Promoters failing to complete and equip, and open for traffic, the said tramway within the period of two years from the date of this Order, the Local Government shall have the option of taking over all the permanent-way and rolling-stock of the tramway at a reasonable valuation to be determined by the Local Government, and in the event of the Local Government exercising this option, all the other works and buildings of the tramway may be dealt with under the provisions of the Act relating to the discontinuance of tramways as a tramway whereof the discontinuance has been proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

If, however, the Local Government do not desire to exercise the option of taking over the permanent-way and rolling-stock of the tramway as herein provided, then and in such case the tramway, including the permanent-way, the rolling-stock, and all the buildings and works of every kind connected therewith, may be dealt with under the provisions of the Act relating to the discontinuance of tramways, as a tramway whereof the discontinuance has been proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

Description of the tramway authorised.

7. The tramway authorised by this Order is a single line, with necessary passing places to be laid within the districts of Howrah and Hooghly from the town of Howrah to the town of Sheakhalla, a distance of about 20 miles along the district road. The line will start at or near to Telkul Ghat, and will pass along and on one side of the road, skirting the Howrah maidan, and thence along the Panchanantolla road to the Bantra road, where it will effect a junction with the conservancy line of the Howrah Municipality, over which line running powers have been arranged. Leaving the conservancy line, where it crosses the old Benares road (2 miles), the line will proceed to a westerly direction along the old Benares road to Kona (1½ miles), from there the line goes to Koolgunga (½ mile), thence (1 mile) to Deburpara, thence (1½ miles) to Kristopur, thence (1½ miles) to Booita, thence (1 mile) to Beledanga, thence (1 mile) to Chanditolla. From Chanditolla the line proceeds to Kolaelona (1 mile), where a diversion of 26 chains will be made to carry the line to Jonai (1 mile). From Jonai the line again proceeds along the old Benares road to Jonardunpur (1½ miles), thence (1 mile) to Dipa, thence (1 mile) to Junglepara, thence (1½ miles) to Mokoondpur, thence (½ mile) to Modhopur, thence (½ mile) to Roghoonathpur, thence (½ mile) to Debee battee, thence (1 mile) to Sheakhalla.

Promoters authorised to use the road subject to limitation.

8. The Promoters may use for the construction of the tramway, but not for the purposes of any building or erection connected therewith, one side of all roads over which the tramway is to run, six feet in width.

In cases where there are no buildings on that side of the road on which the tramway is laid, the said width of six feet shall be measured from the gutter on that side of the road, or where the road is in embankment, from the edge of such embankment; and in cases where there are buildings on that side of the road, the said width shall be measured from such point on that side as in the opinion of the Government Engineer in charge of the road is safe and proper; but for the purpose of crossing bridges where desired, the tramway may approach the centre of the road as far as shall, in each case, be deemed unavoidable by the said Engineer:

Provided always that:—

(1) there shall nowhere be a less width of metalled road clear of the inner rail of the tramway than 16 feet;

(2) if any addition to the existing width of the metalled surface of the road is rendered necessary in order to comply with the terms of this Order, or if any addition to or alteration of any bridge is, in the opinion of the Government Engineer in charge of the road, rendered necessary by the tramway, the same shall be carried out by and at the cost of the Promoters to the satisfaction of the said Engineer;

(3) at no point on the metalled road shall there be more than one line of rails; any loop-lines, turn-outs, or sidings that may be required must therefore be placed elsewhere than on the metalled portion of the road;

(4) the metalling of the roadway shall not be interfered with more than is absolutely necessary for the proper construction of the tramway; and in all cases where such metalling has been so interfered with, it shall be repaired and made good with all reasonable promptitude by and at the cost of the Promoters to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer in charge of the road.

Bridges.

9. In all cases where, in the opinion of the Government Engineer in charge of the road, the existing road bridges are not sufficiently strong to carry the tramway, the Promoters shall make at their own cost such additions to or alterations of any such bridges as may be required by the said Engineer, and the work shall be carried out and completed to his satisfaction;

Provided that the Promoters may, at their option, construct at their own cost, for the purposes of the tramway, separate bridges of such design and in such manner as shall first be approved by an Engineer or other officer duly appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, and shall complete the same to the satisfaction of the said officer.

Acquisition of additional land required by the Promoters. Disposal of land not required by the Promoters.

10. (1) Such additional land (over and above that which the Local Authorities have agreed to grant free to the Promoters, in terms of clause 1 of Part I, clause 1 of Part II, and clause 1 of Part III of the First Schedule hereunto annexed) as may be required by the Promoters, and sanctioned by the Local Government as necessary for the purposes of the tramway, shall be acquired by the Local Government on behalf of the Promoters under the Land Acquisition Act, I of 1894, and the cost of acquiring such land shall be met by the Promoters.

(2) The Promoters may from time to time, with the approval of the Local Government, but not otherwise, sell or otherwise dispose of any land acquired by the Local Government on their behalf, which may no longer be required for the purposes of the undertaking.

Gauge of tramway and provisions regarding grooved or double rails.

11. The tramway shall be constructed on a gauge of 2 feet. In villages and at all level crossings of district or village roads and wherever the width of metalled road left clear of the inner rail of the tramway is less than 16 feet and the tramway is not fenced, either grooved or double rails shall be used, and, at all such places, the metal of the road shall be maintained flush with the level of the top of the rails. At all places where double rails are used, such rails shall be kept properly secured to each other by distance pieces placed at regular intervals to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer in charge of the road.

Standard dimensions to be observed.

12. Without prejudice to the powers conferred on the Local Authorities by section 14 of the Act, as regards the type of cars and carriages to be used on the tramway and the brakes and other appliances with which they are to be furnished, the standard weights and dimensions of rails, sleepers, rolling-stock, and other equipment of the tramway are to be as set forth and described in the Second Schedule attached to this Order. The Local Government, however, reserves to itself the right to revise the said standard weights and dimensions, and the special sanction of the Local Government must be obtained before the materials, etc., required for the tramway are ordered.

Stations and Buildings.

13. The Local Government shall have the power of determining, from time to time, the situation and dimensions of all stations, station yards, offices, warehouses, houses for employés, conveniences and works to be constructed in connection with or as part of the tramway.

Fencing.

14. The Promoters shall, within three calendar months of being called upon by the Local Government to do so, be bound to provide at their own expense fencing on both sides of the tramway, either along the whole or any part of its length, and shall carry out and complete the work in such manner and in such time as the Local Government may direct.

Provision of Level Crossings, Gates and Gatemen.

15. (1) The Promoters bind themselves to provide at their own cost, and to the satisfaction of the Local Government, suitable level crossings wherever the tramway crosses district and village roads, and at such other places as the Local Government or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf may, from time to time, direct.

(2) The Promoters shall, at their own cost, provide gates with gate-keepers' lodges, and shall maintain, at their own cost, gate-keepers at such level crossings or bridges crossed by the tramway as the Local Government may, from time to time, direct.

Provision of additional crossing places, etc., required by Promoters.

16. Subject to the previous sanction of the Local Government in each case, the Promoters may hereafter from time to time make, at their own cost, such crossings, passing-places, junctions, and other works as may be required, in addition to those specified in their application for this Order or authorized by this Order, and all such works shall, when sanctioned by the Local Government, be completed to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

Additional works required by Local Government.

17. The Promoters shall, at their own cost, construct and maintain all such stations, passing-places, sidings, junctions, and all other works, in addition to those specified in or authorised by this Order, and shall also employ and maintain all such establishments, in addition to those specified in or authorised by this Order, as the Local Government may, from time to time, consider to be expedient for the safe and efficient working of the tramway, or for the convenience and safety of the Public and of the traffic of the roadway. All such additional works shall be completed to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

MOTIVE POWER, SPEED AND SIGNALS.

Power to be used by the tramway.

18. The vehicles used on the tramway may be moved by steam power. For that portion of the tramway within the Municipality of Howrah noiseless and smokeless locomotives, with running parts concealed, shall be used. For the remaining portion of the line, the outside cylinder type of locomotive may be used, but the Local Government reserves to itself the right to order noiseless and smokeless locomotives, with running parts concealed, to be used on any portion of the tramway.

Speed of trains.

19. The speed of trains on the tramway shall not exceed 12 miles, or such other speed as may, from time to time, be authorised by the Local Government. Provided always that, until the whole line is fenced on both sides, the maximum speed shall not exceed 10 miles an hour and the engines shall be fitted with cow-catchers, and provided further that, within the Howrah Municipality and other populous places to be determined by the Local Government, the speed shall always be limited to 6 miles an hour.

Signals.

20. All the permanent and crossing stations of the tramway shall be provided with home signals, which shall be at least 20 feet in height and shall be located on the platforms. The Local Government, however, reserves to itself the right to order distant signals to be provided at the permanent and crossing stations, as well as both home and distant signals at such other stations, in addition to those referred to herein, and at such other places as may be considered necessary by the Local Government.

In thick, foggy, or tempestuous weather detonator signals shall be used in addition to the ordinary day and night signals, and all signals in use on the tramway shall be constructed, worked and used in accordance with such orders as may be prescribed, from time to time, by the Local Government.

MAINTENANCE AND WORKING OF TRAMWAY.

Maintenance of way, works and stock.

21. The Promoters shall at all times maintain and keep in good condition and repair, to the satisfaction of the Local Government, or of any officer duly appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, all way, works, rolling-stock, and appliances appertaining to the tramway; and shall maintain the tramway, way, works, rolling-stock, and appliances, and shall work the same in such manner as will, to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer in charge of the road, avoid all risk of danger or annoyance to the ordinary road traffic.

Maintenance of portion of road over which tramway runs.

22. (1) The Promoters shall maintain and keep in repair, to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer in charge of the road, so as not to interfere in any way with the efficient drainage of the road, the portion of the road on the side on which the tramway is laid: such portion shall include the width of the side of the road on which the tramway is laid from a point three feet from the centre line of the tramway on the side nearest to the centre of the road and on the other side to the bottom of the slope of the embankment when the road is in embankment, or to the top of slope of the cutting when it is in cutting, or where there are buildings to the point to be determined by the Government Engineer in charge of the road, under the provisions of clause 8 of this Order.

The said portion of the road shall be ballasted by, and at the cost of, the Promoters, who shall also, at their own cost, alter the position or level of the tramway and of the said portion of the road to suit future alterations in the road or such future alterations in the tramway as may be approved by the Local Government, and shall forthwith repair, make good and reinstate, to the satisfaction of the Government Engineer aforesaid, any other portion of the road which shall at any time be in any way damaged by reason of any fault of the Promoters or of any accident to or upon the tramway. The gutter or drain on the side of the road on which the tramway is laid, as the same at present exists or shall hereafter be constructed at the cost of the Local Government or of Local Authorities, shall likewise be maintained in efficient order by and at the cost of the Promoters.

(2) The portions of the road from three feet from the centre line of the tramway to the opposite side of the road from the tramway will be maintained and kept in repair by and at the expense of the Local Authorities.

Inspection of works, accounts, etc.

23. The undertaking and all works, stock, appliances and accounts appertaining thereto shall, at all times, be open to the inspection and examination of any persons whom the Local Government may appoint for that purpose, and the Promoters shall afford all reasonable facilities for the inspection or examination to the officer making it.

Closing of tramway and disuse of rolling-stock by order of Local Government.

24. When, after inspection of the tramway or portion of the tramway or any rolling-stock used thereon, the officer making the inspection under clause 23 of this Order reports to the Local Government that, in his opinion, the use of the tramway or any portion thereof, or of any specified rolling-stock, will be attended with danger to the public using it, the Local Government may direct that the tramway or portion thereof be closed for the public conveyance of passengers, or that the rolling-stock so specified shall no longer be used, as the case may be.

Tramway not to be re-opened without sanction.

25. When the tramway or any portion of the tramway has been closed under clause 24 of this Order, it shall not be re-opened for the public conveyance of passengers unless and until it has been inspected by the officer referred to in clause 23 of this Order, and its opening sanctioned by the Local Government.

Rolling-stock not to be used again without sanction.

26. When the Local Government has, under clause 24 of this Order, prohibited the use of any rolling-stock, the said rolling-stock shall not be used unless and until the Local Government sanctions its use.

Powers of Local Government to authorize interference with tramway in carrying out necessary works, &c.

27. (1) In the event of any necessity arising for carrying out, in or on land occupied by the tramway, any works of any kind whatsoever for which interference with the tramway may be considered necessary by the Local Government, the said Government may, by notice in writing, and without prejudice to the powers conferred on the Local Authorities by section 38 of the Act, call upon the Promoters to show cause why such portion of the tramway should not be closed for traffic as may enable the said works to be carried out in safety.

After considering the necessity for closing such portion of the tramway, as well as any objections or suggestions that may be made by the Promoters, the Local Government may direct that the Promoters shall close the said portion of the tramway for such a period of time, and under such conditions, as in the circumstances of the case may appear necessary.

(2) The Promoters shall be bound to comply with such directions and allow the work referred to therein to be carried out: Provided that, unless otherwise directed, any portion of the tramway which it may be necessary to remove in order to carry out such work shall be removed and reinstated by, or at the expense of, the Local Government, or the person or persons at whose instance the work is carried out: And provided also that the Promoters shall, if they are, at the time the Local Government either interferes with or stops the working of the tramway under the first paragraph of this clause, paying any rent to the Local Authorities for the use of road, receive an abatement of such rent proportionate to the length of road over which and to the time during which the working of the tramway is stopped.

Conditions on which Promoters allowed to interfere with structures in or on the road.

28. In the event of the Promoters desiring that any bridge, drain, culvert, water-course, telegraph line or other thing whatsoever on or adjacent to the land to be used for the tramway should be removed or the position thereof altered, the Promoters shall give notice in writing to the Local Authority, who shall thereupon deal with the matter themselves if within their powers, and, if not, shall refer the matter to the Local Government or other authority competent to deal with it, who shall pass such orders thereon as in the circumstances of the case may appear fit.

Power of Promoters to make temporary tramway.

29. When from accident or flood, or by reason of the execution of any works under the provision contained in clause 27 of this Order, or when, from any other reason, it is in the opinion of the Local Government necessary or expedient to remove or discontinue the use of the tramway or any part thereof, the Promoters may, subject to such conditions and in accordance in all respects with such regulations as the Local Government may, from time to time, make, construct and maintain, so long as occasion may require, a temporary tramway in lieu of the tramway or part of the tramway removed or discontinued.

Lopping trees.

30. The Promoters shall not, without the consent in writing of the Government Engineer in charge of the road or of the Local Authorities, as the case may be, cut down or lop any tree growing along or by the side of the road, provided that in case of emergency the Promoters may remove or lop the branches or any portion of a tree which projects or hangs in such a manner as to be a source of danger or impediment to the tramway traffic.

Use of excavated material.

31. Any road metal or material excavated by the Promoters from the road, in the construction or maintenance of the tramway, may be applied by them in or towards reinstating the said road, or in or towards completing any work thereon required by this order.

Stacking of materials.

32. The Promoters may stack road metal and other materials for the construction or maintenance of the tramway within the limits of the road boundaries, but the same shall be stacked in such a manner as, in the opinion of the Government Engineer in charge of the road or of the Local Authorities, as the case may be, will not impede or endanger the traffic on the said road.

Unused portion of road to be left free.

33. The portion of the road which the Promoters are not authorised by or under this Order to use for the purpose of the tramway shall be left free and unencumbered for ordinary traffic, and no obstruction whatever shall be placed thereon or caused thereto without the previous written consent, which may be revoked at will, of the Government Engineer in charge of the road or of the Local Authorities, as the case may be.

TRAFFIC AND TRAFFIC WORKING.

Traffic to be carried.

34. The tramway may be used for the purpose of conveying passengers, passengers' luggage, animals, goods, minerals, and parcels, and for haulage of the night-soil wagons of the Howrah Municipality over that portion of the tramway within the Municipality of Howrah, as provided in the agreement with the Local Authority of that area. But the Promoters shall have the liberty to refuse to carry any person or any animal suffering from any infectious or contagious disorder, and articles that may be declared dangerous or offensive by bye-laws to be framed under section 27 of the Act. Provided that nothing in this clause shall be taken to restrict the right of the Local Authorities by bye-laws made under section 26 of the Act to prohibit the carriage or conveyance of persons or animals suffering from any contagious disease or of goods declared to be dangerous or offensive.

Maximum fares and rates.

35. At the outset the following shall be the maximum rates of fares for passengers and tariff of charges for goods :—

(a) Passengers.—Lower class. } 4½ pies per mile.
Upper class. } 1½ annas per mile.

Any fraction of a mile will be reckoned as a mile, and no fare shall be less than one anna.

(b) Goods.—The East Indian Railway's classification of goods shall be adopted, and the following rates shall be observed as the maxima for the different classes of goods :—

	Per 100 maunds per mile.
1st class ...	8 annas.
2nd „ ...	10 „
3rd „ ...	12 „
4th „ ...	14 „
5th „ ...	16 „
	Rs.

(c) Parcels carried for any distance.—Not exceeding 5 seers or 1 c. ft. } 1
Not exceeding 10 seers or 2 c. ft. ... } 2
and Re. 1 for each additional 10 seers or 2 c. ft. or part thereof.

(d) Passengers' luggage.—A free allowance of luggage will be made to each passenger as follows:—

Upper class... 40 seers.
Lower „ ... 20 „

Luggage in excess of the foregoing weights may be charged for at a rate not exceeding two annas per maund per mile.

Full control over charges of all kinds for the use of the tramway is reserved to the Local Government.

Running of trains.

36. No trains shall be run between sunset and sunrise, except with the previous consent of the Local Government, and upon such conditions as may be approved by them.

Passenger classes.

37. Provision shall be made in all trains for two or more classes of passengers.

Train lights.

38. (1) During foggy weather, every train shall exhibit a red tail-light and two red side-lights in rear of the train, and every engine running alone, during foggy weather, shall exhibit at least one red tail-light.

(2) The same train and engine lights shall also be used when any train runs with the sanction of the Local Government between sunset and sunrise.

When one engine only to be on each section of the tramway.

39. If permanent signals are provided only at the crossing and terminal stations, one engine only in steam shall be allowed on each section of the tramway, and every such engine so working shall carry a board (bolted and not hung) on each side, stating in large characters that such engine is only to run between the stations to be named thereon.

Brakes and Brake-vans.

40. All wagons used on the tramway shall be provided with lever brakes, working wood-blocks on the wheels, and all engines and brake-vans shall be provided with screw brakes acting on all the wheels. There shall be at least one brake-van, with a person in charge of it, attached to each train.

Prohibiting undue preference.

41. The Promoters shall not, as between members of the public, make or give any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to, or in favour of, any particular person or company, or any particular description of traffic, or subject any particular person or company to any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage. The Local Government shall have absolute power, for the purposes of this clause, to decide whether any preference, advantage, prejudice or disadvantage is undue or unreasonable.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Crossing of tramway by any railway or other tramway.

42. In the event of its being necessary under the authority of the Local Government, for any railway or tramway line other than that referred to in this order to cross the tramway on the level or otherwise, the Promoters shall not be competent to raise any objection, provided that such reasonable expenses as may be shown to the satisfaction of the Local Government to have been incurred by the Promoters, on account of any interference with the tramway that may be necessary for such crossing, shall be borne by the administration of the railway or tramway authorised to cross.

Provided that the Local Government shall have absolute power, for the purposes of this clause, to decide the question as to the reasonableness of the expenses incurred by the Promoters on account of the interference with the tramway.

When the tramway interferes with the location or extension of any railway.

43. In case it hereafter be found that any portion of the alignment adopted by the Promoters for the tramway interferes with the location of any new line of railway, or the extension of any existing line of railway, the alignment occupied by the tramway shall be forthwith, at the request of the Local Government, abandoned in favour of the railway, and the tramway shall be diverted in such way and in such manner as shall appear to an Engineer or other officer duly appointed in this behalf by the Local Government to be fair and proper, provided that the actual cost of constructing such diversion shall be borne by the authorities of the said railway.

Penalty for breach of Section 15 of the Act.

44. If the Promoters fail in any respect to comply with any of the provisions of clause 6 of section 15 of the Act, and the Local Authorities shall find it necessary or desirable to do anything or incur any expense to remedy any such failure on the part of the Promoters, all expenses so incurred shall be, on demand, repaid to the Local Authorities by the Promoters, and the certificate of the Chairman for the time being of the Local Authority shall be conclusive evidence that all expenses referred to in such certificate were so incurred, and the said Promoter shall not be at liberty to dispute the same.

On Promoters' default works may be executed by Local Government.

45. In the event of any work required by the Act or by this Order to be done by the Promoters not being done by them, the Local Government may cause a notice to be served on the Promoters requiring them, within a period to be prescribed in the said notice, to execute the said work; and if within the period so prescribed such requisition is not complied with, the Local Government may cause such work to be done and the cost thereof shall be recoverable from the Promoters. The certificate of the Government Engineer or other officer in charge of such work shall be conclusive evidence that all expenses referred to in such certificate have been incurred in carrying out such work, and the Promoters shall not be at liberty to dispute the same.

Improvements may be directed by the Local Government.

46. The Promoters shall adopt and apply all such improvements in the tramway and in the rolling-stock and appliances thereon as the Local Government may from time to time consider necessary or desirable for the safety or convenience of the public.

Supplementary agreement with Municipal Commissioners of Howrah.

47. The Promoters shall forthwith enter into a supplementary agreement with the Municipal Commissioners of Howrah which shall contain the same provisions as to the purchase of the tramway as are now contained in clause 4 of the agreement between the Promoters and the District Board of Howrah and in clause 5 of the agreement between the Promoters and the District Board of Hooghly as set forth respectively in Parts I and II of the First Schedule attached to this Order.

Transfer of Tramway.

48. The Promoters shall not have power to transfer the undertaking, without the previous sanction of the Local Government, otherwise than as provided in clause 4 of Part I of the First Schedule hereto attached, and in clause 5 of Part II of the said Schedule, and as shall be provided in the supplementary agreement to be entered into between the Promoters and the Municipal Commissioners of Howrah in accordance with clause 47 of this Order.

Statistics.

49. The Promoters shall provide, without unreasonable delay, such statistics relating to the tramway or to the traffic thereon as may from time to time be required by the Local Government.

Concession in this Order gives Promoters no exclusive right as carriers on the road traversed by the tramway.

50. It is to be distinctly understood that no concession granted under this Order confers on the Promoters any exclusive right as carriers over any part of the tract traversed by the tramway.

Penalty for failure of Promoters to comply with Order.

51. (1) If the Promoters fail to observe any conditions or direction contained in or made under this Order, they shall for each such failure to observe the same be liable to a penalty which may extend to two hundred rupees, and, in the case of a continuing failure, to a further penalty which may extend to fifty rupees for each day after the first during which such failure continues.

(2) When the Promoters have through any act or omission become liable for any penalty under this clause, the penalty shall become recoverable by suit in the district court having jurisdiction in the place where the act or omission or any part thereof occurred.

(3) The Local Government may remit the whole or any part of any penalty to which the Promoters become liable under this clause.

(4) Every penalty recovered under this clause shall be applied as the Local Government from time to time may direct.

52. The terms of this Order are without prejudice to the power of the Governor-General in Council under section 146 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890, to extend the provisions of that Act to the tramway, of which the construction is authorised by this Order.

ARBITRATION.

53. If any dispute, question or controversy shall at any time arise either between the Local Government and the Promoters or the Local Authorities and the Promoters, touching this Order, or any clause or thing herein contained, or the construction hereof or any matter connected with this order or the operation of the same, or the rights, duties or liabilities of any of the parties in relation to the premises, then and in every such case the matter in difference, unless special provision shall have been made in this Order for the settlement of the matter so in difference, shall be referred to two arbitrators or their umpire, pursuant to and so as with regard to the mode and consequence of the reference, and in all other respects to conform to the provisions in that behalf contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1882, or any subsisting statutory modification thereof, and upon every such reference the arbitrators and umpire shall respectively have power to examine witnesses upon oath or affirmation, and either to fix, settle and determine the amount of costs of the reference and award respectively or incidental thereto to be paid by both parties making the reference, or by either party, or to direct the same to be taxed either as between Solicitor and Client or otherwise, and to direct and award where and by and to whom such costs shall be paid, and every or any such reference may be made a rule of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice or of the High Court of Judicature of Calcutta on the application of the Local Government, the Local Authorities, or the Promoters, and either the Local Government, the Local Authorities, or the Promoters may instruct Counsel to consent thereto for the other party.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE ABOVE REFERRED TO.

PART I.

Provisional agreement between the Promoters and the District Board of Howrah.

AN AGREEMENT made this 12th day of June 1889 BETWEEN THE DISTRICT BOARD OF HOWRAH incorporated under the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 and hereinafter called "the Board" of the one part and THEODORE JACKSON WALSH WILLIAM LOVETT and SAMUEL DAVID TALLERMAN members of the firm of Messrs. Walsh Lovett & Co. of Calcutta Engineers at present residing in England (hereinafter called the Promoters) for and on behalf of Company about to be formed and to be called the "Bengal District Road Tramways Company Limited" hereinafter called "the Company" of the other part: WHEREAS the Promoters are desirous to promote the construction of a tramway from Howrah to Sheakhalla and have applied to the Board for a concession to the Company of the right to construct and work such tramway through that portion of the road between Howrah and Sheakhalla which passes through the area under the jurisdiction of the said Board and the said Board have granted such concession (provisionally on the same being sanctioned by the Government of Bengal) upon the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth. NOW THESE PRESENTS WITNESS that it is hereby mutually agreed as follows:—

1. The Board will grant the Company the free use of as much of the said road as is necessary (but not exceeding six feet wide and on one side of the road only) for the purpose of laying thereon a Steam Tramway of 2 feet gauge to be worked by the Company.

2. The Board will promote the acquisition by the Company under the provisions of Act X of 1870 of such additional lands as may be necessary for the purposes of the Tramway.

3. The Board will for a period of twenty-one years with power of renewal exempt the Company from the tax on account of road-cess if the law and the Government so allow or will exact only a nominal tax.

4. No similar concession shall be granted to any other person or Company that shall in any way affect the Company's interests. But this monopoly shall be enjoyed only with reference to a line from Howrah to Sheakhalla along the old Benares road and shall have no reference to other parts of the district.

In the event of the Board exercising in conjunction with the District Board of Hooghly and the Municipality of Howrah the right of purchase conferred upon them by section 41 of Act III of 1883 (B.C.) the value to be placed upon the Tramway shall be calculated by adding to the value of the whole tramway from Howrah to Sheakhalla with all its equipment as a dividend-earning investment a bonus of 20 per cent. over and above such value. The said value in case of dispute to be determined by arbitration under the clause in that behalf hereinafter contained.

5. The Company to be formed shall be one of limited liability registered under Act VI of 1882 and all matters connected with the tramway shall be dealt with by Directors of whom one in six shall be nominated by the Board.

6. The greater part of any remuneration which the Company may agree to pay any Agents whom it may appoint over and above a fair allowance for office expenses shall not be in the form of a fixed payment but in that of a commission on net profits.

7. The Company shall widen and raise the level of the road whenever necessary it being understood that a clear road-way of fourteen feet exclusive of the six feet required for the Tramway shall be left intact for ordinary wheel traffic.

8. The necessary levels sections plans and designs as required by Government shall be prepared by and at the expense of the Company.

9. The Company shall construct new bridges and widen and fortify existing bridges and culverts whenever necessary.

10. The Company shall wherever possible avoid running their line through bazars and villages.

11. The Company shall construct maintain and repair all works connected with the Tramway with materials of the first class quality to be approved by Government.

12. If any doubt or difference shall arise between the Board and the Company concerning anything herein contained or any matter in any way connected therewith or with these presents or the construction thereof or the rights, duties and liabilities of any person or persons in connection with these presents or as to the incidence of expense as between the Board and the Company under any of the clauses of this Agreement then and in every such case the matter in doubt or difference shall be referred to two arbitrators one to be appointed by each party or by the umpire of such arbitrators in case they differ in opinion. But if either party shall refuse or neglect to appoint for one month after notice in writing from the other of an arbitrator being or having been appointed then the arbitrator so appointed may make a final decision alone which shall have the same force and effect as the award of two arbitrators or their umpire duly appointed.

13. Upon the adoption of this Agreement by the Company in such manner as to render the same binding on the Company the Promoters shall be discharged from all liability in respect thereof.

14. Unless within twelve months after the sanction of this Agreement by the Government of Bengal the Company's Capital shall have been fully subscribed either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind this Agreement and after adopting this Agreement the Company shall stand in the place of the Promoters for the purposes of this clause.

15. If this Agreement shall not be adopted by the Company in manner aforesaid within three months after the sanction thereof by the Government of Bengal either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind the same.

16. The rescission of this Agreement under clause 14 or 15 shall not give rise to any claim for compensation expenses or otherwise.

CALCUTTA, 12*th December* 1889.

PART II.

AN AGREEMENT made this 16th day of July 1889 BETWEEN THE DISTRICT BOARD of Hooghly incorporated under the Bengal Local Self-Government Act of 1885 and hereinafter called "the Board" of the one part and THEODORE JACKSON WALSH WILLIAM LOVETT and SAMUEL DAVID TALLERMAN all at present residing in Europe and members of the firm of Messrs. Walsh Lovett & Co. of Calcutta Engineers (hereinafter called the Promoters) for and on behalf of a Company about to be formed and to be called the "Bengal District Road Tramway Company Limited" hereinafter called "the Company" of the other part: whereas the Promoters are desirous to promote the construction of a Tramway from Howrah to Sheakhalla and have applied to the said Board for a concession to the Company of the right to construct and work such Tramway upon that portion of the road between Howrah and Sheakhalla which passes through the area under jurisdiction of the said Board and the said Board have granted such concession (provisionally on the same being sanctioned by the Government of Bengal) upon the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth. Now THESE PRESENTS WITNESS that it is hereby mutually agreed as follows:—

1. The Board will grant the Company the free use of as much of the said portion of the said road as is necessary (but not exceeding six feet wide and on one side of the road only such side to be decided by the Board) for the purpose of laying thereon a steam tramway of two feet gauge to be worked by the Company.

2. The Board will assist the acquisition by the Company under the provisions of Act X of 1870 of such additional lands as may be necessary for the purposes of the tramway but the Board shall not be in any way responsible for such acquisition or for any proceedings or expenses connected therewith.

3. So soon as five miles of the tramway shall have been constructed and fully equipped with cars engines and all establishment necessary to its efficient working and shall be declared open to the public the Board shall whether such portion of the tramway so constructed and declared opened as aforesaid shall be within the area under the jurisdiction of the said Board or not pay to the Company as and by way of interest on the capital of the Company actually paid up and expended by the Company upon such five miles of tramway any sum or sums of money which may be required to make the net profit of the Company on such capital equivalent to a dividend at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum lent so that Rs. 800 per annum per mile of tramway constructed and declared open shall be the maximum sum for which the Board shall be responsible under this clause.

4. If and whenever the net profits of the Company in respect of the said tramway from Howrah to Sheakhalla shall be in excess of 4 per cent. upon the capital of the Company actually paid up and expended for the time being such surplus profits shall be divided between the Company and the Board in the proportion of two-thirds to the Company and one-third to the Board.

5. In the event of the Board exercising in conjunction with the District Board of Howrah and the Municipality of Howrah the right of purchase conferred upon them by section 41 of Act III of 1883 (B.C.) the price to be placed upon the Tramway purchased shall be calculated by adding to the value of the whole Tramway from Howrah to Sheakhalla with all its equipment as then constituted a bonus of 15 per cent. over and above such value. The said value in case of dispute to be determined by arbitration under the clause in that behalf hereinafter contained.

6. The Company to be formed shall be one of limited liability registered under Act VI of 1882 with a capital of at least Rs. 4 lakhs and all matters connected with the Tramway shall be dealt with by Directors of whom two in six shall be nominated by the Board.

7. The greater part of any remuneration which the Company may agree to pay any Agents whom it may appoint over and above a fair allowance for office expenses shall not be in the form of a fixed payment but in that of a commission on net profits.

8. The Company shall at its own expense widen and raise the level of the road whenever necessary and keep the part of road which may be in their use for or in connection with the Tramway in good repair and condition at all times to a width of two feet on each side of the tram line or at least six feet altogether it being understood that a clear road-way of fourteen feet exclusive of the six feet required for the Tramway shall be left intact for ordinary wheel traffic.

9. The necessary level sections plans and designs as required by Government shall be prepared by and at the expense of the Company and shall be submitted for approval to the Government of Bengal.

10. The Company shall at their own expense construct and maintain at all times in good repair and condition new bridges and culverts and widen and fortify and at all times keep in good repair and conditions existing bridges and culverts over which the tramway is constructed whenever necessary in such manner as may be required by the Board or its Engineer.

11. The Company shall not run their lines through bazars and villages without the consent in writing of the Chairman of the Board.

12. The Company shall construct maintain and repair all works connected with the Tramway with the sanction and approval and under the control of the said Board and with materials of first-class quality to be approved by the Board or any officer of Government deputed for the purpose.

13. In all questions which may arise regarding the roadway and the construction maintenance and repair of any works connected with the tramway the final decision shall rest entirely with the Engineer deputed by the Government in that behalf.

14. All questions regarding fares rates bye-laws and regulations for the working of the Tramway shall be decided by the Board and the Promoters in consultation and in case of difference between them then by the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Public Works Department whose decision shall be final.

15. If any doubt or difference shall arise between the Board and the Promoters or the Company concerning anything herein contained or any matter in any way connected therewith or with these presents or the construction thereof or the rights duties and liabilities of any person or persons in connection with these presents or as to the incidence of expense as between the Board and the Company under any of the clauses of this Agreement (save and except any doubt or difference on the subjects of clauses 13 and 14 which shall be settled as in such clauses provided) then and in every such case the matter in doubt or difference shall be referred to two arbitrators one to be appointed by each party or by the umpire of such arbitrators in case they differ in opinion but if either party shall refuse or neglect to appoint an arbitrator for one month after notice in writing from the other of an arbitrator being or having been appointed by him then the arbitrator so appointed may make a final decision alone which shall have the same force and effect as the award of two arbitrators or their umpire duly appointed.

16. Upon the adoption of this Agreement or any amplification hereof by the Company in such manner as to render the same binding on the Company the Promoters shall be discharged from all liability in respect thereof

17. Unless within twelve months after the sanction of this Agreement by the Government of Bengal the Company's Capital shall have been fully subscribed either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind this Agreement and after adopting this Agreement the Company shall stand in the place of the Promoters for the purposes of this clause.

18. If this Agreement shall not be adopted by the Company in manner aforesaid within three months after the sanction thereof by the Government of Bengal either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind the same.

19. The rescission of this Agreement under clauses 17 and 18 shall not give rise to any claim for compensation expenses or otherwise

As witness the hands of the parties the day and year aforesaid.

Provisional Agreement between the Promoters and the Municipal Commissioners of Howrah.

PART III.

AN AGREEMENT made the 27th day of September 1889 BETWEEN the MUNICIPAL COMMISSIONERS of Howrah hereafter called "the Commissioners" of the one part and THEODORE JACKSON WALSH WILLIAM LOVETT and SAMUEL DAVID TALIERMAN members of the firm of Messrs. Walsh Lovett & Co. of Calcutta Engineers at present residing in England (hereinafter called the Promoters) for and on behalf of a Company about to be formed and to be called the "Bengal District Road Tramway Company Limited" hereinafter called "the Company" of the other part. WHEREAS the promoters are desirous to promote the construction of a Tramway to be worked by steam power from Howrah to Ampta viâ Jagatbalabpore and to Sheakhalla and have applied to the Commissioners for a concession to the Company of the right to construct and work such Tramway through and over that portion of the roads between Howrah and Ampta which passes through the area under the jurisdiction of the Commissioners and which are shown on the plan hereunto annexed and marked A and the Commissioners have granted such concession (provisionally on the same being sanctioned by the Government of Bengal) upon the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth. NOW THESE PRESENTS WITNESS that it is hereby mutually agreed as follows:—

1. The Commissioners will grant the Company the free use of as much of the said portion of the said roads as is necessary (but not exceeding six feet wide and on one side of the road only) for the purpose of laying thereon a Steam Tramway of two feet gauge to be worked by the Company.

2. That the said Steam Tramway shall be a single one with the necessary passing stations and turn-outs and shall be laid flush with the road.

3. That the Company shall widen and raise the level of the roads wherever necessary it being understood that a clear roadway of fourteen feet exclusive of the six feet required for the Tramway shall be left intact for ordinary wheel traffic on such of the roads whereon the said Steam Tramway may be laid.

4. That the said Tramway shall be carried outside the line of trees on the north side of the Telkul Ghât Road to the Grand Trunk Road thence outside the line of trees on the east side of the Grand Trunk Road thence along the north side of the Punchanantolla Road to the junction with the Municipal Conservancy Line over which line the Commissioners shall permit the said Tramway to run wholly or in part on the terms hereinafter mentioned and shall permit connection to be thereby made with the said Tramway to be laid on the Makurda Road and the Old Benares Road.

5. That the Company shall be allowed to use the said roads above mentioned for the said Tramway in the manner aforesaid for a period of fifty years from the date of this Agreement the Commissioners reserving power at the expiration of a period of 20 years from the date of this agreement of levying a fair and equitable rate of rent per mile of line.

6. That the Commissioners shall make over to the Company the whole of their said Conservancy Line and rolling-stock thereon (except Conservancy Wagons) and in consideration thereof and of the use of the roads above mentioned in manner aforesaid the Company shall undertake at their expense for the maintenance of the said Conservancy Line and keep the same and the locomotive in proper repair and working order.

7. That the Company shall undertake at their expense to provide steam haulage for the night-soil wagons of the Commissioners.

8. That in addition to the said Conservancy Line the Company shall in like manner as provided for in clause 6 undertake at their expense the maintenance and working of any extension of the said Conservancy Line which may be constructed in the future provided that the Company shall not be required to maintain and work as aforesaid a greater length than 4 miles of the said Conservancy Line including any extension thereof.

9. That the Commissioners shall have the power of regulating the rate of speed at which the said Tramway may be worked by the Company within the municipal limits of Howrah and that within such limits if so required by the Commissioners the Company shall provide out-riders to go in front of each train.

10. That the Commissioners will assist the acquisition by the Company under the provisions of Act X of 1870 of such additional lands as may be necessary for the purposes of the said Steam Tramway but the Commissioners shall not be in any way responsible for such acquisition or for any proceedings or expenses connected therewith.

11. That the Company shall acquire such land as may be required to improve the alignment of the Punchanontolla Road in accordance with the plan hereto annexed and marked B which said plan has been prepared by the Commissioners.

12. The necessary levels sections plans and designs as required by the Bengal Government shall be prepared by and at the expense of the Company.

13. The Company shall construct new bridges and culverts widen and fortify existing bridges and culverts whenever necessary.

14. The Company shall construct and maintain and repair all works connected with the Tramway with materials of the first-class quality.

15. If any doubt or difference shall arise between the Commissioners and the Company concerning anything herein contained or any matter in any way connected therewith or with these presents or the construction thereof on the rights duties and liabilities of any person or persons in connection with these presents or as to the incidence of expense as between the Commissioners and the Company under any of the clauses of this agreement then and in every such case the matter in doubt or difference shall be referred to two arbitrators one to be appointed by each party or by the umpire of such arbitrators in case they differ in opinion. But if either party shall refuse or neglect to appoint for one month after notice in writing from the other of an arbitrator being or having been appointed then the arbitrator so appointed may make a final decision alone which shall have the same force and effect as the award of two arbitrators or their umpire duly appointed.

16. Upon the adoption of this Agreement by the Company in such manner as to render the same binding on the Company, the Promoters shall be discharged from all liability in respect thereof.

17. Unless within twelve months after the sanction of this Agreement by the Government of Bengal the Company's Capital shall have been fully subscribed either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind this Agreement and after adopting this Agreement the Company shall stand in the place of the Promoters for the purpose of this clause.

18. If this Agreement shall not be adopted by the Company in manner aforesaid within three months after the sanction thereof by the Government of Bengal either of the parties hereto may by notice in writing to the other rescind the same.

19. The rescission of this Agreement under clauses 17 and 18 shall not give rise to any claim for compensation express or otherwise.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE ABOVE REFERRED TO.

NOTE.—The maximum, minimum and fixed dimensions and loads given in this schedule may not be infringed under any circumstances without the special sanction of the Government of India. Where it is proposed to execute any work or to procure Bridge Girders, Station Machinery, Rolling-Stock or other Railway material which will infringe these dimensions or loads, the sanction of the Government of India is to be obtained before such work is commenced or order given.

I.—FORMATION.

Single Line—

Minimum width of formation—

(1) In embankment		12 feet.
(2) In cutting (excluding side drains)	in earth	12 ,,
	in rock	11 ,,

Double Line—

Minimum width of formation—

(3) In embankment	23 feet.
(4) In cutting (excluding side drains)	23 ,,
(5) Standard distance centre to centre of tracks (out of stations)	12 ,,

Curves—

Maximum angle of curvature—

(6) In ordinary country	12° 0′ (Rad. = 477½ feet.)

N.B.—The Angle of Curvature is taken as the angle at the centre subtended by an arc of one hundred feet in length. Thus the radius for a one degree curve is 5,729·578 feet.

The maximum angle of curvature should only be worked to in special cases where the adoption of an easier curve would be impracticable or involve considerable extra expense. Under very exceptional circumstances, where it may appear necessary that this rule should be relaxed, the matter should be referred to the Government of India for orders.

The maximum angles of curvature given above do not apply to curves in station yards.

II.—BALLAST AND PERMANENT-WAY.

Ballast—

(1) Minimum width of ballast at rail level	6 feet.
(2) ,, depth of ballast below sleepers	6 inches.

N.B.—These minimum dimensions may be relaxed in the case of a line being opened to traffic before the banks have settled.

Sleepers—

Minimum dimensions for timber cross sleepers—

(3) Length	5 feet.
(4) Breadth	6 inches.
(5) Depth	4 ,,
(6) Minimum number of cross sleepers per mile	1,936

N.B.—On bridges where the cross sleepers rest directly on longitudinal girders, the sleepers are to be spaced not more than 1 foot 6 inches apart, centre to centre.

Rails—

(7) Maximum clearance of guard rail for points and crossings.... 1⅝ inch.
(8) Minimum ditto ditto ... ... 1½ „
(9) Ditto ditto for curves and level crossings ... ... 1⅞ „

N.B.—The maximum clearance for curves and level crossings will vary according to the radius of curve.

(10) Minimum depth of space for wheel flange, from rail level ... 1¼ inch.

Platforms—

(1) No platform walls; earth covered with cinders or gravel to be made up to rail level ... ...

Buildings—

(2) Minimum horizontal distance of any building from centre of track at passenger platform ... ... 20 feet.
(3) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to any structure in the vicinity of a passenger platform (but not on a platform), within a height of 10 feet from rail level... 8 „

N.B.—This rule does not apply to point levers between tracks, to water cranes, or to loading gauges.

(4) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of tracks to any structure not in the vicinity of a passenger platform, from platform level, if any, or from 1 foot above rail level if there be no platform, to a height of 9 feet 6 inches above rail level ... ... 7 „

N.B.—Under the last entry, coal or any material stacked by the side of any track is to be considered a structure in the sense in which the word is here used.

A projecting overhanging roof is permissible in the case of a goods shed on a siding, if such roof extends over the centre of the track at a height of not less than 12 feet above rail level.

Pillars, Lamps, &c.—

(5) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to pillars, columns, lamps or similar isolated structures on platforms 9 feet.

Roofs, Overbridges, &c.—

(6) Minimum height above rail level for 5 feet from centre of track of tie-rods or underside of any continuous roof or covering in passenger stations ... ... 16 feet 6 inches.
(7) Minimum height above rail level for 5 feet from centre of track for passenger foot-bridges crossing the line in stations ... ... 16 „ 6 „
(8) Minimum height above rail level for telegraph wires crossing the line, or above surface of road where carried over roads within the boundary of a station ... ... 20 „

IV.—FIXED STRUCTURES—OUT OF STATIONS.

Buildings, &c.—

(1) Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to any structure, out of stations, from 1 foot above rail level to a height of 9 feet 6 inches above rail level. (See diagram No. 2) ... ... 6 feet.

N.B.—Under this entry any material stacked by the side of the line is to be considered a structure in the sense in which the word is here used.

Where the line is on a curve, the horizontal distance of a fixed structure from the centre of adjacent track is to be increased as follows :—

For a curve of 12 degrees (477½ feet rad.) allow 8 in. extra,
„ „ 8 „ (716 feet rad.) „ 5½ „ „
„ „ 4 „ (1,432 feet rad.) „ 2½ „ „
„ „ 2 „ (2,865 feet rad.) „ 1½ „ „
and for other curves in proportion.

Over-bridges, &c.—

(2) Minimum height above rail level for 5 feet from centre of track for over-bridges out of stations ... ... 12 feet.
(3) Minimum height above rail level for telegraph wires crossing the line, or above surface of road where carried over roads at level crossings ... ... 20 „

N.B.—The minimum horizontal distance from the centre line of nearest track at which a telegraph post may be erected, is the total height of the post plus seven feet. Also, where the line is in cutting, a telegraph post erected on the berm must be at a distance from the edge of the cutting of not less than the total height of the post.

V.—STATION YARDS.

Tunnels—

Spacing of Tracks—

(1)	Minimum distance of tracks centre to centre—
	Track nearest platform to next track	14 feet.
	All other tracks in station yards	12 „

Points and Crossings—

(2)	Minimum radius of curve	175 „
(3)	Standard crossings	1 in 6. 1 in 8½.
(4)	Standard length for tongue rails	7 feet.
(5)	Minimum horizontal distance from centre of track to point handle indicator or any part of point apparatus above rail level	7 „

N.B.—A point handle may not, in any position, be within seven feet of the centre line of nearest track; a clear distance of seven feet is also to be preserved from centre of nearest track to any part of the point apparatus, fixed or moveable, above rail level. An arrangement involving the placing of a point handle between tracks should be avoided as far as practicable; but where this arrangement is adopted, the point handle must work parallel with the rails, not at right angles thereto.

Accommodation—

(6)	Minimum clear available length of through siding at any road-side station which may be used as a crossing station ...	600 feet.

N.B.—The 'available length' of siding (whether the line be curved or straight) terminates where the distance between the centre line of the siding and the centre line of an adjacent track begins to be less than 10 feet.

The length of sidings may (with the sanction of the Government of India) be reduced to such an extent as may appear advisable. But for each such special case the sanction of Government is to be obtained to the proposals before work is commenced.

VI.—STATION MACHINERY.

Water Tanks—

Minimum height for bottom of tank above rail level at water column:—

(1)	For watering engines	14 feet.
(2)	For washing out engines	20 „
(3)	Minimum distance from centre of track to face of tank house	9 „
(4)	Ditto capacity of tank at any station	500 c. ft.

Water Cranes—

(5)	Minimum distance in the clear from centre of track to nearest part of water column from 1 foot above rail level ...	6 feet.
(6)	Standard height above rail level for discharge orifice of water crane jib	10 ft. 6 in.
(7)	Standard internal diameter for piping from tank to water crane	4 inches.

Ash-Pits, &c.—

(8)	Minimum clear length at bottom for ash-pits in station yards	15 feet.
(9)	Standard average depth for ash-pits in station yards ...	3 „
(10)	Ditto depth for examining pits for carriages and wagons	3 „

Engine Running Sheds—

Minimum width for Running Sheds inside in the clear:—

(11)	For two lines of rail	30 feet.
(12)	For one line of rail	18 „
(13)	Minimum distance, centre to centre, of tracks in Running Sheds	12 „

Running shed doorways:—

(14)	Minimum width	9 „
(15)	Ditto height, if flat at top	11 „
(16)	Ditto height to crown of arch, if with semi-circular arch	13 „
(17)	Standard average depth for wash-out pits in Running Sheds	3 „
(18)	Ditto ditto repairing ditto ditto ...	3 „

Turntables—

(19)	Minimum diameter for Engine turntables	15 feet.
(20)	Ditto ditto Carriage or Wagon turntables ...	12 „

Traversers—

(21)	Minimum length for Carriage or Wagon traversers ...	12 feet.

Weigh-bridges—

(22)	Minimum length for weigh-bridges for ordinary stock ...	12 feet.
(23)	Ditto weighing power for weigh-bridges for ordinary stock	10 tons.

VII.—LOCOMOTIVE ENGINES.

Maximum moving dimensions—

(1) The maximum moving dimensions laid down for carriages and wagons apply also to Locomotive Engines.

Weight on a pair of wheels—

(2)	Maximum under any circumstances	6 tons.
(3)	Maximum per foot of diameter	2·25 „

Weight per foot run of wheel base—

(4)	Maximum for either engine or tender separately, in the case of tender engines	1·5 tons.
(5)	Maximum for tank engines	2 „

Weight per foot run over buffers—

(6)	Maximum for engine and tender together, in the case of tender engines	0·875 tons.
(7)	Maximum for tank engines	1 ton.

Total gross weight—

(8)	Maximum for engine and tender together, in the case of tender engines	30 tons.
(9)	Maximum for tank engines	18 „

N.B.—The weights given above are the maximum permissible under any circumstances with engine in working order and full load of fuel and water.

In exceptional cases, engines of weights in excess of the specification given above may be used under the special sanction of the Government of India. Such special sanction must be obtained before the engines are ordered, and the application for sanction must be accompanied by a diagram of the proposed engine giving full particulars, and by a certificate by the Government Inspector that the bridges on the section over which the engines are intended to work are of sufficient strength.

VIII.—CARRIAGES AND WAGONS.

Maximum moving dimensions—

Maximum width :—

(1)	From rail level to a height of 2 feet 2 inches above rail level	7 ft. 6 in.
(2)	From a height of 2 feet 2 inches above rail level to a height of 10 feet above rail level	8 feet.

N.B.—These heights are to be taken with the vehicle unloaded and buffer centres at the maximum height of 1 foot 11 inches from rail level. For further details see diagram No. 1.

Maximum height from rail level :—

(3)	For unloaded vehicle at centre	10 feet.
(4)	For unloaded vehicle at sides	9 ft. 3 in.

Loading gauge for goods in open trucks :—

(5)	Maximum width	8 „ 2 „
(6)	Maximum height from rail level at centre	8 „ 3 „
(7)	Maximum height from rail level at sides	7 „ 3 „

Maximum gross weight—

(8)	On any pair of wheels	4 tons.
(9)	Per foot run over buffers	0·5 ton.

N.B.—The weights given above are the maximum permissible under any circumstances, with the vehicle fully loaded. The weight on a pair of wheels includes the weight of the wheels, axles, axle-boxes and springs.

Wheel base—

(10)	Maximum rigid wheel base for vehicles	9 feet.

Buffers and Couplings—

(11)	Central buffers	.....
(12)	Maximum height above rail level for centres of buffers for unloaded vehicles	1 ft. 11 in.
(13)	Minimum height above rail level for centres of buffers for fully loaded vehicles	1 „ 9 „

Height for Floors—

(14)	Maximum height above rail level for floor of any vehicle unloaded	3 ft. 5 in.
(15)	Minimum height above rail level for floor of any vehicle fully loaded	2 „ 3 „

Wheels and Axles—

(16)	Standard wheel gauge, or distance apart for all wheel flanges	2 ft. 3½ in.
(17)	Standard diameter on the tread for new wheels ...	1 „ 8 „
(18)	Maximum projection for flange of worn tyre below rail level	1 inch.

Roof Lamps—

(19)	Standard diameter inside in the clear for rings of carriage roof lamps	8½ inches.
(20)	Standard diameter for carraige roof lamps at level of ring ...	8 „

DRAFT NOTIFICATION.

Calcutta, the 26th March 1895.

No. 36*Marine.*—Notification.—Whereas it appears that the estimated income of the Commissioners for the Port of Calcutta under Act III of 1890, from 1st April 1895 to 31st March 1896, after deducting therefrom the estimated expenditure for the above period, will be insufficient for the payment of the sums which, under the provisions of the said Act, are payable during the year to the Secretary of State for India in Council and to holders of debentures under the said Act, it is hereby notified that from the 1st of April 1895, the Port Commissioners will charge upon all goods landed from or shipped into any sea-going vessel lying or being within the limits of the port, whether such goods shall or shall not be so landed or shipped at any dock, wharf, quay, stage or jetty belonging to the Commissioners, in addition to, or other than those prescribed by any scale of tolls, dues, rates and charges now in force, a toll which shall approximate four annas per ton, except for export coal, the charge on which shall be two annas per ton, and on bunker coal which shall be free. Goods transhipped within the port are exempt; also ballast, with the exception of dressed stone. For the purpose of levying such toll on miscellaneous general cargo landed or shipped at the Kidderpore Docks or at the jetties, the Commissioners will follow the schedules of charges prescribed for the docks and the jetties, and charge one-fifth of the rates therein specified, but where the landing or shipping charge is in these schedules levied on the ton by weight, then the special charge under this notification shall be four annas per ton. For the purpose of levying such toll on goods landed or shipped over the inland vessels' wharges or otherwise than through the docks or jetties, the ton shall be reckoned at the actual weight where such is ascertainable. Where the weight is not declared, then the ton shall be reckoned at the respective weights and measurements given in the schedule in force for the inland vessels' wharves.

PENSIONS AND GRATUITIES.

RESOLUTION.

The 18th March 1895.

READ—

Despatch to the Secretary of State for India, No. 169, dated 6th June 1893.
Despatch from the Secretary of State for India, No. 188 (Financial), dated 21st September 1893.

RESOLUTION.—The Governor-General in Council is pleased to announce that Her Majesty's Secretary of State has sanctioned the extension of the scale of pensions laid down in Article 712 of the Civil Service Regulations to officers of the Forest Department who have been, or may hereafter be, appointed from England to that Department.

2. The provisions of that Article are accordingly extended to the officers in question; but inasmuch as the existing rules (Articles 518 to 520 of the Civil Service Regulations) now applicable to officers of the Forest Department are in certain contingencies more advantageous than the scale laid down in Article 712 of the Regulations, His Excellency in Council is pleased to allow every officer of the Forest Department appointed from England, now in the service, the option of choosing between the two scales of pension, and to direct that the new scale shall not be extended to any officer who prefers to remain under the existing rules of his service.

3. All officers appointed from England to the Forest Department in India, who are now in the service, are accordingly required to state, within a period of six months from the date of this Resolution, whether they prefer to remain under the existing rules which govern their pension, or elect the scale in Article 712 of the Civil Service Regulations. In the event of an officer electing to remain under the existing rules, the privilege of retiring under those rules will be reserved for him so far as he is concerned, and the new scale will not apply to him. In all other cases the old scale of pensions will cease to apply.

4. The decision arrived at by each officer in India as to the scale of pensions he prefers to abide by should be communicated by the Local Government or Administration concerned to the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

5. The question of granting to the members of the Forest Department special additional pensions of the kind mentioned in Article 714 of the Civil Service Regulations is now under the consideration of the Government of India, and any such pension which may be admitted hereafter will apply equally to officers under the new scale of pensions and to those who may elect to remain under the existing scale. Article 503 of the Civil Service Regulations will also for the present apply, whichever scale of pension may be elected; and should any change hereafter be made in respect of the superannuation of Forest officers, no difference will be made between officers on the different scales of pension.

ORDER.—Ordered, that copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Revenue and Agricultural Department for information; and that it be published in the Gazette of India.

JUDICIAL.

No. 309.—The following draft of rules, which it is proposed to issue under sections 26 and 27 of the Cantonments Act, 1889, in supersession of the rules published in G. G. O. No. 617, dated the 4th July, 1890, is, as required by section 27 of that Act, hereby published for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

The draft will be taken into consideration on the expiry of one month from the date of this notification.

Draft Rules.

Under sections 26 and 27 of the Cantonments Act, 1889, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules and to direct that they shall be general for every cantonment in British India :—

1. As many hospitals as may be necessary, within or without the limits of the cantonment, as the cantonment authority with the concurrence of the District Magistrate may determine, shall be maintained at the expense wholly or in part of the cantonment fund.
2. A medical officer, to be appointed in such manner as the Local Government may direct, shall be in charge of every such hospital.
3. A person admitted to such a hospital shall be treated gratuitously; and if such person is without means of support, and is either a resident of the cantonment or was admitted to the hospital on the request of the cantonment authority or of any officer of that authority, shall receive from the cantonment fund such subsistence allowance not being less than the lowest allowance for the time being fixed by the local Government under section 338 of the Code of Civil Procedure as the cantonment authority may determine.
4. Every such hospital shall have attached to it one or more wards for the treatment of persons suffering from infectious or contagious disorders.
5. If the medical officer for the time being in charge of any such hospital is informed upon testimony which he believes to be credible that any person living in the cantonment is suffering from Cholera, Small-pox, Diphtheria, or Typhoid Fever, he may by notice require such person to attend at the hospital at a time to be mentioned in such notice, and if, upon the attendance of such person in pursuance of such notice or otherwise, he shall ascertain that such person is in fact suffering from any of the abovementioned disorders, he may require such person to remain in the hospital until he shall have been pronounced free from such disorder, or may give such other direction in the matter as may seem to him most expedient for the purpose of preventing the spread of such disorder.
6. If any person upon whom any such notice as is mentioned in the last preceding rule shall have been served shall refuse or neglect to attend at the hospital in pursuance of such notice, he shall be deemed to be suffering from such disorder as aforesaid, and to have refused to go to the hospital.
7. If the medical officer for the time being in charge of any such hospital certifies in writing to the Commanding Officer of the cantonment that any person living in the cantonment is or is deemed to be suffering from any of the disorders mentioned in rule 5, and that such person has refused or is deemed to have refused to go to the hospital, or that he, having gone to the hospital, has left it while still under the influence of such disorder, and that the continuance of such person in the cantonment is likely to be attended with danger to the health of the other inhabitants of the cantonment or some of them, the Cantonment Magistrate may, on the application of such medical officer, order such person to remove from the cantonment within twenty-four hours, and prohibit such person from remaining in or re-entering it without the written permission of such medical officer.
8. Save as aforesaid, no person shall be required to attend at or become a patient in any such hospital, nor shall any person under any circumstances be detained in any such hospital against his will, nor shall any person except at his own request, be examined by any such medical officer as aforesaid, or any other person acting under Government authority, with a view to ascertaining whether he is or is not suffering from any infectious or contagious disease.
9. If a person having been prohibited under rule 7 from remaining in or re-entering a cantonment remains in or re-enters the cantonment without such written permission as is mentioned in that rule, such person shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to eight days, for every breach of the said prohibition.

10. No person known to be a prostitute shall, under any circumstances, be permitted to reside within the limits of any regimental bazar.

PART V.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor General on the 21st March, 1895, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XII OF 1895.

An Act to give power to Companies to make certain alterations in the Instruments under which they are constituted, and to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1882.

WHEREAS it is expedient to give to companies power to alter the provisions of the instruments under which they are constituted in certain cases ; and whereas it is also expedient to amend section 65 of the Indian Companies Act, 1882 ; It is hereby enacted as follows :— VI of 1882.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Companies (Memorandum of Association) Act, 1895 ; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Sections 3 to 10 to be read with Act VI of 1882.

2. Sections 3 to 10 (both inclusive) shall be read with and taken as part of the Indian Companies Act, 1882. VI of 1882.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) the expression "deed of settlement" includes any contract of copartnery or other instrument constituting or regulating a company and not being an Act of Parliament, a Royal Charter or Letters Patent ; and

(2) the expression "High Court" means for the Town of Rangoon the Recorder and elsewhere the High Court as defined in the General Clauses Act, 1868. I of 1868.

Power for company to alter objects or form of constitution subject to confirmation by High Court.

4. Subject to the provisions of this Act, a company registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1882, may, by special resolution, alter the provisions of its memorandum of association or deed of settlement with respect to the objects of the company, so far as may be required for any of the purposes hereinafter specified, or alter the form of its constitution by substituting a memorandum and articles of association for a deed of settlement, either with or without any such alteration as aforesaid with respect to the objects of the company ; but in no case shall any such alteration take effect until confirmed on petition by the High Court. VI of 1882.

Particulars as to which Court must be satisfied before confirmation.

5. Before confirming any such alteration the High Court must be satisfied—

(a) that sufficient notice has been given to every holder of debentures or debenture stock of the company, and every person or class of persons whose interests will, in the opinion of the Court, be affected by the alteration ; and

(b) that, with respect to every creditor who in the opinion of the Court is entitled to object, and who signifies his objection in manner directed by the Court, either his consent to the alteration has been obtained or his debt or claim has been discharged or has determined, or has been secured to the satisfaction of the Court:

Provided that the Court may, in the case of any person or class of persons, for special reasons, dispense with the notice required by this section.

Power of Court when confirming to impose terms and make order as to costs.

6. An order confirming any such alteration may be made on such terms and subject to such conditions as to the Court may seem fit, and the Court may make such orders as to costs as it may deem proper.

Discretion conferred on Court.

7. The High Court shall, in exercising its discretion under this Act, have regard to the rights and interests of the members of the company, or of any class of those members, as well as to the rights and interests of the creditors, and may, if it shall think fit, adjourn the proceedings in order that an arrangement may be made to the satisfaction of the Court for the purchase of the interests of dissentient members; and the Court may give such directions and make such orders as it may think expedient for the purpose of facilitating any such arrangement or carrying the same into effect:

Provided always that it shall not be lawful to expend any part of the capital of the company in any such purchase.

Ground on which Court may confirm a proposed alteration.

8. The High Court may confirm, either wholly or in part, any such alteration as aforesaid with respect to the objects of the company if it appears that the alteration is required in order to enable the company—

(a) to change the place of the registered office of the company from one part of British India to another; or

(b) to carry on its business more economically or more efficiently; or

(c) to attain its main purpose by new or improved means; or

(d) to enlarge or change the local area of its operations; or

(e) to carry on some business or businesses which under existing circumstances may conveniently or advantageously be combined with the business of the company; or

(f) to restrict or abandon any of the objects specified in the memorandum of association or deed of settlement.

Registration of order together with memorandum as altered or substituted memorandum and articles, and consequences thereof.

9. (1) Where a company has altered the provisions of its memorandum of association or deed of settlement with respect to the place of its registered office or to the objects of the company, or has altered the form of its constitution by substituting a memorandum and articles of association for a deed of settlement, and such alteration has been confirmed by the Court, a certified copy of the order confirming such alteration, together with a printed copy of the memorandum of association or deed of settlement so altered, or together with a printed copy of the substituted memorandum and articles of association (as the case may be), shall be delivered by the company to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies within three months from the date of the order, and the Registrar shall register the same, and shall certify under his hand the registration thereof, and his certificate shall be conclusive evidence that all the requisitions of this Act with respect to such alteration and the confirmation thereof have been complied with.

(2) When any such alteration as aforesaid involves a transfer of the registered office to a part of British India other than that in which the office is at which the company is registered, a certified copy of the order confirming such change shall be delivered by the company to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies in each of such parts, and each of such Registrars shall register the same, and shall certify under his hand the registration thereof, and the Registrar for the part from which such office is transferred shall send to the Registrar for the other part all documents relating to the company registered in his office.

(3) From the date of such registration (but subject to the provisions of this Act) the memorandum or deed of settlement so altered shall be the memorandum of association or deed of settlement of the company, or, as the case may be, such substituted memorandum and articles of association shall apply to the company in the same manner as if the company were a company registered under Part I of the Indian Companies Act, 1882, with such memorandum and articles of association, and the company's deed of settlement shall cease to apply to the company. VI of 1882.

(4) For every registration under this section there shall be payable to the Registrar of Joint Stock Companies a fee of five rupees.

Effect of failure to register within three months

10. No such alteration as aforesaid shall have any operation until registration thereof has been duly effected under the last foregoing section, and, if such registration shall not have been effected within three months next after the date of the order of the Court confirming the alteration, such alteration and order and all proceedings connected therewith shall at the expiration of such period of three months become and be absolutely null and void:

Provided that the Court may, on sufficient cause shewn, revive the order on application made within a further period of one month.

Amendment of section 65 of Act VI of 1882.

11. In section 65 of the Indian Companies Act, 1882, for the words "in such language or languages" the second time they occur the words "in the English language" shall be substituted. VI of 1882.

Offg Secretary to the Government of India.

NOTICES TO MARINERS.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—MARINE DEPARTMENT.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—No. 49.

[First Publication.]

AUSTRALIA—TORRES STRAIT, INNER ROUTE.

Reported danger near Halfway islet.

THE Port master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 3 of 1895) that Coast Pilot Binstead reports that the S.S. Duke of Buckingham touched upon a shoal patch situated about 3½ miles S.S.W. from Halfway islet.

Approximate position—

Latitude	...	...	...	11° 26′ S.
Longitude	...	...	...	142° 56′ 8″ E.

As this reported danger is on or near to the recommended track and in the vicinity of the Pearn Reef, reported to have 12 feet over it at low water, mariners are cautioned with respect thereto. H.M.S. Paluma recently searched unsuccessfully for the Pearn Reef in its assigned position.

AUSTRALIA—WIDE BAY BAR.

Alteration to leading lights and beacons.

THE Port master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 4 of 1895) that the square white leading beacons, carrying the lights for crossing Wide Bay Bar through the North Channel, have been shifted, and must now be kept in line bearing N. 77° 30′ W. This line carries a minimum depth of 20 feet at low-water springs.

The triangular leading beacons for the South Channel across the Bar now bear when in line N. 52° W. As this channel is subject to rapid alteration, it must be used with caution.

The red buoy on the end of Hook Point Spit is temporarily absent. It will be replaced as soon as possible.

CHINA, EAST COAST—AMOY APPROACH.

Danger W.-N.-W. of Chapel island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 97 of 1893) that the Master of the Chinese steam-vessel Taisang, 18 feet draught, reports having touched some danger, supposed to be a rock, at 8 A.M., 15th December 1894, in a position with Chapel island, bearing E.S.E. (S. 61° E.), distant 4½ miles, or approximately in about lat. 24° 11′ 45″ N., long. 118° 9′ 30″ E.

This has been marked as three fathoms, position approximate, on the Admiralty Charts; a patch of that depth, which could not be found, having been also reported near that position by the steam-vessel Erl King in 1869.

THE PUBLIC DEMANDS RECOVERY ACT, 1880, AMENDMENT BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. BUCKLAND moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1880, be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill. He said:—

"I propose on this occasion to make a few remarks with regard to our proceedings in Select Committee, as, when I laid the Report of the Committee on the table on the last occasion, I refrained from doing so then. We met several times, and I think I may say that we discussed the Bill most thoroughly. We were unfortunately deprived of the presence of the Hon'ble the MAHARAJA OF DARBHANGA owing to his illness, and the Hon'ble the MAHARAJA OF GIDHOUR was unable to be present at all our meetings. But I think I may fairly say that every side was fairly represented and every point discussed, and the Hon'ble MR. LALMOHUN GHOSE gave us the benefit of his advice and criticism very fully. The Report of the Select Committee, which is laid on the table, has been purposely made pretty full, and it will not be necessary to advert to every one of its paragraphs.

"There are a number of amendments to be considered to-day, so that I shall not take up the time of the Council by going over the ground now more than I can help, for we shall have to deal with each matter subsequently in considering those amendments. There are some important changes in the Bill which have not been made the subject of amendments; for instance, the important changes in the section of definitions. We say in our Report that the proceedings under Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 have hitherto been mainly carried out, under the general control of the District Collector, by an officer specially appointed for the purpose of performing the functions of a Collector. The Select Committee were aware that there had been much trouble and confusion in times past, (which necessitated the passing of a short amending Act), with regard to the meaning of the word 'Collector' in the original Act. We now propose that the law should conform with the ordinary practice, and we have therefore only defined two words, namely, 'District Collector' and 'Certificate Officer,' and our object has been throughout the Act to preserve the whole power of control and supervision in the District Collector, leaving the main work to be done by the Certificate Officer, reserving at the same time to the District Collector power to do the work of the Certificate Officer if he chooses. We have also defined 'local authority' for certain purposes under section 7(g), the object being to allow payments which are made under leases of pounds, for instance, to be recovered as a public demand: they are public demands in every possible sense of the word. In section 6, we have made certain changes to make it correspond as exactly as possible to section 15. Section 6 refers to the two particular kinds of demand referred to in section 5, namely, when an estate or tenure has been sold for its own arrears and the sale-proceeds are insufficient to liquidate the same, or when arrears of revenue due from a farmer are not paid on the latest date of payment. The special feature in respect of these two kinds of demand has always been preserved, that before the demand can be contested by a civil suit, the amount stated to be due must be paid. With the exception of this feature sections 6(2) and 15(1) (which refers to all other public demands) have been made now as like as it is possible to make them. Section 11, which allows the Certificate Officer to attach moveable property when he is satisfied that the property of the judgment-debtor is likely to be concealed, or removed, or disposed of, has also been considered from another point of view. We considered whether the principle of section 256 of the Code of Civil Procedure, which allows such attachment in cases under Rs. 1,000, should not be introduced, but we came to the conclusion that it was not necessary to confer such a power under this Bill. The present law gives, in our opinion, sufficient power of attaching moveable property when required. Under the law the District Collector must be satisfied of the judgment-debtor's intention to remove his property, &c.; but we have thought it right that the Certificate Officer should record his reasons before attaching moveable property. In section 12(2) we have provided for the verification of petitions under certain sections of the Civil Procedure Code, the object being to discourage frivolous objections and make the petitioner liable to the penalties attaching to false verifications. We have similarly in the proviso to section 12 provided that the Certificate Officer may require a deposit to be made before entertaining a petition of objection. The question was whether we should make this obligatory or not, but on consideration we thought it sufficient to give the Certificate Officer power to require a deposit to be made, the object being, of course, to prevent, as far as possible, frivolous and merely dilatory objections.

"Then, in the proviso to section 13, we have somewhat altered the provision, which was in the Bill referred to the Select Committee, to allow the Certificate Officer to refer hard cases to the Civil Court. What we have done is to allow the Certificate Officer to make an order suspending proceedings before himself for a period of six months. That will give the judgment-debtor an opportunity of going to the Civil Court. We have provided in a subsequent section that the judgment-debtor must, within six months, determine whether he will file a suit. If he does not take advantage of the order, then the certificate will become absolute. Similarly, we have provided that if no suit is brought by the judgment-debtor under section 15 within six months, then the certificate will become absolute. This is provided for in section 16. In section 17, which states the grounds of cancelment or modification of a certificate by the Civil Court, we have thought it right to allow certain grounds on which the Civil Court may be moved not only to cancel but also to modify a certificate, these grounds being that the amount was not due, or that the amount due has been paid and not credited. In section 18 we have taken power for a District Collector to re-transfer any petition transferred by a Certificate Officer, so as to allow the District Collector to order that it be heard and determined by the Certificate Officer. We think this is a power of control which may be very useful for the District Collector to possess, namely, to refer a petition back to the Deputy Collector who works as the Certificate Officer.

"In section 19 we have tried to make it clear that an appeal may be preferred from an original order of the District Collector to the Commissioner. We do not propose to interfere much with the appellate sections in the Act. It is not proposed to give two appeals—first to the Collector and then to the Commissioner. It was considered that one appeal to the District Officer, except when he deals with a case himself originally (and in that case one appeal to the Commissioner), would be sufficient; that in all cases the Commissioner should have power of revision, which is a very wide power, as it will enable the Commissioner to interfere with any order on the records which come before him. Then, in section 19, we have also provided that an officer appointed to perform the functions of a Certificate Officer shall, if authorised by the District Collector, with the sanction of the Commissioner so to do, exercise the appellate powers of a District Collector subject to the general supervision and control of the District Collector. Cases may possibly arise when, the Collector being away in camp, or over-burdened with work, it may be necessary in the interests of good administration to provide for the prompt disposal of appeals. There will be ordinarily an experienced Certificate Officer at head quarters, and the District Collector should be allowed, with the sanction of the Commissioner, to authorise the Certificate Officer to hear appeals rather than allow them to accumulate and add to the already overburdened file of the Collector. It is a power which can only be exercised under the sanction of the Commissioner, and I think it ought to be allowed as a matter of administrative convenience. Section 21, which is the redemption section, provides for the payment of a penalty of one-tenth of the auction-price by a judgment-debtor who seeks to set aside a sale, and all we have done in this section is to add the words 'not less than one rupee.' I think this is a very small matter with which nobody need find fault.

"We have had an important discussion about section 21, because it appears to infringe at first sight the Act passed last year to amend the Code of Civil Procedure (Act V of 1894). The Report of the Select Committee states what is the difficulty about this section. We had some doubt whether we could override, so to speak, section 310A of the Code of Civil Procedure. But since the section was drafted we have found that under the Indian Councils Act of 1892 we have power, with the previous sanction of His Excellency in Council, to make changes in a law passed by the Council of the Governor General, and it also provides that any changes we make in a law passed by the Viceroy's Council shall not be invalid if His Excellency in Council subsequently sanctions them. This section with very small changes, which have since been introduced, was in the Bill laid before the Government of India last year, and so it may be fairly assumed that we have their permission to proceed with this section. There are two amendments on the agenda with regard to this section, particularly with reference to clause (2), which provides that if the deposit referred to be made within the said thirty days, the Certificate Officer may, if he thinks fit, pass an order cancelling the certificate and setting aside the sale, I am at liberty to say that the amendments will be accepted by the Government which suggest that instead of the words 'may if he thinks fit' the word 'shall' be substituted. This will really bring the proviso into accord with section 310A of the Code of Civil Procedure, with only a small point of difference, and it will also be in accord with the language of section 174 of the Tenancy Act. We had thought that the words 'may if he thinks fit' might properly be introduced at this stage of our experience; that the obligatory word 'shall' was probably too rigid, and that it might somewhat tend to diminish prices obtained at sales.. But after further reflection it is thought better to adopt the word 'shall' so as to bring it into accord with section 310A of the Code of Civil Procedure.

"In section 23(2) we have made changes in the wording to make it short. At one time the idea was that all the Chapters and all the Sections of the Civil Procedure Code which should apply to the enforcement of certificates should be set out at length in the Bill. The list of those Sections and Chapters as they appeared in the Bill, which was introduced on the 31st March last year, was a rather formidable one, and when the Bill was referred to Revenue Officers and Associations for criticism that list grew to even greater length. There were in fact few Sections of Chapters XIX and XX of the Code which it was not proposed to adopt for some reason or another. We have therefore by a few words made the procedure of the whole of those Chapters apply, as far as practicable, to certificate proceedings and to realization of the amounts recoverable thereunder. These general words are the words of the existing Act, but it will be my duty to move an amendment by the addition of a few words to provide for the omission of section 310A of the Code of Civil Procedure, because that section cannot stand compatibly with section 21 of our Bill.

"In section 33 we have taken advantage of the latest provision of the law regarding the service of notices by adopting, mutatis mutandis, section 45 of the last Land Acquisition Act passed in 1894. Section 33 now provides for personal service wherever it may be practicable on the judgment-debtor, for substituted service when the judgment-debtor cannot be found, or any adult male member of his family, and for alternative service by fixing a copy of the notice in certain specified places; and lastly, if the Certificate Officer shall so direct, the notice may be sent by post by a registered letter addressed to the judgment-debtor at his last known residence. Further than this we are not prepared to go. That enactment may be said to contain the collective wisdom of the Supreme Legislature on this particular point, and until some experience is gained, it seems very undesirable for us to attempt to improve upon it.

"I think I have now run over the principal sections of the Bill as they are affected by the Report of the Select Committee. I have been asked whether it is the object of this measure to make the procedure more drastic than it is now. I may safely say that that is not our intention. The origin of the amendment of this law was fully stated in this Council when the Bill was introduced, viz., that it had its rise from the judgment of the High Court in the case of Sadhusarun Singh versus Panchdeo Lall, which I daresay is pretty well known—at any rate to the legal members of this Council. The effect of that decision was to cause serious administrative inconvenience. It necessitated an appeal to the Commissioner of the Division at a distance, under the Revenue Sale Law, instead of to the officer on the spot, to set aside a sale. The effect of that decision was that only a certain number of sections of the Civil Procedure Code applied to the execution of decrees, and certificates had to be executed under the Revenue Sale Law. That was the origin of the amendment of Act VII (B.C.) of 1880. The first letter suggesting an amendment of the Act was submitted to the Government of India in September, 1889, and this Bill has been the subject of discussion ever since. The object of the Legislature at present is to incorporate the result of the experience of the working of the Act which has been gained during the last fifteen years. There is no intention to make the Act more severe or more summary. The object is to take advantage of the experience which has been gained, and we think we have produced a more reasonable and a more workable measure. The first duty before me now is to move that the Bill be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND also moved that the clauses of the Bill be considered in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"Before I proceed to call upon hon'ble members to move the respective amendments which stand in their names, I wish to state that the Government are prepared to accept the amendments which are numbered (6), (25), (28) and (29), and, therefore, it will probably be considered unnecessary for the movers of those amendments to adduce any arguments in support of them. With regard to some of the other amendments on the Agenda, we desire to be guided by the views of the Council and by the advice we may receive from our legal advisers, and as the discussions proceed the Council will be informed how far the Government can accept them, and how far the Government intends to oppose them."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM, KHAN BAHADUR, moved that at the beginning of section 2 the following be inserted:—

'This Act, so far as is consistent with the tenor thereof, shall be construed as one with Act XI of 1859, passed by the Governor General in Council, and Act VII of 1868, passed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council.'

He said:—"I may remind the Council that these words are to be found in the original Act, but they have been omitted from the present Bill, and I understand that the omission has been intentional. The Report of the Select Committee, however, does not give any reason for the omission. I think some difficulty may be created in consequence of this omission. The Council will observe that, after the passing of the decision in the well-known case, which was referred to by the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, it has been held both by the High Court and, I understand, also by the Board of Revenue that a judgment-debtor, whose property is sold under the Certificate Act, has no remedy under that Act, but that his only course is to appeal against the order of sale under section 2 of Act VII (B.C.) of 1868. The provisions of this Act are only made applicable to sales under the certificate by the inclusion of the words which have now been omitted from this Bill; so that if these words are now omitted, I am afraid that the only provision which gave a right of appeal will be removed, and a person whose property is sold will have no remedy left to him. It may be said that section 19 of the present Bill gives a right of appeal, but that section is only a re-enactment of section 16 of the Act, and it only provides for an appeal from any 'order' of a Deputy Collector, &c. It has been held that the word 'order' there does not apply to sales, but only to the orders mentioned in the previous section. Therefore the present section 19 of the Bill will not give any right of appeal to a person aggrieved by the sale of his property; and if the provisions of section 2 of Act VII of 1868 will not apply to orders passed under this Bill, there will be no remedy left. There is also another difficulty, namely, that the Bill makes no provision for the granting of a certificate to the auction-purchaser.

"Under the present practice the auction-purchaser gets a certificate under section 28 of Act XI of 1859, which is the section under which, by the Board's rules, a certificate is granted. But the provisions of that law are made applicable to the procedure of the Certificate Act by force of the words which have been omitted from the present Bill. Therefore, if these words are omitted, I am afraid that the provisions of Act XI of 1859 cannot be applied to proceedings under the Certificate Act, and there is no other provision under which a certificate can be granted to an auction-purchaser. Consequently, I submit that these words are very material, and ought not to be omitted. It is said that section 23 of the Bill makes all the provisions of Chapters XIX and XX of the Code of Civil Procedure applicable to certificate proceedings. Now, section 316 of that Code, which finds a place in Chapter XIX, makes provision for giving a certificate to a purchaser. I have great doubt whether the concluding words of section 23 (2) do not limit the applicability of the procedure under Chapters XIX and XX of the Code of Civil Procedure to certain specified things, namely the enforcement of the certificate and the realization of the amount recoverable thereunder. These words also occur in section 19 of the original Act VII of 1880. It was held by the High Court that up to the stage of the sale the procedure of the Civil Procedure Code would apply and no further. The words of the present section do not give a wider scope, so that if you cannot avail yourself of the procedure of the Civil Procedure Code after the sale, you will have no power to grant a certificate to the auction-purchaser. Therefore, I submit that these words should not be omitted, and that if they are omitted, difficulties may arise in the working of the law."

The Hon'ble MR. GHOSE said:—"I think this is a very necessary and important amendment. I desire as a member of the Select Committee to take this opportunity of saying one word in order to explain my position in reference to this and other amendments that are to be moved to-day. It ought to be borne in mind that this Bill is of a very special character, and in order to correctly appreciate and form a proper estimate of its provisions, they have to be very carefully compared with the corresponding sections of the original Act and other Acts upon cognate subjects. Without such comparison it would be impossible to say whether the Bill makes any new departure, and, if so, whether such departure is a step in advance or the reverse. But we had to go rather rapidly through the Bill in Committee, as the time before us was very limited. We had, I believe, three or four meetings, and one of them I was unfortunately unable to attend on account of absence from town. I am free to confess, therefore, that certain matters escaped my attention which I should otherwise have brought to the notice of my colleagues. Under these circumstances, I shall feel it my duty to support such of the amendments before the Council to-day as may commend themselves to my judgment, although I may not have referred to them in my note of dissent.

"Coming to the present amendment, it has been pointed out by the hon'ble mover of the amendment that the High Court has held that, but for the existence of these words in section 2 of Act VII of 1880, a judgment-debtor would have no right of appeal against a sale under the provisions of that Act. The learned Judges distinctly point out that it is only because by virtue of these words in section 2 of Act VII of 1880 you have to read the various provisions of the three Acts as if they were sections of one Act that the judgment-debtor is entitled to the benefit of section 2 of Act VII of 1868, which gives him a right of appeal to the Commissioner, and they have further held that sections 311 and 312 of the Civil Procedure Code do not apply to these cases. The result is that if you omit these words, you will leave the judgment-debtor without any right of appeal. And even if the matter admitted of any doubt, it is unquestionable that the deliberate omission of these words after the interpretation put upon them by the High Court would be a clear indication that it was the intention of the Legislature to deprive the judgment-debtor of the right of appeal. This in my opinion would be a distinctly backward step, and I therefore hope the Government may yet be able to see their way to accept this amendment."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"This is rather a technical legal subject, somewhat difficult to discuss in this manner. As far as I have been able to follow the arguments of the two learned gentlemen who have spoken, they are afraid that if these words are not restored in the Act, the judgment-debtor will be deprived of the right of appeal. That certainly was not the intention, and I do not myself see how the omission will have that effect. The object of omitting these words dates back from the time of Mr. Bosanes' connection with the Bill. In his first report he distinctly stated that 'the words by which Act VII (B.C.) of 1880 was directed to be construed as one with Act XI of 1859 and Act VII (B.C.) of 1868 have been omitted. The provisions necessary for making the certificate procedure independent and self-contained have been inserted in various sections of the Bill. The provision, however, that the powers given by the Act are to be deemed to be in addition to the powers conferred by any Act now in force, has been retained.'

"That was the object of the whole thing. The two Acts were to be made independent of each other, and we hold that the Bill before us is self-contained and amply sufficient for all practical purposes. I fail to see why it should be necessary to incorporate Act XI of 1859 with this Bill. The intention is that when a certificate has to be executed it should be executed according to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure. I fail to see why it is necessary that an auction-purchaser should be provided with a certificate under section 28 of Act XI of 1859, to which the hon'ble mover of the amendment seems to attach so much value. A certificate under section 28 of Act XI of 1859 is intended, as far as I know, for the special purposes of that Act, and does not apply to sales in execution of decrees under the Code of Civil Procedure. It seems to me, therefore, that the hon'ble gentleman's argument, so far as it lays stress on the value of that certificate, is irrelevant; because, when sales take place under the Code of Civil Procedure in execution of decrees under this Bill, the auction-purchaser will be put in possession in the ordinary way without any such certificate.

"As for the point whether the judgment-debtor is deprived of any right of appeal, the statement has been made, and I am not prepared to say that it is erroneous, but I am not prepared altogether to admit it. I would rather hear the learned Advocate-General's opinion on the point. We have certainly incorporated the two Chapters of the Code of Civil Procedure with the full intention of allowing the judgment-debtor to have every right of appeal for the purpose of setting aside the sale, as is allowed under that Code. We have not cut off any rights which attach to an auction-purchaser under the Code of Civil Procedure, and I do not see why we should go out of our way to incorporate another Act merely for the purpose of giving some fancied right of appeal, which, as far as I can see, is unnecessary. But it is such a technical question that I confess I should like to have further legal opinion upon it. For my part I do not see that the insertion of the words in the amendment is necessary. We think the Bill is sufficient in itself, and that no object will be gained by incorporating Act XI of 1859 with this Bill, whereas by incorporating it there may be some risk of confusion."

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL said:—"I desire to say a very few words in defence of my action in the Select Committee in having agreed to the omission of these words. The subject was fully considered by the Committee, I fancy, on the day on which the Hon'ble MR. GHOSE was not present. We went through the Act carefully, and considered that the addition of the words was absolutely unnecessary. I desire to call the attention of the Council to the great difference between section 19 of the Act, which is to be repealed, and section 23 of this Bill, which we ask you to pass to-day. Section 19 of the Act did not incorporate the whole procedure of Chapters XIX and XX of the Code of Civil Procedure, but only certain sections of them, and those sections were understood for many years to extend to sales as well as to the executions of decrees. But owing to the decision of the High Court, which was referred to by the hon'ble mover of the amendment, their scope was limited. The reason why I agreed to the exclusion of these words was, that as the section had now been amended by incorporating the whole of Chapters XIX and XX of the Code of Civil Procedure, the mention of Acts XI of 1859 and VII of 1868 was not now necessary. I do not think this amendment is necessary, and I believe the insertion of the words proposed will be mere surplusage."

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES PAUL said:—"I think that after the decision of the High Court, which has been referred to, it is very necessary to be careful. The Board of Revenue had decided previously that the provisions in respect to sales in execution of a decree would apply to the setting aside of sales under the Certificate Act, because a sale was not a sale until it was confirmed. But the High Court decided against such an interpretation; therefore it is necessary to be careful, and I accordingly propose one of two alternatives: either to state, as in section 23, that the procedure of Chapters XIX and XX of the Code of Civil Procedure shall, so far as it is applicable, be the procedure followed in execution proceedings to enforce such certificate, or that it shall be the procedure followed in execution proceedings in respect of such certificate. But the proposal that this Act shall be read as part of Acts XI of 1859 and Act VII of 1868, I think very objectionable. Every Act should stand by itself."

The Hon'ble MR. WILKINS said:—"I was of the same opinion as the Hon'ble MR. LYALL. All the members of the Select Committee who were present at the discussion thought that the inclusion of these words was altogether unnecessary; but now my opinion is modified to a certain extent by what has fallen in the course of the discussion, and I consider that it is necessary to put in some specific words to make it clear that there is no intention to deprive the judgment-debtor of the right of appeal, which he undoubtedly has."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I gather that there is a general unanimity of feeling that the judgment-debtor should have some remedy in cases of grave irregularity, and that in such cases he should be allowed to move for the setting aside of a sale. It is a matter which is attended with considerable difficulty. The words used by the High Court are as clear as words can be. Mr. Justice Mitter observed that 'the only remedy of a judgment-debtor whose property has been sold in execution of a certificate issued under Bengal Act VII of 1880, and who has sustained substantial injury by reason of a material irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale is by way of an appeal under section 2 of Bengal Act VII of 1868'; and further on the Judges say:—'We think that by the force of section 2 of Act VII of 1880, the provisions in section 2, Bengal Act VII of 1868, became applicable to a sale under an execution issued upon a certificate made under Act VII of 1880.'

"The Hon'ble the Advocate-General himself admits that the matter is attended with considerable difficulty; and that being so, it strikes me that it would be only wise that we should retain the provision which it is now proposed to omit. If the sense of the Council is that the judgment-debtor should have a remedy, and if it is doubtful whether without these words he would have a remedy, I think it would be right and proper that these words should not be omitted from the Bill."

The Hon'ble MAULVI SFRAJUL ISLAM, KHAN BAHADUR, in reply said:—"My object in moving this amendment is not that these two Acts should be incorporated with this Bill. If this is a self contained Act as the Hon'ble the Advocate-General seemed to think, and all the provisions necessary to confer the power of appeal are to be found in the Bill, I do not wish the Council to insert these words. But as I read the present Bill, I do not think it is a self-contained Act. Reference has been made by the Hon'ble MR. LYALL to Chapters XIX and XX of the Code of Civil Procedure, and to section 23 of the present Bill, but then Chapters XIX and XX, the provisions of which are made applicable under section 23 do not provide for any appeal at all. They deal only with execution proceedings and the setting aside of sales under section 311, that is to say, for irregularity. The appeal section is to be found in Chapter XLIII of the Code of Civil Procedure. Therefore, if these words are omitted, section 23 of this Bill will not provide a remedy, although the whole of Chapters XIX and XX be made applicable. I admit that if some words are inserted such as will give the judgment-debtor a right of appeal, there will be no necessity for the inclusion of the words which I have proposed; but if the right of appeal is not given clearly by any section of the Bill, then I think these words are necessary."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said:—"I understand the view of the hon'ble the Advocate-General to be that a small addition to section 23 of the Bill, which he will be prepared to move when the occasion arrives, will satisfy the wish of the hon'ble member that provision should be made for an appeal, and that being so, I think we ought to be satisfied with the advice of our chief legal adviser."

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble MAULVI SERAJUL ISLAM, KHAN BAHADUR, also moved that in sub-section (1) of section 5, for the words "an estate, tenure or any share of either" the words "a tenure or any share thereof" be substituted. He said :—

"I must confess that I rise with some hesitation and diffidence to move this amendment. I am aware that my amendment would be a new departure from the existing law, and that if the amendment is carried, it may affect the interests of the Government to a certain extent. Hence my hesitation. At the same time I am so much convinced of the justice of my amendment that I feel it my duty to submit it for the consideration of the Council. Under the provisions of this Bill and of the existing Act, it is a fact that a zamindari may be sold for arrears of revenue, and if the sale-proceeds are found to be insufficient to meet the Government arrear, the Government can now, under the provisions of this section, proceed against the person and other property of the judgment-debtor for the balance of the arrear due. This is also the provision of the existing law. But I submit that it will operate hardly upon the zamindar. Take, for instance, the case of a zamindari worth Rs. 25,000; it is put up for an arrear of Rs. 5,000 and is knocked down for Rs. 1,000. Every zamindari is hypothecated to the Government for its revenue, the Government revenue being the first charge upon it. The Government has a summary procedure under Act XI of 1859, otherwise called the Sunset Law, to realize its dues from such zamindari, and then when the property is sold by the Government, by the aid of its own machinery, the auction-purchaser gets the property free from all incumbrances created by the defaulting zamindar. That being so, if the price which the property fetches is inadequate, the zamindar ought not to be held responsible, and the Government should not proceed against his person and other property for the balance of the arrears due. That appears to me to be unjust and inequitable. He loses his property; it is sold for an inadequate price; it may be on account of any irregularity which might have occurred in the sale: the zamindar should not be held liable for the balance of the arrear. The object of the amendment is to remove zamindari estates from the operation of this section."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"I think I may say at once that we cannot possibly accept this amendment. The hon'ble mover is aware that this has been the law for the last 15 years. All that he says is, that the poor zamindar ought not to be held responsible. He is aware that the interests of the Government may be affected if a zamindari is sold for an inadequate price and the Government dues are not paid up, but he would let the zamindar go, and leave the Government apparently no remedy at all. That is entirely a one-sided way of looking at the matter. This law, I believe I am right in saying, has been in force for a very long time. I said in my remarks on the Report of the Select Committee, that the two demands referred to in these sections 5 and 6 stand upon a different footing to the general list of public demands. They are taken from an old Regulation, and it would be subversive of a very sound principle if the change now sought were introduced. The object of the whole of the procedure is to recover the dues of the Government, and if a zamindar fails in paying the Government revenue and his estate does not fetch an adequate price, surely the hon'ble member is not prepared to say that the Government should be deprived of its dues. This procedure is the only means I am aware of of getting the balance of the arrears out of the zamindar. I think it would be hard if the Government were to be deprived of this power."

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL said :—"I desire to say a very few words in opposition to this motion. The hon'ble mover of the amendment does not propose to exempt tenure holders from this liability, but only the owners of estates.

In other words, he proposes to make the Government the only sufferer. There is another point on which the hon'ble member scarcely stated his case very fairly. He said that the auction purchaser obtained the property free from all incumbrances, but that is only true to a certain extent because a zamindar is able to create certain incumbrances against all purchasers, and thus to deprive the Government of its revenue. I oppose the motion as being entirely one-sided."

The Hon'ble THE PRESIDENT said :—"I agree with the last two speakers in thinking that this is not a motion which can be supported by the Government."

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that in line 2 of sub-section (2) of section 6, for the words "six months" the words "one year" be subtituted. He said:—

"If this amendment is accepted, the law will remain as it is at present. Under the existing law the judgment-debtor may file a suit in the Civil Court, for the purpose of contesting a certificate, within one year from the date of the service of notice, or within one year from the date of the determination of the objection, or from the decision of any appeal preferred by him to the revenue authorities. It is now proposed to reduce this term and to restrict, so far as time is concerned, the opportunities which the judgment-debtor has hitherto had for contesting a certificate. I have read very carefully the papers which have been circulated, and have listened very attentively to the hon'ble member in charge of the Bill, and I must say that I fail to see that any justification has been made out for the reduction of the limit of time. No complaint has ever been made against the operation of the existing law. This is a restrictive measure so far as the opportunities of contesting a certificate are concerned; and that being so, it is incumbent on the Government to bring forward the amplest justification for a provision of this kind, and I submit that no such justification has been made out. I hope that under these circumstances the existing period of one year will be retained."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said :—"I think the hon'ble member has made a little slip. He says that under the present law a judgment-debtor may bring a suit within one year from the date of the service of notice, within one year from the date of a petition of objection, or within one year from the date of an appeal. If he will look at section 6, sub-section (b) of the existing law, he will find it stated that a judgment-debtor may at any time within one year after service upon him of such notice, as is mentioned in section 10, bring his suit. Nothing is said there of the period of limitation running from the date of the petition of objection, or from the date of the appeal. We have in Select Committee extended in section 6 (2) the term from which the date of the right to appeal begins to run; what we have allowed by section 6 (2) is that the judgment-debtor shall have a clear period of six months, if he has filed a petition of objection, after the determination thereof, or if he has appealed after the decision of such appeal, within which to consider whether it is worth his while to prefer a suit. This suggestion emanated from the Board of Revenue with regard to section 15, and it is from that section that we imported it. I therefore cannot see any justification for allowing a longer period of time. The object should be to clear off work, and not to allow these cases to hang on. I think the judgment-debtor will have ample time to make up his mind whether he will bring a suit or not."

The Motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE also moved that the whole of the proviso to sub-section (2) of section 6, marked (a), commencing with the words "has omitted to state" and ending with the words "that there was good reason for such omission, and" be omitted. He said:—

"The effect of this proviso is to place the judgment-debtor who goes straight to the Civil Court in a better position than the judgment-debtor who goes to Court after preferring an appeal to the Revenue authorities. The judgment-debtor who goes to the Civil Court may prefer whatever grounds of appeal he chooses, but the judgment-debtor who has once been to the Revenue authorities will not be allowed in his appeal to the Civil Court to prefer other grounds than those which he has already submitted to the Revenue authorities. There may have been an omission on the part of his legal adviser, but he is precluded from supplying the omission, except with the leave of the Court, and unless sufficient grounds are shown. The object of my amendment is to place both classes of judgment debtors in the same position, and that not by restricting the right which the one possesses, but by placing both on the same footing of justice and freedom."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"The hon'ble gentleman has brought his amendment upon section 6 (2). He will find that the words to which he objects to in this sub-section are only copied into it from section 8 (b) of the existing Act. He will find it there stated, with regard to the majority of public demands, that any judgment-debtor can bring a suit in the Civil Court to contest his liability, but no suit shall be entertained unless the judgment-debtor has stated in a petition to the Collector the ground upon which he claims to have such certificate cancelled, or unless, having omitted to state such ground in such petition, he can satisfy the Civil Court that there was good reason for such omission. That is the existing provision with regard to the majority of public demands under section 8 (b) of Act VII (B.C.) of 1880. All we propose to do is, to incorporate the same provision in section 6 (2). It is obvious that, when a man goes to the Civil Court direct, he will be required to state his whole case there; but if he prefers to go in a roundabout way by presenting a petition of objection first, he should state his case at once. It is believed to be a sound principle of law that a man should show his whole case—his whole hand—and not keep in the background certain facts to be laid before a later Court. That is the whole point."

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL said:—"The object of this provision in my view is to reduce litigation. If a man has a good case, there is no reason why he should not declare it before the Collector, who would in all probability decide in his favour. I can see no reason why he should be allowed to make reservations before the Collector, and not state his whole case there. This provision is a reproduction of section 33 of Act XI of 1859. The Imperial Council has decided that, in sales of estates for arrears of revenue, the zamindar who has an objection to urge against the sale of his estate should state his whole case to the Commissioner in the first instance, and not be allowed to keep back a part of his case for the Civil Court; and that provision has been incorporated into the present Bill."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE in reply said:—"With all deference, I desire to submit that the point I raised has not been met. It is admitted that the two classes of judgment-debtors are treated in a different manner. The one who goes to the Civil Court direct is allowed to state what he likes; the other is not so privileged. Practically, the man who shows his confidence in the Revenue authorities is placed in a worse position than he who goes to the Civil Court in the first instance. It may be that the Government of India has not affirmed the principle for which I am contending; but we are now amending the law, and it is but fair that the two classes of judgment debtors should be placed upon the same footing. I hope that under these circumstances this amendment will be accepted by the Council."

The Motion was put and negatived.

The Hon'ble MR. R. C. DUTT moved that the concluding portion of clause (2) of section 6, beginning with the words "and has not paid such arrears" be omitted. He said:—

"This portion of the clause prevents a judgment-debtor from going to the Civil Court unless the money demanded has been paid within 15 days.

This has been the law for the last 15 years, but as we are amending the law, I think it is open to any hon'ble member to suggest the 'omission' of any clause which is both unnecessary and open to objection. I think these words unnecessary, because, as far as my experience goes, this clause does not help the work of collection in any appreciable degree. When a man from whom money is due has any property, we can, by following the procedure of the Certificate Act, obtain the money without restricting his right to go to the Civil Court. On the other hand, this is a provision which the judgment-debtor is in most cases unable to comply with. Suppose a man has taken farm of an estate from the Government for a number of years, and is unable on account of an inundation or other cause to pay up the amount in due time? The question is whether, if he brings an objection before the Collector, pleading that the inundation is due to breach of an embankment kept up by the Government, and the Collector rejects that ground of objection, then, before he can go to the Civil Court, he must pay the money within 15 days after the order is passed. It is very often impossible for a man under such circumstances to pay the money, and we are therefore imposing a sort of impossible condition upon him. As I have already said, it is not a condition which helps us in realising the money when a man is insolvent. But when a man is solvent, when he has any property, we find no difficulty in recovering the money, and therefore I would let him go to the Court to contest the certificate. I suggest this all the more, because the certificate is made by the Revenue authorities, and if we are wrong in any way, let the judgment-debtor go to the Court and prove that we are wrong. As the law now stands, he must first put down the money within 15 days before he can show us that we are wrong and have his remedy. For these reasons I think that, although this has been the law for the last 15 years, the law should be amended."

The Hon'ble MR. LYALL, with the permission of the President, asked the hon'ble mover of the amendment to state whether he based his proposal on any case of hardship within his own knowledge?

The Hon'ble MR. R. C. DUTT replied:—"There have been cases similar to the case supposed. There has not been any case that I know of exactly on all fours with the supposed case, but there have been analogous cases in which I have found it impossible for the man to pay the money within 15 days. I cannot refer just now to any particular case exactly similar to the case I have supposed."

The Hon'ble MR. BUCKLAND said:—"I am not prepared to accept this amendment on behalf of the Government. The hon'ble member said he considered it unnecessary because the present procedure did not help us in making realizations The procedure requires that the judgment-debtor, before making an objection, should pay up the money, and if that does not help us, I do not know what will. But though the hon'ble member admits that this has been the law for 15 years, he has not consulted the proceedings of the Council in connection with the passing of this law. It has been my lot to call attention to the difference between these two sections in the Act. The demands referred to in these sections (5 and 6) were intended, when the Bill, which became Act VII (B.C.) of 1880, was introduced, to be called 'certificates absolute.' That expression was subsequently dropped, but afterwards they were called 'certificates of the 1st class.' I shall read a few words to show what Mr. Field, who was in charge of the Bill, meant. He said on the 3rd April, 1880:—

'In respect of these two classes of arrears, what was then termed a Certificate Absolute was proposed to be made, that is to say, a certificate which should have to all intents and purposes the force of a final decree of the Civil Court. In the margin of the Bill Mr. Field had, however, pointed out an old Regulation of the Bengal Code which had, in all probability, been overlooked when the Act of 1868 was before the Council. The effect of that Regulation was that if a person were called upon by the Collector to pay a sum of public revenue, and at the time made an objection in writing and then paid the amount, such person could afterwards bring a suit in the Civil Court to contest his liability. It appeared to the Select Committee desirable to bring that Regulation within the purview of the Bill. The Committee have accordingly done so, and the right which the Regulation gave of contesting the liability to pay has been left intact, but the provision that the amount must first be paid up has been retained. Certificates of this class would no longer be Certificates Absolute, and the Committee therefore struck out the term absolute. The result is to leave the law as it was before, only that this law is now contained in one Act, instead of being as it was before to be sought for in an Act and a section of an old Regulation.'

"So that the law to which the hon'ble mover of the amendment takes exception has been the law for much more than 15 years, and on the part of Government I am not prepared to alter it in the way proposed."

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"I have heard it said in the course of these debates more than once that this law has been more than 15 years old. We legislate with the view of introducing changes in the law. I think this amendment deserves the support of the Council. My hon'ble friend, the mover of the amendment, has not been able to cite specific instances, but the fact which he asserts is that to make this demand must deter the judgment-debtor from bringing his suit. If he has been unable to pay the money, and a certificate has been made, it stands to reason that he will have considerable difficulty in paying the money before launching into expensive litigation. Zamindars do not find difficulty in recovering their rents. The whole question between the Government and the raiyat is whether the raiyat should pay the money or not? He denies his liability to pay, but you make him pay before he can contest his liability. This, I submit, is inverting the natural law of justice. The man denies his liability, the State compels him to make the payment, and then gives him leave to contest his liability. This is not, in my judgment, the light in which we ought to amend the law, and I therefore think this amendment ought to be accepted by the Council."

The Hon'ble MR. WILKINS said:—"The hon'ble member who has just spoken has not quite correctly stated the object of legislation when he says that we legislate to introduce changes into the law. I think it may be more fairly said that we legislate and make changes in the law when such changes are shown to be necessary and desirable, not otherwise. In the present instance, I see no necessity for any change. An hon'ble member had in the course of these discussions expressed a considerable amount of sympathy for the individual whom he has been pleased to call the poor and oppressed raiyat. As I read section 6, the poor and oppressed raiyat does not come into consideration at all. It refers to a judgment-debtor in respect of certain arrears which are still due after an estate or tenure has been sold, or in respect of arrears due from a farmer who has not paid; therefore I think that this particular part (b) of clause (2) should be retained, and that for a very essential reason—because, if the objector (the judgment-debtor) has money to file a civil suit, he has money to pay the arrears which are undoubtedly due from him. He is allowed every possible opportunity of objecting against the payment of an amount undoubtedly due, and he should not have the further opportunity of filing a civil suit until he has paid the money."

The Hon'ble MR. R. C. DUTT in reply said:—"I do not think that I can quite follow the reasoning of the hon'ble gentleman who has last spoken. It very often happens that an estate is farmed to a farmer for a large sum of money. It would be very difficult for him to find all that money and pay it down before going to the Civil Court, whereas the initial expense of filing a civil suit will not be anything like Rs. 2,000 or Rs. 3,000 which he may have to pay the State. If in such case he has been unable to pay, owing to floods caused by a breach of a Government embankment for instance, we ought to allow him to contest his liability without imposing upon him the condition to pay a large amount within 15 days, which it would be impossible for him to do."

The Motion being put, the Council divided:—

Ayes 7.	Noes 8.
The Hon'ble Maulvi Muhammad Yusuf Khan Bahadur.	The Hon'ble Mr. Wilkins.
The Hon'ble Mr. Womack.	The Hon'ble Mr. Buckland.
The Hon'ble Maulvi Serajul Islam Khan Bahadur.	The Hon'ble Mr. Collier.
The Hon'ble Mr. Ghose.	The Hon'ble Maulvi Abdul Jubbar Khan Bahadur.
The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee.	The Hon'ble Mr. Bourdillon.
The Hon'ble Mr. Dutt.	The Hon'ble Mr. Lyall.
The Hon'ble Mr. Cotton.	The Hon'ble Sir John Lambert.
	The Hon'ble Sir Charles Paul.

So the Motion was lost.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE moved that the following words be added at the end of the proviso to sub-section (2) of section 6:—

'or in any case in which an appeal has been preferred under section nineteen within fifteen days of the determination of such appeal.'

The Motion was put and agreed to.

CALCUTTA;
The 26th March, 1895.

GORDON LEITH,
Assistant Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal,
Legislative Department.

(To be continued in the next Gazette.)

LIBERALITY OF BABU GOPAL LAL SEAL OF CALCUTTA.

No. 1577C., dated Calcutta, the 26th March 1895.

From—F. J. JOHNSTONE, Esq., MEM. INST. C. ENGRS., Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Public Works Department,

To—The Commissioner of the Burdwan Division.

WITH reference to your memorandum No. 821T.—J.M., dated 8th March 1895, forwarding copy of a letter from the Covenanted Deputy Collector, Howrah, in which he reports that the balance of the contribution of Rs. 30,000 made by Babu Gopal Lal Seal towards the construction of the Elliott bridge across the Bharpara khal near the Civil Engineering College, Sibpur, was paid up by that gentleman on the 6th February 1895, I am directed to say that in accepting the contribution under reference, the Lieutenant-Governor desires that you will be so good as to convey to Babu Gopal Lal Seal His Honour's thanks for his liberality and public spirit.

2. This letter will be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

Pabna.—Rainfall nil. Weather warm and partially cloudy. Prospects favourable, but more rain wanted. Common rice selling from 14 to 17 seers per rupee. Fodder and water-supply sufficient.

Dacca.—Rainfall ·63. Weather seasonable. Prospects of standing crops fair. Recent rain has done good. More rain wanted. Ploughing going on. Common rice sells from 12 to 20 seers per rupee. Cattle-disease in some places. Fodder plentiful.

Chittagong.—Rainfall nil. Weather growing hot. Standing crops almost withering for want of rain. Prices steady. Water and fodder sufficient.

Patna.—Rainfall ·02. Harvesting of rabi crops and collection of opium in progress. Outturn expected to be good. Common rice selling at 18 seers per rupee.

Gaya.—Rainfall at Sadar ·18. Weather generally seasonable. Harvesting of rabi crops in progress. Collection of opium approaching completion. Mango blossoming Kahua ripening. Fodder and water sufficient. Price of rice about normal:—

Champaran.—Rainfall nil. Harvesting of wheat in progress. Indigo doing well. Collection of opium approaching completion. Common rice selling at 16 seers per rupee. Fodder and water for cattle sufficient.

Darbhanga.—Weather slightly cloudy. Rabi harvest in progress. Lands being ploughed for early paddy sowings. Mango blossoms considerably injured by unfavourable weather. Prices almost stationary.

Bhagalpur.—Weather cool with north-east wind. Rabi harvest continues with good results. Indigo doing well. Fodder and water sufficient.

Purnea.—Rainfall ·26. Rain is still needed. Weather hotter with high winds generally. Land is being prepared for and sown with bhadoi paddy. Indigo sowings are nearly completed. Harvesting of wheat has commenced; outturn will be 15 or 16 annas. Price of common rice varies from 15 to 24 seers per rupee. Fodder and water sufficient.

Cuttack.—Weather seasonable with a few drops of rain. Harvesting of dalua (spring rice) commenced in places. Rain wanted for ploughing. Outturn of tobacco estimated to be 16 annas. Condition of cattle good. Fodder sufficient. Rice sells from 11 seers 13 chitaks to 26 seers per rupee.

Hazaribagh.—Weather warm. Slight rain in places. Rabi harvest practically completed. Ploughing for bhadoi crops in progress. Fodder scanty. Water sufficient.

General Summary.—There was rain over all the districts of Central Bengal during the week, and in Dacca, Dinajpur, Gaya and Purnea; elsewhere there was little or none The rain has been beneficial to the spring sowings of rice which are doing well. But in Northern Bengal more rain is required for the jute sowings, and in Chittagong the standing crops are said to be withering from drought. The rabi harvest is in progress, and the yield is generally reported good. The collection of opium is approaching completion, and a fair outturn is expected. No cattle-disease is reported except in parts of Rangpur and Dacca. In Hazaribagh the fodder-supply is said to be scanty. The price of common rice continues generally steady and normal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

* Mean for 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period [illegible]. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The mean amount of rainfall is the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the subdivisional stations for the period in question. The mean is obtained by adding together the totals of the returns from all the stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Saturday, the 23rd of March 1895.

In years. The variations are negative when the mean of the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater. The numbers denoting cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head District observations of rainfall the normal is the mean for the week ending Saturday, the 23rd of March 1895. The means of the district are the numerical average of the rainfall returned received in the district, i.e., from total rainfall at the subdivisional stations during the past ten years.

Explanation.—'...' indicates that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rain fall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at 8-10 a.m. of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 26th March 1895.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING 8 A.M., SATURDAY, THE 23RD OF MARCH 1895.

THE week just past has been peculiar as regards weather conditions in the occurrence of two series of disturbances which caused a large fall of temperature, but were attended in some cases by no rainfall, and in most of the others by very light showers. The first series occurred in the early part of the week, on Sunday and Monday the 17th and 18th, on which days very light showers were reported from scattered stations in the western half of the province, and heavier showers from the extreme east. Though the rainfall was so light, the temperature change was large, especially in the western districts, as from excess varying up to 7° on Sunday morning, the difference from the normal changed to defect of as much. In Chota Nagpur the change was about 12°. These large changes followed a rapid rise of pressure in Chota Nagpur; the rise of pressure continued with moderate rapidity for some days, resulting in relatively high readings in Bengal as compared with the south of the Bay, and a northerly or north-westerly wind circulation on the 19th and 20th in the north-west angle of the Bay.

Pressure began to fall on the 20th, but somewhat more rapidly in the south of Burma than elsewhere, and the resulting distribution was peculiar in there being a high pressure area over Bengal and a depression in the south of Burma. Probably owing to this arrangement, and the resulting north-westerly winds, the second series of disturbances commenced. Thunder-storms usually accompanied by light showers of rain occurred in all districts, in the west on Wednesday, the 20th only, but in the central and eastern districts on the 21st as well. The heaviest showers fell in East Bengal. A very rapid fall of temperature began, in the west and spread over the province. On the 20th defect in mean temperature was 8° in Chota Nagpur; on the 21st it was over 10° in part of Chota Nagpur, South-West Bengal and East Bengal, while in North Bengal it was over 11°. This large defect slowly diminished, but at the end of the week still amounted to about 4°. During the latter half of the week pressure generally fell, but the low readings in Burma continued and the northerly winds in the east of the Bay.

Pressure.—Owing to the steady rise of pressure during the first half of the week mean values for the week are above the normal, though not by very large amounts. Excess varies from ·02 inch at a few scattered places to ·07 inch in part of Bihar and North Bengal.

Temperature.—As stated above, the changes in temperature have been very large. The highest reading in Bihar was 106·6° and the lowest 55·7°, giving a range of 51°; the highest in South-West Bengal 103·9° and the lowest 56·3°, the range being 47·6°. The means for the various districts are all below the normal by less than 2° in East Bengal, Bihar and Orissa, by 2° in North Bengal, 3° in South-West Bengal and 4·4° in Chota Nagpur.

The actual temperatures registered during the week, and their variations from the normal temperature of the season, are clearly seen in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period:—

Rainfall.—Light showers fell in places on every day of the week except the last two, but they were most frequent in the southern districts, and especially in East Bengal. Showers were most numerous on the 20th and 21st, during which days rain fell at nearly all stations except in Bihar. As the falls were light, the averages for the various districts are not large, but are slightly above the normal in all districts except North Bengal. The average fall for East Bengal is about half an inch, and in the other districts a quarter of an inch except Behar, where it is less than a tenth.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the six meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 23rd of March 1895 :—
